Stassen Files Claim To Lead In GOP Chase

300,000 May Vote In Nebraska Today

OMAHA, April 12 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen filed claim to top place in the national GOP presidential race today as he fought a sharp closing battle with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Sen. Robert A. Taft for victory in tomorrow's Nebraska primary.

With cloudy skies forecast, upwards of 300,000 Nebraskans are expected to vote tomorrow in Democratic and Republican contests.

The majority of them will stamp the GOP ballot for the one of seven men they would like to see nominated for President in the Philadelphia June convention.

The result, expected to govern the state's 15 convention votes on the first ballot or longer, may play an oversized part in the final selection of the nominee.

Riding the crest of his Wisconsin victory, Stassen took time out in a final round of campaigning here to lay claim to 300 votes on the first Philadelphia test. A 548-vote total is needed to nominate.

Stassen Claims Victory

Stassen claimed victory by a close margin in tomorrow's free-for-all contest here. He said he may lag in early returns, but contended he will nose out Dewey and Taft on the final count when the farm vote is in.

He said 19 of the 32 candidates running for the 15 Republican delegate posts favor his candidacy. Taft and Dewey both claimed a large share of this vote.

Most of the delegate candidates said they will follow the primary results when they cast their first ballot at Philadelphia.

Democrats elect a 12-vote delegate slate expected to support President Truman for the nomination. Mr. Truman's name is the only one on his party's presidential ballot. Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) is the sole contender for vice presidential endorsement.

Dewey, appealing to Nebraska voters in a radio speech from Albany tonight, was on record with a claim that he will emerge as the victor tomorrow.

Stassen tonight cited the recent revolt in Bogota, Colombia, as he renewed his plea for outlawing the Communist Party.

Victory For Taft Is Seen

Sen. Hugh Butler (R-Neb), Taft's local manager, said the Ohioan's campaign "has been carried on by Nebraskans and he will be chosen by Nebraskans."

Most of the state's GOP politicians were crediting Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, who says he doesn't want the nomination, with at least fourth place in tomorrow's voting.

Despite his second-place run in Wisconsin, few here thought Gen. Douglas MacArthur would run better than fifth in the seven-man contest.

There has been no campaign under way here for Gov. Earl Warren of California or House Speaker Joseph Martin of Massachusetts.

Stassen's Prediction Ridiculed

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—A Dewey campaign manager today ridiculed Harold E. Stassen's prediction that he will have 300 votes on the first roll call of the Republican presidential nominating convention.

The Dewey spokesman was Herbert Brownell, Jr., former national party chairman who managed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's 1944 presidential campaign against President Roosevelt.

Henry Wallace's Mother Succumbs

DES MOINES, April 12 (AP)—The mother of Third Party Presidential Candidate Henry Wallace, Mrs. May Wallace, 80, died here today following a long illness.

At her bedside as death came at 6:15 p. m. (CST) were four of her children—Henry, James, Mrs. Annabelle J. McLay, Birmingham, Mich., and Mrs. Mary O. Bruggmann, wife of the Swiss minister to the United States.

Henry and Mrs. McLay had traveled by automobile from Chicago yesterday, arriving here late last night.

Two other children, Mrs. Ruth Wijkman, wife of the Swedish minister to Canada, Ottawa, Canada, and John B., St. Petersburg, Fla., were en route to Des Moines.

Mrs. Wallace was the widow of Henry C. Wallace, who served as Secretary of Agriculture under Presidents Harding and Coolidge.

Since the death of her husband in Washington, D. C., in October, 1924, she had lived quietly in Des Moines.

During the time her husband was in the cabinets of two Republican Presidents, and her son, Henry, served as Secretary of Agriculture, Vice President and Secretary of Commerce under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Wallace lived quietly, taking little interest in politics herself.

Members of the family said a rumor was untrue that Mrs. Wallace disapproved of Henry A. Wallace's third party movement.

Trolley Runs Wild At Boston: Score Of Persons Hurt

BOSTON, April 12 (AP) — At least 20 persons were injured tonight, several critically, when a Metropolitan Transit Authority surface car sped out of control at Egleston Square station and crashed into a crowd of approximately 50 persons waiting on the platform.

Eyewitnesses said the car ran out of control for about a quarter of a mile along a steep downgrade on Columbus Avenue. The car left the tracks after taking a sharp curve leading into the station.

As it sped into the station, the car sheared off an upright, causing the building roof to sag and rake along the top of the car.

The accident reduced the wooden trolley to a mass of splinters.

Moscow Has Atom Secret But No Bomb

Forrestal Argues For Draft And UMT

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP) — Russia knows now how to make the atom bomb but there is no telling when she will be able actually to do it, Defense Secretary Forrestal said today.

At the same time he said that pushbutton warfare is still a dream for the future, and that total warfare still depends on manpower—"not in the mass, but diffused through thousands of specialties."

Forrestal testified before the House Armed Forces Committee. It is considering a hotly-argued bill to draft men 19 through 25 years of age. One argument of its critics is that atomic and other scientific strides have made the old concept of land armies out of date.

One sentence of the Secretary's prepared statement read: "The United States posseses the knowledge and the capacity to make the atomic bomb, and as yet the Soviets do not."

It is his understanding, Forrestal elaborated, that Russia knows how to make the bomb but won't have the capacity to make it for some time yet. He endorsed a statement by Dr. Edmund Walsh, of Georgetown University, that it would take several years.

Argues For Draft, UMT

But he agreed with Rep. Hebert (D-La), who suggested that we have no way of knowing when Russia will acquire that capacity.

"I say they do not have it. I did not say they do not have the secret," Forrestal testified.

Forrestal argued for the peacetime draft and for universal military training as steps for peace, not war. He told the committee:

"The whole aim and effort of the United States is to attain the objective of peace, to prevent differences between nations from developing into armed conflict, until the United Nations has gained the maturity and both the moral and physical force with which to deal with any international act of aggression."

He said he believes that if the United States makes clear it will and can prevent the civilization of Western Europe from being destroyed "we shall have peace."

"An aggressor will be forewarned of our determination backed by our strength," he added.

Condition Not "Critical"

Several times, Forrestal refused to describe present world conditions as "critical." He preferred to say there is "a state of tension."

"I don't like to use the word crisis in the sense that I expect war tomorrow or next Monday," he said. "I do not."

"The odds are not yet on Russia or war. The odds are still on the United States and peace. And if the United States acts at once and with firm and resolute purpose, the odds will continue to rest on the United States and peace through the years ahead.

Government Girl Figures In "Leak" Of Export Figures

Inadvertently Gave Friend Secret Data

WASHINGTON, April 12. (AP)—Miss Dorothy Bayles, a Commerce Department economist, testified today she inadvertently gave a girl friend secret government information on export plans for fats and oils.

Chairman August Andresen (R-Minn), of the House committee investigating commodity speculation, previously had said "leaks" of government food information had enabled some speculators to make fat profits.

Other witnesses told the committee the information Miss Bayles disclosed to a friend, on 1947 fourth quarter oil and fat allocations for export, was read before a meeting of shortening manufacturers last September 9. This was one day before the government officially announced the figures.

Miss Bayles testified she gave the information confidentially to Miss Geraldine Canning, secretary to Eugene W. Brockenbrough who is executive vice president of the Institute of Shortening Manufacturers.

Unable To Explain Jump

She testified that Miss Canning formerly had worked as her assistant in the Commerce Department and they were close friends. She explained the circumstances this way:

On last September 5 there was a sharp jump in the price of lard on commodity markets and she, as an economist, could not explain what had happened. She called Miss Canning to learn if the shortening trade association could explain it.

The following Monday, September 8, Miss Bayles was in a meeting of government officials and saw the unreleased allocations for foreign export, which were virtually double those for the previous three months.

She then was convinced, she testified, that there must have been a leak on export planning that caused the market jump the previous Friday.

As the meeting of government officials adjourned, she said, one official said a press release probably would be issued later in the day on the allocations, which have a great bearing on price levels in the oil and fat market.

"Rattled Out The Figures"

As was her practice of good relations with industry, Miss Bayles testified, she began calling trade associations to tell them to expect a news release.

When she called the shortening institute office and told Miss Canning to watch for the release, Miss

Marshall Says World Communism To Blame For Revolt In Bogota

Delegates Determined To Resume Conference In Wrecked City; Colombia Breaks With USSR

BOGOTA, April 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall blamed international Communism today for the unsuccessful Bogota revolution.

Marshall first made his statement to other delegates attending the Inter-American Conference and later repeated it for publication.

"This situation," Marshall said, "must not be judged on a local basis, however tragic the immediate results to the Colombian people. The occurrence goes far beyond Colombia.

"It is the same definite pattern as occurrences which provoked strikes in France and Italy and that is endeavoring to prejudice the situation in Italy where elections will be held on April 18. In actions we take here regarding the present situation, we must keep clearly in mind the fact that this is a world affair—not merely Colombian or Latin American."

Delegates Determined To Remain

Marshall thus became the first delegate outside the Colombian government to publicly attribute the revolution to world Communism and indirectly to Moscow.

A determination of delegates to remain here despite the revolt which broke out last Friday is expected to be ratified formally tomorrow.

Sources close to Secretary Marshall had said that the United States had taken the consistent position that the Inter-American Conference must continue in Bogota.

It was learned the turning point of the delegates' predicted decision to remain in Bogota was based, among other things, on two considerations.

First, assurances by the Colombian government that the delegates would be supplied with food and transportation. Second, the knowledge that in case of an emergency, the United States would co-operate with Colombia in evacuating up to 250 persons daily to Panama.

It was announced that the only personnel from the United States delegation which Marshall has permitted to leave this stricken city are less essential members of the secretarial staff.

Colombia Breaks With Russia

In having some of the staff members moved out of Bogota to the Canal Zone for transfer to the United States, it was announced, Secretary Marshall's major object was to limit the strain on the scanty food supply.

The personnel shift was not made because of the general situation, it was said.

Meanwhile the Colombian government has announced that it had

Jewish And Arab Forces Battling In Judean Hills

Haganah Fighters Capture Villages

JERUSALEM, April 12 (AP) — A Jewish-Arab battle raged tonight in the Judean hills. The Jews appeared to be in full control of the eastern half of a 20-mile stretch of vital supply highway in the area.

The Arab villages of Deir Yassin, Kastel and Kolonia in the area have been captured by the Jews. The Jews are holding fast in their colonies of Matza, Kiriat Abavim and Arza.

The Arabs blazed away tonight with rifle, automatic weapon and light artillery fire in an attempt to cut through these positions which flank the mountain road over which the Jews must send supplies to food-short Jerusalem.

Other Battles Reported

Although the heaviest fighting tonight was concentrated in the Judean hills, bitter battles were reported today in other sections of the Holy Land.

Haganah, the Jewish army, said Arabs were beaten back in trying to attack the Jewish settlement of Ramat Yehhannan. "The Hill of Jan," named in honor of Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts, of South Africa.

Palestine police said Jews attacked the Arab village of Kfar Mashir Abdin near the Sea of Galilee and blew up a number of houses.

The British army said a shipload of Jewish refugees without visas to enter Palestine had been intercepted by the navy in Palestine coastal waters and were being escorted to Haifa. It was reported without confirmation that about 600 immigrants are aboard the vessel. They will be transshipped to detention camps in Cyprus in British ships.

Airport To Curtail Operation

It was announced officially in Tel Aviv that Palestine's big Lydda airport would go on half-time operation April 17. After that date, all night air activities will be suspended.

The curtailment was taken as the result of the uncertain geographical position of Lydda astride the borderline between the Jewish and Arab zones as drafted in the United Nations partition plan.

Haganah escorted photographers to Kastel today to prove its claims that the hilltop fortress five miles west of Jerusalem remains in Jewish hands. Kastel commands a part of the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway.

Truce Commission Proposed

LAKE SUCCESS, April 12 (AP) — Canada suggested today that the Security Council send a United Nations commission to Palestine to supervise a truce.

Authoritative sources said the

One-Hour Strike Fails To Paralyze Italian Activity

ROME, April 12 (AP)—A one-hour nationwide general strike and fresh violence in the south hit Italy today—just six days before the general elections.

The strike was called by the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGIL) in protest against the violent death of 35 Sicilian workers and labor leaders during the past two years.

Reports reaching Rome indicated the strike went off in a quiet and orderly fashion over the entire nation. There was no general paralysis of activity, as predicted by the men who issued the strike call.

In the Eternal City itself many stores remained open. Factories were idle. Buses and street cars halted, but telephone service was not disrupted.

The pre-election violence flared at Lizzanello, in the southern province of Lecce. A bomb tossed into the midst of a Communist-led popular front meeting killed Cesare Trove, 56, and Cesare Longo, 16, and wounded 20 other persons.

In an apparent move to forestall any leftist demonstrations over the incident, the government dispatched an inspector of public safety to the scene to direct an investigation.

Communist newspapers charged Fascists with the bombing, and protested the lack of protection given the popular front meeting.

Italian Gold To Be Returned

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP) — Italy's anti-Communist parties got more campaign ammunition today: The Western Powers decided to return $31,000,000 in gold looted by the Nazis.

The State Department said the British - French - American Gold Commission in Brussels has approved an Italian government claim and will return this gold soon.

The announcement obviously was another of the long-planned moves by the Western Powers to strengthen Italian government forces in the closing days of the hectic political fight for control of Italy.

Soviets Reported Boosting German Occupation Force

BERLIN, April 13 (AP)—Allied intelligence reports said today the Russians were increasing their occupation forces in Germany which entirely surround the City of Berlin.

The increases were said to be mostly MVD (secret police) units concerned with executing new Russian border and traffic controls. German press reports spoke also of new infantry units moved into the Soviet zone.

Several months ago informed estimates placed Soviet troop strength in Germany at more than 300,000, about three times the American total. Present Soviet strength is unknown. American troops in Berlin number about 5,500.

Meanwhile the Western Powers were seeking means of relaxing or getting around the Soviet squeeze against them in Berlin, as evidenced in restrictions on traffic and communications between the city and Western Germany.

Rail movements out of Berlin remained suspended because of a Soviet demand that all passengers and cargo pass Soviet inspection.

The Americans started an air freight service to move out household goods of families returning to the United States or being transferred to the American occupation zone.

Soviets Hold Up U.S. Train

VIENNA, Tuesday, April 13 (AP) — United States military police said early today that Russian border guards held an American military train for four minutes last night at a check point on the Emms River bridge.

Two British trains were detained for four hours and one hour respectively yesterday morning at another point.

The American train, carrying United States military and civilian personnel from the American zone of Austria across the Soviet zone into Vienna, halted at 11:43 p. m. and was cleared by Russian guards at 11:47.

Controversy Over Senate Approves McCabe As Reserve Board Member

THOMAS B. McCABE

WASHINGTON, April 12. (AP)—The Senate confirmed today, after two and a half months of controversy, President Truman's appointment of Thomas B. McCabe as a member of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors.

Mr. Truman has announced that he will make the Pennsylvania industrialist-banker chairman of the board, dropping Marriner S. Eccles to vice-chairman.

McCabe, 54, is president of the Scott Paper Company, Chester, Pa., and chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia.

Approval of his nomination was by standing vote, with several senators dissenting.

Among them was Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), who told the Senate a southerner should have been named. With McCabe's appointment, four of the seven governors come from Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, Fulbright said.

100,000 Miners Expected To Be At Work Today

PITTSBURGH, April 12 (AP) — Conservative estimates indicated at least 100,000 coal miners will be back at their jobs tomorrow. This includes 35,000 Eastern Pennsylvania anthracite miners who walked out in sympathy with the soft-coal pension demands.

Other miners would be idle because mines have to be prepared for reopening. Still others indicated they would wait to see what happens at Wednesday's contempt hearing against United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis.

Immediate back-to-work movements developed in Western Missouri, Kansas and West Virginia.

Tribute Paid To Roosevelt By Churchill

Says Troubles Now Less Than FDR Faced

LONDON, April 12 (AP) — Winston Churchill, standing beside Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, demanded tonight that Britain and America face their postwar difficulties with the courage of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The British Commonwealth will march resolutely beside the United States and "thus all will come right," Churchill said.

Britain's wartime prime minister spoke at a dinner climaxing a day of tribute by his country to his American colleague, who died three years ago today at Warm Springs, Ga.

He followed Mrs. Roosevelt, who unveiled a memorial statue of her husband earlier in the day before King George VI. and a crowd of silent thousands in Grosvenor Square.

Mrs. Roosevelt said at the dinner, given by the Pilgrims Society, that she was humbled and comforted. Among the guests were Princess Elizabeth, Prince Phillip and Prime Minister Attlee.

Churchill recalled that President Roosevelt had died "in full career" too soon to taste the sweetness of final triumph. But he also added that "Roosevelt did not live to endure the quarrels of the Allies hitherto united by common perils. x x x He did not have to face the grave economic aftermath of the splendid sacrifices and deeds."

"But remember," Churchill said solemnly, "that our troubles now are less than those which President Roosevelt faced and which he overcame."

Churchill was cheered as he spoke feelingly of the assistance Mrs. Roosevelt had given the President throughout the critical years.

Mrs. Roosevelt sat between Prime Minister Attlee and Viscount Greenwood, chairman of the Pilgrims Executive Committee. She obviously was deeply touched by the day of extraordinary tributes.

London rarely has seen such an occasion with the King, Queen, Lords, bus drivers and housemaids striving spontaneously to make one woman feel she was welcome to these isles. After the unveiling ceremony this morning, the crowd formed for a chance to pay a brief homage at the statue.

Plane Crashes While Searching For Bomber

PORTLAND, Ore., April 12. (AP)—An Air Force plane searching for the wreckage of a missing National Guard bomber crashed on a Mount Hood glacier today.

The National Guard base here reported the small L-5 plane struck the north side of the mountain against a glacier. The crash was witnessed by another search flight pilot.

It was not known whether the pilot survived.

Pearson Says: Lewis Knew Martin Would Propose Bridges As Ump

By DREW PEARSON

Here is the inside story of what happened when Speaker Joe Martin summoned John L. Lewis and operator-spokesman Ezra Van Horn to his office to hear some "suggestion" about ending the coal dispute.

When the two visitors sat down, the Speaker began: "I have a proposal that I believe will be beneficial to both sides, and particularly to the country, in getting the mines back to work. I know you are both reasonable men and want to see this strike settled as much as we all do.

"Gentlemen, we can't let it continue any longer. We cannot permit our factories to close for lack of coal and we can't stand a transportation shortage if we are to fulfill our obligations to our own people and to the world under the European aid program."

Martin paused briefly to let this sink in, then added:

"We've got to sit down like Americans and keep right on sitting until we reach an agreement. This will mean some sacrificing on both sides, but that's the way we do things in a democracy. I have to make concessions all the time on legislation before the Congress. No man makes more concessions than I do.

"With communists spreading terror in other parts of the world, I want to remind you that we in this country are not even safe from totalitarianism unless we keep our guard up and our factories running at top production. I don't want to sound pessimistic, but that's a possibility.

"As long as one major industry is closed down—especially the coal industry, which affects our whole economy—we are endangering not only our own country at a time when we can least afford it, but also the peace of the world."

Lewis and Van Horn sat silently through Martin's patriotic appeal,

Miners May Be Slow To Heed Call To Return

UMW Chief Will Go To Court Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP) — John L. Lewis called off the nationwide coal strike today just ahead of court action but a federal judge ordered him to trial Wednesday on contempt charges just the same.

The United Mine Workers leader issued his back to work call after agreeing to a compromise plan calling for $100-a-month pension for miners over 62. His attorneys contended the last-hour move cleared him of any contempt and left nothing to enjoin.

But the court disagreed on both counts, ordering the contempt trial and at the same time extending into nex week the temporary restraining order against the 29-day-old walkout.

Those rulings formed the background for a spotty reaction in the field to Lewis' order for resumption of digging.

Some miners made ready to grab their tools again immediately but others thought they might wait to "see what they're going to do to Uncle John (Lewis)."

The main question Wednesday in the contempt trial will be whether Lewis moved fast enough. Federal Judge Matthew McGuire had ordered him on April 3 to call off the walkout immediately.

Today Lewis' case was before Judge T. Alan Goldsborough—the same judge who slapped heavy fines on Lewis and the UMW for the 1946 coal walkout—and Lewis will be back before Goldsborough in person Wednesday.

Compliance Might Help Lewis

Another item which presumably will carry weight with the court and with government prosecutors will be the degree of compliance with Lewis' call for renewed production. Full scale output might lead the government to recommend lenient treatment. Lagging work might have the opposite effect.

But the question will be for Goldsborough to decide.

In the previous contempt action Judge Goldsborough said his personal preference would have been to jail the bushy-browed miners' chief. Goldsborough bowed to government advice to the extent of limiting punishment to a $10,000 personal fine for Lewis and a $3,500,000 fine for the union. The Supreme Court cut the union's fine to $700,000.

The wait-and-see attitude among miners was most pronounced in the rich Pennsylvania diggings which produced these comments:

Frank Harper, Library, Pa.—"We'll wait until we see what they're going to do to Uncle John."

John Bowman, Harwick, Pa.—"They'll have to drop that court injunction awainst Lewis if they want the boys back on the job."

There were contrary ideas in Pennsylvania, however.

"We're advising all miners to go back to work," said James Mark, UMW district president at Clearfield, Pa.

Rail Restrictions Due To End

The Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association predicted 40 per cent production by tomorrow. Other back-to-work forecasts came from Kansas, Western Missouri, Wyoming, Illinois, Ohio and West Virginia.

Union officials in the Pennsylvania anthracite fields, where 35,000 men had walked out in sympathy with the 400,000 soft coal miners on the pension issue, said they expected full production tomorrow.

One of the most immediate effects of a work resumption would be cancellation of restrictions on coal burning railroad trains. That service had been cut 25 per cent, with a reduction to 50 per cent operation scheduled for Thursday midnight.

A comeback will be slower in the steel mills where output had been slashed to 78 per cent of capacity. The magazine Steel figured the strike's losses at 44,000,000 tons of coal and 500,000 tons of steel.

The pension plan to which Lewis

BIGGEST MASS FLIGHT OF B-29s SINCE WAR'S END GERMANY-BOUND

SMOKY HILL AIR BASE, Kas., April 12 (AP)—The largest mass flight of B-29s since the end of the war took off for Germany shortly before midnight tonight.

Lt. Col. Frank W. Ellis, in command of the flight, said it was "a routine training mission."

He would not disclose the number of planes or men making the flight, but said it was the largest operation since the end of the war, and the longest flight of such large numbers in history.

The ships began leaving at 15-minute intervals, and the last takeoff is expected to be about 7 a. m. tomorrow.

The huge planes will stop twice—at Westover Field, Mass., tomorrow forenoon, and for the night at Goose Bay, Labrador. Ellis said the planes would proceed independently until they rendezvous over Brest, France, near dawn Thursday.

The ships will fly in formation over Paris and on to their destination at Furstenfeldbruck, Germany.

"I say they do not have it. I did not say they do not have the secret," Forrestal testified.

Forrestal argued for the peacetime draft and for universal military training as steps for peace, not war. He told the committee:

"The whole aim and effort of the United States is to attain the objective of peace, to prevent differences between nations from developing into armed conflict, until the United Nations has gained the maturity and both the moral and physical force with which to deal with any international act of aggression."

He said he believes that if the United States makes clear it will and can prevent the civilization of Western Europe from being destroyed "we shall have peace."

"An aggressor will be forewarned of our determination backed by our strength," he added.

Condition Not "Critical"

Several times, Forrestal refused to describe present world conditions as "critical." He preferred to say there is "a state of tension."

"I don't like to use the word crisis in the sense that I expect war tomorrow or next Monday," he said. "I do not."

"The odds are not yet on Russia or war. The odds are still on the United States and peace. And if the United States acts at once and with firm and resolute purpose, the odds will continue to rest on the United States and peace through the years ahead.

Government Girl Figures In "Leak" Of Export Figures

Inadvertently Gave Friend Secret Data

WASHINGTON, April 12. (AP)—Miss Dorothy Bayles, a Commerce Department economist, testified today she inadvertently gave a girl friend secret government information on export plans for fats and oils.

Chairman August Andresen (R-Minn), of the House committee investigating commodity speculation, previously had said "leaks" of government food information had enabled some speculators to make fat profits.

Other witnesses told the committee the information Miss Bayles disclosed to a friend, on 1947 fourth quarter oil and fat allocations for export, was read before a meeting of shortening manufacturers last September 9. This was one day before the government officially announced the figures.

Miss Bayles testified she gave the information confidentially to Miss Geraldine Canning, secretary to Eugene W. Brockenbrough who is executive vice president of the Institute of Shortening Manufacturers.

Unable To Explain Jump

She testified that Miss Canning formerly had worked as her assistant in the Commerce Department and they were close friends. She explained the circumstances this way:

On last September 5 there was a sharp jump in the price of lard on commodity markets and she, as an economist, could not explain what had happened. She called Miss Canning to learn if the shortening trade association could explain it.

The following Monday, September 8, Miss Bayles was in a meeting of government officials and saw the unreleased allocations for foreign export, which were virtually double those for the previous three months.

She then was convinced, she testified, that there must have been a leak on export planning that caused the market jump the previous Friday.

As the meeting of government officials adjourned, she said, one official said a press release probably would be issued later in the day on the allocations, which have a great bearing on price levels in the oil and fat market.

"Rattled Out The Figures"

As was her practice of good relations with industry, Miss Bayles testified, she began calling trade associations to tell them to expect a news release.

When she called the shortening institute office and told Miss Canning to watch for the release, Miss

Marshall Says World Communism To Blame For Revolt In Bogota

Delegates Determined To Resume Conference In Wrecked City; Colombia Breaks With USSR

BOGOTA, April 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall blamed international Communism today for the unsuccessful Bogota revolution.

Marshall first made his statement to other delegates attending the Inter-American Conference and later repeated it for publication.

"This situation," Marshall said, "must not be judged on a local basis, however tragic the immediate results to the Colombian people. The occurrence goes far beyond Colombia.

"It is the same definite pattern as occurrences which provoked strikes in France and Italy and that is endeavoring to prejudice the situation in Italy where elections will be held on April 18. In actions we take here regarding the present situation, we must keep clearly in mind the fact that this is a world affair—not merely Colombian or Latin American."

Delegates Determined To Remain

Marshall thus became the first delegate outside the Colombian government to publicly attribute the revolution to world Communism and indirectly to Moscow.

A determination of delegates to remain here despite the revolt which broke out last Friday is expected to be ratified formally tomorrow.

Sources close to Secretary Marshall had said that the United States had taken the consistent position that the Inter-American Conference must continue in Bogota.

It was learned the turning point of the delegates' predicted decision to remain in Bogota was based, among other things, on two considerations.

First, assurances by the Colombian government that the delegates would be supplied with food and transportation. Second, the knowledge that in case of an emergency, the United States would co-operate with Colombia in evacuating up to 250 persons daily to Panama.

It was announced that the only personnel from the United States delegation which Marshall has permitted to leave this stricken city are less essential members of the secretarial staff.

Colombia Breaks With Russia

In having some of the staff members moved out of Bogota to the Canal Zone for transfer to the United States, it was announced, Secretary Marshall's major object was to limit the strain on the scanty food supply.

The personnel shift was not made because of the general situation, it was said.

Meanwhile the Colombian government has announced that it had

Jewish And Arab Forces Battling In Judean Hills

Haganah Fighters Capture Villages

JERUSALEM, April 12 (AP) — A Jewish-Arab battle raged tonight in the Judean hills. The Jews appeared to be in full control of the eastern half of a 20-mile stretch of vital supply highway in the area.

The Arab villages of Deir Yassin, Kastel and Kolonia in the area have been captured by the Jews. The Jews are holding fast in their colonies of Matza, Kiriat Abavim and Arza.

The Arabs blazed away tonight with rifle, automatic weapon and light artillery fire in an attempt to cut through these positions which flank the mountain road over which the Jews must send supplies to food-short Jerusalem.

Other Battles Reported

Although the heaviest fighting tonight was concentrated in the Judean hills, bitter battles were reported today in other sections of the Holy Land.

Haganah, the Jewish army, said Arabs were beaten back in trying to attack the Jewish settlement of Ramat Yehhannan, "The Hill of Jan," named in honor of Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts, of South Africa.

Palestine police said Jews attacked the Arab village of Kfar Mashir Abdin near the Sea of Galilee and blew up a number of houses.

The British army said a shipload of Jewish refugees without visas to enter Palestine had been intercepted by the navy in Palestine coastal waters and were being escorted to Haifa. It was reported without confirmation that about 600 immigrants are aboard the vessel. They will be transshipped to detention camps in Cyprus in British ships.

Airport To Curtail Operation

It was announced officially in Tel Aviv that Palestine's big Lydda airport would go on half-time operation April 17. After that date, all night air activities will be suspended.

The curtailment was taken as the result of the uncertain geographical position of Lydda astride the borderline between the Jewish and Arab zones as drafted in the United Nations partition plan.

Haganah escorted photographers to Kastel today to prove its claims that the hilltop fortress five miles west of Jerusalem remains in Jewish hands. Kastel commands a part of the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway.

Truce Commission Proposed

LAKE SUCCESS, April 12 (AP) — Canada suggested today that the Security Council send a United Nations commission to Palestine to supervise a truce.

One-Hour Strike Fails To Paralyze Italian Activity

ROME, April 12 (AP)—A one-hour nationwide general strike and fresh violence in the south hit Italy today—just six days before the general elections.

The strike was called by the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (CGIL) in protest against the violent death of 35 Sicilian workers and labor leaders during the past two years.

Reports reaching Rome indicated the strike went off in a quiet and orderly fashion over the entire nation. There was no general paralysis of activity, as predicted by the men who issued the strike call.

In the Eternal City itself many stores remained open. Factories were idle. Buses and street cars halted, but telephone service was not disrupted.

The pre-election violence flared at Lizzanello, in the southern province of Lecce. A bomb tossed into the midst of a Communist-led popular front meeting killed Cesare Trove, 56, and Cesare Longo, 16, and wounded 20 other persons.

In an apparent move to forestall any leftist demonstrations over the incident, the government dispatched an inspector of public safety to the scene to direct an investigation.

Communist newspapers charged Fascists with the bombing, and protested the lack of protection given the popular front meeting.

Italian Gold To Be Returned

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP) — Italy's anti-Communist parties got more campaign ammunition today: The Western Powers decided to return $31,000,000 in gold looted by the Nazis.

The State Department said the British - French - American Gold Commission in Brussels has approved an Italian government claim and will return this gold soon.

The announcement obviously was another of the long-planned moves by the Western Powers to strengthen Italian government forces in the closing days of the hectic political fight for control of Italy.

Soviets Reported Boosting German Occupation Force

BERLIN, April 13 (AP)—Allied intelligence reports said today the Russians were increasing their occupation forces in Germany which entirely surround the City of Berlin.

The increases were said to be mostly MVD (secret police) units concerned with executing new Russian border and traffic controls. German press reports spoke also of new infantry units moved into the Soviet zone.

Several months ago informed estimates placed Soviet troop strength in Germany at more than 300,000, about three times the American total. Present Soviet strength is unknown. American troops in Berlin number about 5,500.

Meanwhile the Western Powers were seeking means of relaxing or getting around the Soviet squeeze against them in Berlin, as evidenced in restrictions on traffic and communications between the city and Western Germany.

Rail movements out of Berlin remained suspended because of a Soviet demand that all passengers and cargo pass Soviet inspection.

The Americans started an air freight service to move out household goods of families returning to the United States or being transferred to the American occupation zone.

Soviets Hold Up U.S. Train

VIENNA, Tuesday, April 13 (AP) — United States military police said early today that Russian border guards held an American military train for four minutes last night at a check point on the Emms River bridge.

Two British trains were detained for four hours and one hour respectively yesterday morning at another point.

The American train, carrying United States military and civilian personnel from the American zone of Austria across the Soviet zone into Vienna, halted at 11:43 p. m. and was cleared by Russian guards at 11:47.

100,000 Miners Expected To Be At Work Today

PITTSBURGH, April 12 (AP) — Conservative estimates indicated at least 100,000 coal miners will be back at their jobs tomorrow. This includes 35,000 Eastern Pennsylvania anthracite miners who walked out in sympathy with the soft-coal pension demands.

Other miners would be idle because mines have to be prepared for reopening. Still others indicated they would wait to see what happens at Wednesday's contempt hearing against United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis.

Immediate back-to-work movements developed in Western Missouri, Kansas and West Virginia.

Tribute Paid To Roosevelt By Churchill

Says Troubles Now Less Than FDR Faced

LONDON, April 12 (AP) — Winston Churchill, standing beside Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, demanded tonight that Britain and America face their postwar difficulties with the courage of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The British Commonwealth will march resolutely beside the United States and "thus all will come right," Churchill said.

Britain's wartime prime minister spoke at a dinner climaxing a day of tribute by his country to his American colleague, who died three years ago today at Warm Springs, Ga.

He followed Mrs. Roosevelt, who unveiled a memorial statue of her husband earlier in the day before King George VI. and a crowd of silent thousands in Grosvenor Square.

Mrs. Roosevelt said at the dinner, given by the Pilgrims Society, that she was humbled and comforted. Among the guests were Princess Elizabeth, Prince Phillip and Prime Minister Attlee.

Churchill recalled that President Roosevelt had died "in full career" too soon to taste the sweetness of final triumph. But he also added that "Roosevelt did not live to endure the quarrels of the Allies hitherto united by common perils. x x x He did not have to face the grave economic aftermath of the splendid sacrifices and deeds."

"But remember," Churchill said solemnly, "that our troubles now are less than those which President Roosevelt faced and which he overcame."

Churchill was cheered as he spoke feelingly of the assistance Mrs. Roosevelt had given the President throughout the critical years.

Mrs. Roosevelt sat between Prime Minister Attlee and Viscount Greenwood, chairman of the Pilgrims Executive Committee. She obviously was deeply touched by the day of extraordinary tributes.

London rarely has seen such an occasion with the King, Queen, Lords, bus drivers and housemaids striving spontaneously to make one woman feel she was welcome to these isles. After the unveiling ceremony this morning, the crowd formed for a chance to pay a brief homage at the statue.

Plane Crashes While Searching For Bomber

PORTLAND, Ore., April 12. (AP)—An Air Force plane searching for the wreckage of a missing National Guard bomber crashed on a Mount Hood glacier today.

The National Guard base here reported the small L-5 plane struck the north side of the mountain against a glacier. The crash was witnessed by another search flight pilot.

It was not known whether the pilot survived.

Miners May Be Slow To Heed Call To Return

UMW Chief Will Go To Court Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP) — John L. Lewis called off the nationwide coal strike today just ahead of court action but a federal judge ordered him to trial Wednesday on contempt charges just the same.

The United Mine Workers leader issued his back to work call after agreeing to a compromise plan calling for $100-a-month pension for miners over 62. His attorneys contended the last-hour move cleared him of any contempt and left nothing to enjoin.

But the court disagreed on both counts, ordering the contempt trial and at the same time extending the next week the temporary restraining order against the 29-day-old walkout.

Those rulings formed the background for a spotty reaction in the field to Lewis' order for resumption of digging.

Some miners made ready to grab their tools again immediately but others thought they might wait to "see what they're going to do to Uncle John (Lewis)."

The main question Wednesday in the contempt trial will be whether Lewis moved fast enough. Federal Judge Matthew McGuire had ordered him on April 3 to call off the walkout immediately.

Today Lewis' case was before Judge T. Alan Goldsborough—the same judge who slapped heavy fines on Lewis and the UMW for the 1946 coal walkout—and Lewis will be back before Goldsborough in person Wednesday.

Compliance Might Help Lewis

Another item which presumably will carry weight with the court and with government prosecutors will be the degree of compliance with Lewis' call for renewed production. Full scale output might lead the government to recommend lenient treatment. Lagging work might have the opposite effect.

But the question will be for Goldsborough to decide.

In the previous contempt action Judge Goldsborough said his personal preference would have been to jail the bushy-browed miners' chief. Goldsborough bowed to government advice to the extent of limiting punishment to a $10,000 personal fine for Lewis and a $3,500,000 fine for the union. The Supreme Court cut the union's fine to $700,000.

The wait-and-see attitude among miners was most pronounced in the rich Pennsylvania diggings which produced these comments:

Frank Harper, Library, Pa.—"We'll wait until we see what they're going to do to Uncle John."

John Bowman, Harwick, Pa.—"They'll have to drop that court injunction awainst Lewis if they want the boys back on the job."

There were contrary ideas in Pennsylvania, however.

"We're advising all miners to go back to work," said James Mark, UMW district president at Clearfield, Pa.

Rail Restrictions Due To End

The Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association predicted 40 per cent production by tomorrow.. Other back-to-work forecasts came from Kansas, Western Missouri, Wyoming, Illinois, Ohio and West Virginia.

Union officials in the Pennsylvania anthracite fields, where 35,000 men had walked out in sympathy with the 400,000 soft coal miners on the pension issue, said they expected full production tomorrow.

One of the most immediate effects of a work resumption would be cancellation of restrictions on coal burning railroad trains. That service had been cut 25 per cent, with a reduction to 50 per cent operation scheduled for Thursday midnight.

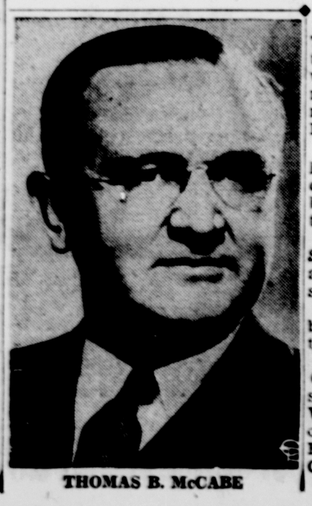

A comeback will be slower in the steel mills where output had been slashed to 78 per cent of capacity. The magazine Steel figured the strike's losses at 44,000,000 tons of coal and 500,000 tons of steel.

The pension plan to which Lewis

Controversy Over

Senate Approves McCabe As Reserve Board Member

THOMAS B. McCABE

WASHINGTON, April 12. (AP)—The Senate confirmed today, after two and a half months of controversy, President Truman's appointment of Thomas B. McCabe as a member of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors.

Mr. Truman has announced that he will make the Pennsylvania industrialist-banker chairman of the board, dropping Marriner S. Eccles to vice-chairman.

McCabe, 54, is president of the Scott Paper Company, Chester, Pa., and chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia.

Approval of his nomination was by standing vote, with several senators dissenting.

Among them was Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), who told the Senate a southerner should have been named. With McCabe's appointment, four of the seven governors come from Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, Fulbright said.

Pearson Says:

Lewis Knew Martin Would Propose Bridges As Ump

By DREW PEARSON

Here is the inside story of what happened when Speaker Joe Martin summoned John L. Lewis and operator-spokesman Ezra Van Horn to his office to hear some "suggestion" about ending the coal dispute.

When the two visitors sat down, the Speaker began: "I have a proposal that I believe will be beneficial to both sides, and particularly to the country, in getting the mines back to work. I know you are both reasonable men and want to see this strike settled as much as we all do.

"Gentlemen, we can't let it continue any longer. We cannot permit our factories to close for lack of coal and we can't stand a transportation shortage if we are to fulfill our obligations to our own people and to the world under the European aid program."

Martin paused briefly to let this sink in, then added:

"We've got to sit down like Americans and keep right on sitting until we reach an agreement. This will mean some sacrificing on both sides, but that's the way we do things in a democracy. I have to make concessions all the time on legislation before the Congress. No man makes more concessions than I do.

"With communists spreading terror in other parts of the world, I want to remind you that we in this country are not even safe from totalitarianism unless we keep our guard up and our factories running at top production. I don't want to sound pessimistic, but that's a possibility.

"As long as one major industry is closed down—especially the coal industry, which affects our whole economy—we are endangering not only our own country at a time when we can least afford it, but also the peace of the world."

Lewis and Van Horn sat silently through Martin's patriotic appeal,

BIGGEST MASS FLIGHT OF B-29s SINCE WAR'S END GERMANY-BOUND

SMOKY HILL AIR BASE, Kas., April 12 (AP)—The largest mass flight of B-29s since the end of the war took off for Germany shortly before midnight tonight.

Lt. Col. Frank W. Ellis, in command of the flight, said it was "a routine training mission."

He would not disclose the number of planes or men making the flight, but said it was the largest operation since the end of the war, and the longest flight of such large numbers in history.

The ships began leaving at 15-minute intervals, and the last takeoff is expected to be about 7 a. m. tomorrow.

The huge planes will stop twice—at Westover Field, Mass., tomorrow forenoon, and for the night at Goose Bay, Labrador. Ellis said the planes would proceed independently until they rendezvous over Brest, France, near dawn Thursday.

The ships will fly in formation over Paris and on to their destination at Furstenfeldbruck, Germany.

Plan For Revised U.N. Is Offered

WASHINGTON, April 12. (AP)—An "ABC plan" to make the United Nations a veto-proof, fighting organization for peace was pushed forward today by 16 Republican and Democratic senators from 14 states.

They said it would "guarantee the peace" if Russia accepted it. And if the Soviets refused, they said, the time would be ripe to start a new world organization, without Russia, for mutual defense of the United States and "like-minded" nations.

Introduced as a resolution by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), who called it "the new answer to Soviet Russia," the plan was referred to the Foreign Relations Committee, with indications that it would not get a warm reception.

Chairman Vandenberg, Ferguson's fellow Republican from Michigan, was said on good authority to feel that any such proposal should come from the administration, which has not suggested reorganizing United Nations along the lines proposed by the senators.

The senators' plan calls for these changes in the United Nations charter, in A.B.C. fashion.

A—Outlawing the big power veto in questions of aggression, armament for aggression, and admitting new countries to the United Nations.

B—Banning atomic weapons, through the United States plan for an atomic development authority, and limiting other heavy armaments under a quota system to be set up by the security council.

C—Formation of an international, peace-keeping police force, made up of volunteers from small nations. There also would be five "reserve" forces supplied by the United States, Britain, Russia, China and France.

"Not in our lifetime, or in that of the next generation do I foresee the time when a strong military potential will not be needed to back up our diplomacy," he summed up.

With universal military training, he said, the draft could be halted as soon as the nation's military forces reached a safe level. Without UMT, he said, a draft may be necessary indefinitely.

Forrestal recommended an increase of 349,500 officers and men, as follows: Army from 542,000 to 782,000; Navy from 39,000 to 460,000; Marine Corps from 81,000 to 92,000; Air Force from 364,000 to 400,000.

Card Addressed To Gen. Grant Is 62 Years Late

APPOMATTOX, Va., April 12 (AP)—A postal card addressed to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, dead and gone these 62 years, was received here today.

It was from a Burlington, Vt., man who said "someday I hope to meet you."

Mailed April 9, the card offered congratulations to the Union general, who accepted Gen. Robert E. Lee's surrender here 83 years ago this month.

Postmaster E. Leroy Smith said he had returned the card with the notation:

"Moved and left no address."

Government Girl

Bayles added to her remarks her idea that a leak in the figures probably had caused the Friday price jump.

"I then rattled out the figures," she told the committee. She said she did this in the process of establishing her idea that there must have been a leak.

"I then asked her not to release the information," Miss Bayles continued, "and she said she would not. x x x

"I cannot explain, in the normal course of talking to somebody, whom I may say I knew very well and trusted, the thing that developed."

She said she did not know until September 30 that Miss Canning had given the figures to her boss and she added:

"Then I took a nose dive."

Miners May Be

agreed provides $100 a month for miners past the age of 62 who have served 20 years and retired since May 29, 1946.

He had wanted the same amount for men aged 60 no matter when retired.

Operators, on the other hand had objected to payment of any pensions to men not employed by mines signatory to the current coal contract which has built up a $32,000,000 miners welfare fund out of a royalty of 10 cents per ton of coal.

Whether the operators will take the compromise without a court fight was an open question tonight.

Ezra Van Horn, chief negotiator for the operators and operator member of the board administering the welfare fund, contended that the Taft-Hartley Act prohibits payments to men not directly covered by he contract. He would not say whether his group will go to court.

Van Horn rated the agreement as "not a complete victory" for Lewis. He figured that some 10,000 miners were taken off Lewis' pension list by the terms. He said 28,000 of the 335,000 men covered by the contract will reach age 60 this year but only 19,000 will be 62.

He told a reporter he could not say how many had reached 62 since May 29, 1946. He said that part of the agreement is illegal too.

"No, I'm not satisfied," he said in answer to a question.

Questioned about prospects for a court fight, Van Horn replied:

"I can't answer that now. That's a legal question."

Lewis Knew

taking it all in, but waiting for the other to say something. Lewis chewed imperturbably on an unlighted cigar. Martin continued:

"Now, I am going to propose to you a man whom I hope you will accept as a public trustee for the purpose of negotiating your dispute.

I have been talking to him about this for the last week and he has agreed to serve if you want him. He's a man of judicial temperament, who hasn't involved himself in this dispute and who has the respect of people generally. He can be counted on to be fair.

"I am referring to Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire."

Lewis pretended to look surprised, started to say something, then changed his mind. John L. is a great actor. He not only quotes Shakespeare, but acts Shakespeare. So probably coal-operator-spokesman Van Horn did not know that just one year ago Lewis had proposed Senator Bridges to Secretary of the Interior Krug as the man to arbitrate the coal dispute between the government and the miners.

In other words, the look of surprise on Lewis's face was only feigned. He had known in advance that his friend, Senator Bridges, was to be proposed as umpire by Speaker Martin. That was why he came to the meeting so readily.

That was also why Martin didn't have to do any real urging.

"Come on, now," he pretended to urge, "what do you say?"

"That sounds all right to me," replied the miners' boss. "I'll accept him."

Martin looked at Van Horn.

"I'll take him," quickly added the operator-spokesman.

"Now that we have agreed," Martin suggested. "Why not elect him right here on the spot? You can do so, as the other two trustees."

Bridges Flies To Washington

Martin then put in a long-distance phone call to Bridges in New York, who informed the Speaker that he was scheduled to make an address at a "Freedom Rally" in New York the following afternoon (Sunday, April 11) and wouldn't be back in Washington until Monday.

"Can't you do better than that?" inquired Martin. "Time is essential."

"All right, I'll fly down tonight (Saturday) and return by plane tomorrow in time to keep my engagement, if a meeting can be arranged Sunday morning," replied Bridges.

"Tell him that, as chairman of the board of trustees, I'm perfectly willing to call a meeting of the board tomorrow morning," intoned Lewis, who has been jittery about his court battle.

"Fine," responded Martin. "Let's make it 10 o'clock tomorrow morning."

The meeting then adjourned.

SPARKS, Md., April 12 (AP)—A litter of 13 Yorkshire pigs weighed in at 634.44 pounds at William W. Baker's Baltimore County farm today, thereby setting something of a world's heavyweight record.

At least that's what available records of the Yorkshire Breeders Association show, Assistant County Agent Frank McFarland, Jr., reported.

Two Russians described as Communist agents were among persons taken into custody on charges of having stirred the riots which laid waste large parts of Bogota and caused the deaths of 300 persons.

Bogota is still physically paralyzed.

Banks, and stores are closed. There is no transportation and some places are without lights.

There are still many rebel snipers holding out.

But thousands of Bogota's citizens streamed back into the streets today after the days and nights of terror over the weekend.

They came out to return to work, to look for food and to start cleaning up.

Senate Approves

He declared that this leads to "domination of the Federal Reserve Board by the great financial institutions of the East."

Earlier, Sen. Tobey (R-NH) had come out against McCabe, criticizing his work as foreign liquidation commissioner after the war.

Tobey's most publicized charge was that McCabe sold a group of bombing planes to the Chinese government with the tails cut off.

McCabe entered a full defense of his record in war surplus sales. He said the tailless bombers were sold to China for their parts under regulations that they mustn't be in flying condition.

Other senators criticized Mr. Truman for demoting Eccles, an official usually identified with New Deal policies.

Plan For Revised U.N. Is Offered

WASHINGTON, April 12. (AP)—An "ABC plan" to make the United Nations a veto-proof, fighting organization for peace was pushed forward today by 16 Republican and Democratic senators from 14 states.

They said it would "guarantee the peace" if Russia accepted it. And if the Soviets refused, they said, the time would be ripe to start a new world organization, without Russia, for mutual defense of the United States and "like-minded" nations.

Introduced as a resolution by Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), who called it "the new answer to Soviet Russia," the plan was referred to the Foreign Relations Committee, with indications that it would not get a warm reception.

Chairman Vandenberg, Ferguson's fellow Republican from Michigan, was said on good authority to feel that any such proposal should come from the administration, which has not suggested reorganizing United Nations along the lines proposed by the senators.

The senators' plan calls for these changes in the United Nations charter, in A.B.C. fashion.

A—Outlawing the big power veto in questions of aggression, armament for aggression, and admitting new countries to the United Nations.

B—Banning atomic weapons, through the United States plan for an atomic development authority, and limiting other heavy armaments under a quota system to be set up by the security council.

C—Formation of an international, peace-keeping police force, made up of volunteers from small nations. There also would be five "reserve" forces supplied by the United States, Britain, Russia, China and France.

"Not in our lifetime, or in that of the next generation do I foresee the time when a strong military potential will not be needed to back up our diplomacy," he summed up.

With universal military training, he said, the draft could be halted as soon as the nation's military forces reached a safe level. Without UMT, he said, a draft may be necessary indefinitely.

Forrestal recommended an increase of 349,500 officers and men, as follows: Army from 542,000 to 782,000; Navy from 39,000 to 460,000; Marine Corps from 81,000 to 92,000; Air Force from 364,000 to 400,000.

suggestion by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chief Canadian delegate, was received favorably by several delegates.

Council members met at United States delegation offices for their fourth closed conference on the Palestine truce and trusteeship proposals. All the talk was about the truce proposal. The delegates are seeking some way to end hostilities before the United Nations Special Assembly on Palestine convenes Friday in New York.

Card Addressed To Gen. Grant Is 62 Years Late

APPOMATTOX, Va., April 12 (AP)—A postal card addressed to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, dead and gone these 62 years, was received here today.

It was from a Burlington, Vt., man who said "someday I hope to meet you."

Mailed April 9, the card offered congratulations to the Union general, who accepted Gen. Robert E. Lee's surrender here 83 years ago this month.

Postmaster E. Leroy Smith said he had returned the card with the notation:

"Moved and left no address."

Government Girl

Bayles added to her remarks her idea that a leak in the figures probably had caused the Friday price jump.

"I then rattled out the figures," she told the committee. She said she did this in the process of establishing her idea that there must have been a leak.

"I then asked her not to release the information," Miss Bayles continued, "and she said she would not. x x x

"I cannot explain, in the normal course of talking to somebody, whom I may say I knew very well and trusted, the thing that developed."

She said she did not know until September 30 that Miss Canning had given the figures to her boss and she added:

"Then I took a nose dive."

agreed provides $100 a month for miners past the age of 62 who have served 20 years and retired since May 29, 1946.

He had wanted the same amount for men aged 60 no matter when retired.

Operators, on the other hand had objected to payment of any pensions to men not employed by mines signatory to the current coal contract which has built up a $32,000,000 miners welfare fund out of a royalty of 10 cents per ton of coal.

Whether the operators will take the compromise without a court fight was an open question tonight.

Ezra Van Horn, chief negotiator for the operators and operator member of the board administering the welfare fund, contended that the Taft-Hartley Act prohibits payments to men not directly covered by he contract. He would not say whether his group will go to court.

Van Horn rated the agreement as "not a complete victory" for Lewis. He figured that some 10,000 miners were taken off Lewis' pension list by the terms. He said 28,000 of the 335,000 men covered by the contract will reach age 60 this year but only 19,000 will be 62.

He told a reporter he could not say how many had reached 62 since May 29, 1946. He said that part of the agreement is illegal too.

"No, I'm not satisfied," he said in answer to a question.

Questioned about prospects for a court fight, Van Horn replied:

taking it all in, but waiting for the other to say something. Lewis chewed imperturbably on an unlighted cigar. Martin continued:

"Now, I am going to propose to you a man whom I hope you will accept as a public trustee for the purpose of negotiating your dispute.

I have been talking to him about this for the last week and he has agreed to serve if you want him. He's a man of judicial temperament, who hasn't involved himself in this dispute and who has the respect of people generally. He can be counted on to be fair.

"I am referring to Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire."

Lewis pretended to look surprised, started to say something, then changed his mind. John L. is a great actor. He not only quotes Shakespeare, but acts Shakespeare. So probably coal-operator-spokesman Van Horn did not know that just one year ago Lewis had proposed Senator Bridges to Secretary of the Interior Krug as the man to arbitrate the coal dispute between the government and the miners.

In other words, the look of surprise on Lewis's face was only feigned. He had known in advance that his friend, Senator Bridges, was to be proposed as umpire by Speaker Martin. That was why he came to the meeting so readily.

That was also why Martin didn't have to do any real urging.

"Come on, now," he pretended to urge, "what do you say?"

Martin looked at Van Horn.

"I'll take him," quickly added the operator-spokesman.

"Now that we have agreed," Martin suggested. "Why not elect him right here on the spot? You can do so, as the other two trustees."

Bridges Flies To Washington

Martin then put in a long-distance phone call to Bridges in New York, who informed the Speaker that he was scheduled to make an address at a "Freedom Rally" in New York the following afternoon (Sunday, April 11) and wouldn't be back in Washington until Monday.

"Can't you do better than that?" inquired Martin. "Time is essential."

"All right, I'll fly down tonight (Saturday) and return by plane tomorrow in time to keep my engagement, if a meeting can be arranged Sunday morning," replied Bridges.

"Tell him that, as chairman of the board of trustees, I'm perfectly willing to call a meeting of the board tomorrow morning," intoned Lewis, who has been jittery about his court battle.

"Fine," responded Martin. "Let's make it 10 o'clock tomorrow morning."

The meeting then adjourned.

Weighty Litter

SPARKS, Md., April 12 (AP)—A litter of 13 Yorkshire pigs weighed in at 634.44 pounds at William W. Baker's Baltimore County farm today, thereby setting something of a world's heavyweight record.

At least that's what available records of the Yorkshire Breeders Association show, Assistant County Agent Frank McFarland, Jr., reported.

broken diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia.

Two Russians described as Communist agents were among persons taken into custody on charges of having stirred the riots which laid waste large parts of Bogota and caused the deaths of 300 persons.

Bogota is still physically paralyzed.

Banks, and stores are closed. There is no transportation and some places are without lights.

There are still many rebel snipers holding out.

But thousands of Bogota's citizens streamed back into the streets today after the days and nights of terror over the weekend.

They came out to return to work, to look for food and to start cleaning up.

He declared that this leads to "domination of the Federal Reserve Board by the great financial institutions of the East."

Earlier, Sen. Tobey (R-NH) had come out against McCabe, criticizing his work as foreign liquidation commissioner after the war.

Tobey's most publicized charge was that McCabe sold a group of bombing planes to the Chinese government with the tails cut off.

McCabe entered a full defense of his record in war surplus sales. He said the tailless bombers were sold to China for their parts under regulations that they mustn't be in flying condition.

Other senators criticized Mr. Truman for demoting Eccles, an official usually identified with New Deal policies.

Council Stands Pat On Fare Increase

Following the reading of a letter from Henry W. Price, Potomac Edison district manager, who explained the reasons for asking the Public Service Commission for permission to increase some bus fares, the Mayor and City Council stood firm on their decision in opposition to such a move.

Meanwhile, another local labor group expressed its opposition to the increase. Local 212, International Association of Machinists, in a letter to the council concurred with the city council attitude.

Price's letter outlined the request for an increase in rates which, except for school fares, have been unchanged since 1927. He said that the present bus service is now using 41 buses, four of which are new buses costing $56,000. This, coupled with the increase in wages all along the line, would make the company operate at a substantial loss, without the fare increase.

City Council Acts To Curb Hazards

The Mayor and City Council on Monday asked the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to submit plans for the removal of traffic hazards on the Cumberland, Washington and Fayette Street bridges.

The action followed the reading of a letter from H. F. Wyatt, superintendent of the B. and O. Cumberland Division, in which it was said that approval had been received for improving the bridges.

Commissioner William H. Buchholtz made a motion that the railroad be asked to submit its plans to the Mayor and City Council for widening the bridges, removing the two side spans, as well as the center span and narrowing the sidewalks.

According to Wyatt, materials have already been ordered and work will start in the near future, or as soon as the equipment arrives.

Other business transacted follows:

The council ordered $1,125 paid Nora A. Houser for a parcel of ground on South Street for the extension of Second Street.

The bid of Spoerl's Garage of $1,546.10 for a six-cylinder police cruiser car was approved.

A refund of $4.45 to James S. Sheehe, 3 South Waverly Terrace, for overpayment of water accounts at 10 Beverly Place, was ordered.

First National Bank, Second National Bank and the Liberty Trust Company were designated city depositories under an order passed today.

Mayor and Council also voted a $100 contribution to the Allegany County Cancer Society drive.

Robert R. Gormer was approved as a probationary member of the Fire Department. His appointment was effective April 1.

Property Owners Asked To Express Opinions

Property owners on Second Street and Wempe Drive may appear before the Mayor and City Council April 26 to express views and opinions on the proposed sewering and improvements of those streets.

The Second Street improvements concern property from Homer Street extended to the intersection with Wempe Drive. The Wempe Drive ordinance will affect property from a point approximately 150 feet north of First Street to the intersection with Second Street. Both hearings were set for 10 a. m.

John R. Kelly, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the City Softball League, appeared before the council in support of a letter from the league to ask that Clifton Van Roby, physical education director of the YMCA, be compensated for time spent in arranging playing field schedules for various leagues.

Commissioner William H. Buchholtz suggested the city pay Roby $40 per season with the league paying any expense over that amount. The discussion was tabled until next week on motion of Mayor Thomas S. Post. It was pointed out that approximately 80 teams use the seven city fields.

Two invitations to the Mayor and Council and their wives were received and acknowledged. Tonkaway Tribe No. 120, Improved Order of Red Men, will hold a dinner dance at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club Friday at 7 p. m. in honor of the Board of Great Chiefs of the Great Council. The invitation was signed by W. E. Ruehl, committee chairman.

Members were also invited to the installation of officers of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the City Shrine Club. John H. Fike, committee chairman, and Thomas K. Whalley, adjutant, extended the invitation.

A large number of Cumberland residents of Italian descent have joined the national move to help defeat Communism in the coming Italian election, it was announced here Monday.

Postoffice authorities said the flow of mail to Italy has been noticeable and that the sale of air mail to Italy has increased slightly.

Acting Postmaster William C. McDermott said a number of natives of Italy had informed him they had written to friends and relatives to urge the defeat of Communist candidates April 16.

Donald Robinette Is Granted Parole

Donald Lindbergh Robinette, Cumberland, has been granted a parole from the Bedford County jail. He was serving a sentence on an involuntary manslaughter charge.

Robinette pleaded guilty February 2, following an auto mishap near Bedford last September when an 18-year-old girl was killed. His sentence was for one year in jail and a fine of $200 and costs. Judge J. Colvin Wright said that a parole would be considered after 30 days, if the fine and costs were paid.

Donald Robinette Is Granted Parole

Donald Lindbergh Robinette, Cumberland, has been granted a parole from the Bedford County jail. He was serving a sentence on an involuntary manslaughter charge.

Robinette pleaded guilty February 2, following an auto mishap near Bedford last September when an 18-year-old girl was killed. His sentence was for one year in jail and a fine of $200 and costs. Judge J. Colvin Wright said that a parole would be considered after 30 days, if the fine and costs were paid.

Finland Wins From Russia A Lease-on-Life

The Finns are said to be "delighted" with the terms of their 10-year mutual-aid treaty with Russia, which was signed in the presence of Stalin. Whether their rejoicing is premature remains to be seen. The alliance contains several face-saving clauses for a little nation which has twice fought mighty Russia to defend its independence against hopeless odds. Has anything more than "face" been saved?

The treaty binds the Finns to fight within their borders against any attack upon them, or upon Russia via Finland, from Germany, "or any state allied with Germany. In case of such aggression Russia may send troops into Finland only by "mutual agreement," though Russia is pledged to fight any Finnish attacker immediately. Finally—and this is what delights the Finns—Russia promises not to interfere in the internal affairs of Finland.

Such a treaty cannot be described as an abject surrender to Russia. It was, of course, signed under pressure—the pressure of a powerful state on a weak neighbor. Yet it preserves, at least in form, the independence which is worth more than life to the Finns. The concessions from Moscow may be due to the stout resistance of the Helsinki parliament to anything like a diplomatic surrender. Perhaps the stiffening resistance to Russo-Communism in the West encouraged the Finns and moderated the Soviet demands. At any rate, Finland has preserved, at least on paper, its substantial independence in domestic affairs.

In that respect, however, Finland's position is today no better than that of Czechoslovakia before the Communist coup. Communism is weaker among the Finns than it was among the Czechs. But it is strong enough to control the vital post of Security Minister and to infiltrate the army and state police with Reds. And in Finland the Russians have military bases which they lacked in Czechoslovakia.

The newest treaty promises independent Finland a lease-on-life. The development of the "cold war" will decide whether and when the lease will be canceled by the lessor Moscow.

It is a bit hard to understand, declares a Kansas City politician, why we are spending millions in Italy to garner votes, when a fellow isn't allowed to distribute a few dollars in his own precinct in this country.

Kite-Flying Days Are Here Again For Youngsters

Spring has brought a return of kite-flying, such as was indulged in Sunday at Constitution Park, and youngsters in increasing numbers will shortly have their creations in the air. The sport has allured youth since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, and there is, of course, the adventure of Benjamin Franklin, which is credited with the discovery of electricity.

While the area over which kites were flown Sunday here was free of dangerous obstacles, there are, however, certain things boys should remember before putting their white-winged messengers in the air.

Kites with metal frames are dangerous if they should fall on electric wires. In an Eastern city a lad, trying to dislodge such a kite, pulled the wire down with it and narrowly escaped electrocution. Tinsel string, the short with a wire center, is also dangerous and should not be used.

Because it is better if kites are not flown in proximity to high-tension wires, the city's Constitution Park provides an ideal place for the enjoyment of this activity. But in the event the sport should be engaged in within range of high tension wires, and if a kite does become entangled in them, the safe thing is to call the electric company.

It is too bad that the kite-flying contest, the first of its kind to be held here in years, had to be marred by high winds. But to have been able to send his kite up 800 feet, to win Sunday's contest, speaks well for young Everett B. Yankie who handled his homemade cross-bow affair with its red, white and blue crepe paper with such skill under such adverse conditions.

Moscow is exhibiting the usual Russian confusion when it asserts the U. S. started the late war. This country merely ended it.

Eyes Turned On Nebraska For Presidential Primary

Since all eyes are turned on Nebraska presidential primary today, this brief, unslanted sketch of the Cornhusker State is ventured. The first report of it was given to Coronado in 1541, after his quest for the fabled Seven Cities of Cibola had ended in disillusion in New Mexico, and he turned northward in quest of Quivera, which was tentatively located near what is now Omaha. This was another golden city, in land with a river two leagues wide in which swam fish as large as horses. There were great canoes on the river driven by as many as forty men. People "ate and drank from plates and cups of precious metals."

Coronado did not find Quivera, only the summer camp of an Indian horde that followed the buffalo.

With the appearance of French fur traders and trappers on the Missouri in 1700, Nebraska emerges from fantasy. At different times, Spain, France and England have claimed the regions. It was part of the Louisiana Purchase (1803) and became a state in 1867, under the good motto, "Equality Before the Law." The great Overland Trails passed through it. With an area of 77,000 square miles, Nebraska ranks fourteenth in size; with a 1940 population of 1,315,000, it ranks thirty-second. From an altitude of 5,300 feet in the west, the state slopes gently to the Missouri. Average rainfall, 22 inches; 1,000,000 acres under irrigation; first rank in production of wild hay; plenty of cattle, swine and sheep; corn, wheat, potatoes and sugar beets good crops; a salubrious climate.

Just a word on politics: In 1934 Nebraska adopted a unicameral legislature of 43 members, elected on a nonpartisian ballot. In national elections it usually goes Republican—12 times since 1872. Bryan, Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt each carried it twice. In 1944, Dewey's majority over Roosevelt was 96,634. Governor Val Peterson and Senators Hugh Butler and Kenneth S. Wherry are all Republicans, and so are the four Representatives. It has been called the banner Republican State of the Union.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Insects Transmit Rickettsia

Five or six years ago there was no specific treatment for rickettsial infections. Now there are at least three. The first to be discovered was aminobenzoic acid and the latest, chloromycetin. Between these products was streptomycin which worked well in the laboratory stages but was somewhat disappointing when administered to patients.

The rickettsial diseases include many separate maladies. Typhus, scrub typhus, and Rocky mountain spotted fever are probably the best known. Another is Q fever, which was thought to exist originally only in Australia but actually is found in different parts of the world. During the past four years, three epidemics have been recorded in the United States: at Amarillo, Texas; Oakland, California; and Chicago, Illinois. Carrion's disease and rickettsialpox can also be added to the list.

The Rickettsia are one of the tiniest groups of microorganism that attacks man and animal. Only the virus is smaller. These invaders cannot be studied like ordinary bacteria because they die rapidly when removed from living cells. Other organisms my be investigated at will as they can be kept alive in the laboratory on special culture media.

The majority of riskettsial disorders are not contagious. New cases are traceable to ticks and fleas that have been living on diseased rodents. Epidemic typhus comes from the bite of an infected louse; the endemic variety, which appears in this country, has its origin in rat fleas. The wood tick produces Rocky mountain spotted fever seen in the west, and the dog tick is the vector in the east. Fleas from mice were implicated in the outbreak of rickettsialpox which occurred recently in New York city.

The condition, in the early stages, resembles influenza. Practically all varieties begin abruptly with a severe chill, intolerable headache, dizziness, and muscular aching. As a rule, a high temperature continues for a week or two and then disappear quickly. In many types, a rash is observed on the third or fourth day. In typhus, for example, the blemishes start on the body and spread to the extremities. With Rocky mountain spotted fever, the opposite is true; the hands and feet first and then the trunk. Bronchitis, pneumonia, delirium, or convulsions may develop.

The microorganisms usually invade the walls of the blood vessels that are scattered throughout various organs of the body. It is not known as yet whether the victims are left with permanent damage to the vascular system or if the increasing incidence of blood vessel disturbances can be blamed on the rickettsial infection.

Protective vaccines are available for some forms of the ailment. DDT is helpful in eradicating vermin and is particularly useful when epidemics abound. The newer remedies have taken the sting out of the disease, allowing for more rapid recovery and fewer fatalities.

TICK PICKING

H. S. writes: If the owner of a dog removes ticks from the animal's body, can he become infected?

Reply

Ordinarily, no. Occasionally dog ticks harbor germs but the human being must be bitten before they can be transmitted.

BACKACHE

A.A. writes: What could cause the lower spine to become painful when standing erect? All sorts of tests and X-rays show negative.

Reply

The supporting ligaments, tendons, or muscles may be at fault. These structures are not sufficiently dense to show up under the X-ray.

BOTH ARE PAINFUL

L.Z. writes: Is neuritis related to arthritis in any way?

Reply

No, altho the conditions can co-exist. Neuritis involves the nerves; arthritis, the joints.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

It looks as if Rover would have nothing to chase but his tail from now on! The Army is drafting cats to be shipped to Europe for overseas duty fighting the overgrown population of the rat family. So, if you put the cat tonight, don't be surprised if an MP grabs him for duty.

They're having a lot of trouble, though, down at the recruiting center. It seems the cats are refusing to wear dog tags. Not only that, but the cats threaten a march on Washington. They want a prepaid bonus and better housing.

The Army will will keep them in hand, though. Right now they're out drafting minks to be officers. No kidding, it's a big operation. In fact, James Mason alone will supply a full mechanized division.

Of course, we have some conscientious objectors, but they are being properly punished. Those who refuse duty are being exiled to Phil Spitalny's orchestra to be strings on Evelyn's magic violin.

All that has to be done now is to figure out a way to get them to drink powdered milk from a saucer.

The Army is very serious about this thing.

Just yesterday the General saw a girl in a fur coat and put a note on the bulletin board that read "One of our cats is missing."

Truman Confident That He Will Head Democratic Ticket; Chinese Government Requests Roosevelt Possessions; Oil Lobby In Midst Of Money Dispute

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 12—President Truman remains coolly confident that he will head the Democratic ticket this year, despite both Southern-Northern opposition.

He made this quite clear during a chat with young Representative George Smathers of Florida the other day, when Smathers, accompanied by Leonce Legendre, assistant adjutant of the American Legion, invited him to address the Legion national convention next October in Miami. Without batting an eye, Truman replied:

"I'd certainly like to be there, but I'm going to be in a reasonably hot political campaign at that time."

Because of this, he added, some people might think he was using the Legion convention as a political platform. However, when Smathers and Legendre suggested he could make a strictly nonpolitical speech, preferably on preparedness, the President promised to think it over.

In gay mood, he took a Legion service cap from his desk drawer and donned it at a jaunty angle. Pointing to the insignia, "Independence, Mo., Legion Post 21," he remarked:

"That's my real post—Number 21—though I also belong to Post 340 in Kansas City. I'd prefer to have Number 21 on my convention certificate, if that can be arranged."

Note—The President also showed his guests some of the recent gadgets he has received through the mails, including a bow tie that lights up with the slogan, "Elect Harry Truman."

Roosevelt's Grave

Franklin D. Roosevelt's grave continues to attract people from all over the world. It also continues to attract the interest of the governments of the world.

Just recently, the Chinese Government founded a National Chinese Library, and has written to the Roosevelt Memorial Foundation asking for some of FDR's personal possessions, also some radio recordings of his voice, especially his speech, "Rendezvous With Destiny," and every type of book written about Roosevelt.

Another interesting request came from Liberia recently—permission to dedicate one wing of a new Liberian hospital to FDR.

Who Got To Berlin First?

Col. Alexander Jelisarov, Russian delegate on the Allied Control Council of Berlin, forgot one important fact when he boasted that the Russians alone liberated Europe and that if the British were worried about Berlin, "Why didn't they get there first?"

He forgot that, three years ago today, American troops were in Potsdam, the suburbs of Berlin. Suddenly, the day after President Roosevelt's death, they were ordered out, back to the River Elbe.

The order came after vigorous, almost savage protests by the Russians claiming that the Red Army, not the American Army was to occupy Berlin. This commitment apparently had been made at Yalta.

If American troops had remained in Berlin, the present dynamite-laden situation in that city might have been different.

However, though we can't turn back the clock, it is important to recall that at that time the USA was leaning over backward to cooperate with the Russians—not slapping them down as claimed by the boys around Henry Wallace.

Also, it's important to note that Stalin had laid his political plans very carefully for the future. He was supposed to take Berlin by a certain date. Instead, his offensive delayed to take Vienna—which he also wanted. Then when the American Army, pushing ahead with the sole motive of winning the war in a hurry, got to the edge of Berlin, Stalin sent one of the most savage notes in history to Roosevelt.

Roosevelt received it the day before he died. It was answered for him later.

Oil Lobby Needs Dough

More than one lobbyist is eagerly watching the row between California Congressmen and California State officials over the question of how one phase of the oil lobby is going to be paid.

When California Congressmen heard that California taxpayers were to be nicked $25,000 to pay for a high-powered Washington publicity agent, plus the expenses of State Attorney General Fred Hauser, they held a protest meeting. Congressmen Dick Welch of San Francisco and John Phillips of Banning were appointed a committee to urge Governor Warren to veto the $25,000.

They phoned him immediately. Warren was ill. Three times since they have tried. Up to this writing, no luck.

Meanwhile, Everett Mattoon, Deputy Attorney General of California, called on Welch in high dither, explained that the money had already been spent for the expenses of California's legal staff to come to Washington. Also $500 a week was promised to Eugene Kelly, Washington ex-newsman, for high-powered tidelands-oil publicity.

"The money might be necessary," growled Welch, "but which is most important—the money or votes? You better forget about the money."

He argued that news of the lobbying fund had already caused a lot of damage.

Mattoon tried to belittle the statement of Senator John Evans, Los Angeles Republican, that the fund would be used to pay luncheon checks of mid-Western Congressmen in Washington.

"Any explanation you might have," snapped Welch, "couldn't be made on the floor of the House."

Senate Feud

One of the hottest Senate feuds is between two New England Republicans—Tobey of New Hampshire and Brewster of Maine. On the surface their banter may seem pleasant, but there is real bitterness beneath. They disagree on just about everything.

Tobey was presiding over the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee last week when Brewster, a member of the committee, persisted in challenging committee procedure.

"The Senator is just making a stump speech," observed the sharp-tongued Tobey. "The Senator is good at that."

"But not the equal of the Senator from New Hampshire," was Brewster's acid reply.

"I'll accept that," shot back Tobey without even batting an eye.

Republican Primaries And Their Effect On The Public

By MARK SULLIVAN

The total number of delegates in the Republican National Convention will be some 1090. The number from Wisconsin is 27; the number really significant is, say, a dozen or so—a dozen whom Dewey and MacArthur were expected to get but did not, and whom Stassen got. This is some 1 per cent of the total in the national convention. Yet the result of the primary in Wisconsin, because of sensational circumstances attending it, is interpreted as having major and conclusive effects on the convention as a whole. The interpretation which says that Governor Dewey is given a fatal or semi-fatal setback is not true at all. When a great party has the Governor of the largest state, and when he has a record that makes him a natural and strong possibility for the party's presidential nomination, the party does not throw him overboard merely because of a primary result in one medium-sized state. The Republican National Convention at Philadelphia next June will be made of stiffer stuff.

This brings up the primary in Nebraska this week. Here is a state with eight delegates to the convention, a tiny fraction of a whole, less than 1 per cent. The entire vote expected to be cast in the Republican primary is estimated at some 100,000, an infinitesimal fraction, about 1/250ths of the total Republican vote in the nation; it is less than the vote in many a single Congressional district.

Yet to campaign up and down Nebraska, Governor Dewey last week left his office in Albany and traveled more than half way across the continent. Senator Taft left his onerous post as Senate leader to do the same. Ex-Governor Stassen without a day's rest after intensive campaigning in Wisconsin hurried to begin equally intensive campaigning in Nebraska.

Seek Prestige With Public

Why? The answer throws light on the whole nature of this race for the Republican nomination. It was not the delegates they were after, it was the prestige. Prestige with whom? To some extent with the public, but mainly with the great body of delegates who are being named throughout the country, in most cases without primary races. The prestige sought is with the convention as a whole. It is the mass of individual delegates who will count in the coming Republican convention.

The coming convention will have several marked characteristics all pointing toward openmindedness. Only a small fraction of the delegates will have been chosen in hotly-contested primary races like the ones in Wisconsin and Nebraska. Nebraska is literally the only state in which all three of the active major candidates, Taft, Dewey and Stassen, contend against each other.

Not only will most of the delegates be free from binding commitments by primaries. Most of them will be free from strong emotional commitments. There will be a large number of delegates for Dewey but they will be without personal acrimony against Taft, and the same as to the large number of delegates for Taft. The considerable number of delegates for Stassen will be similarly free from acrimony toward other candidates. The delegates who come for favorite sons will be there with the intention of throwing their strength toward one or another of the major contenders as the convention develops.

Vote-Getting Ability

A convention thus free from strong group commitments and especially free of group acrimonies will determine upon whatever nomination appeals to them, taking into account all the conditions at the time. They will take account of the issues and principles involved and also the vote-getting popularity of the candidates. This accounts for the hectic campaigning of the three most active candidates in Nebraska which is essentially a popularity contest in a small microcosm representative of Republican sentiment in a mid-west and dominantly agricultural section.

Nebraska will be watched to see whether, among Taft, Dewey and Stassen, one or another does markedly well. Depending on this there will be many interpretations, some no doubt too sweeping as was the case after the Wisconsin primaries.

Reason For Army Extolling Labor Union Not Yet Clear

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 12—Official propaganda by the United States Army extolling labor unions and their methods has made its appearance in the form of "talks" printed and distributed "for the use of commanders in informing personnel."

Just why the United States Army feels called upon at this time to enter into such a highly controversial field, emphasizing the good points of labor unions while glossing over or ignoring their weaknesses, is not clear. Certainly it is not clear why taxpayers' money should be spent for any such propaganda and why the "Department Of the Army" should allow such material to be printed at government expense or distributed.

The preamble of the pamphlet states that the purpose of the "talk" is to explain "why labor unions were organized, what they try to accomplish and how they operate." It is added that the purpose is "to explain it as factually and impartially as possible."

An examination of the pamphlet reveals that, on the whole, it states the cause of trade unionism not only accurately but most sympathetically. In the introductory paragraphs it is promised to reveal what have been the "accomplishments" of the labor unions and also "their shortcomings," but one looks in vain all through the document to find anything under the heading of "shortcomings." The document has a sort of objectivity but it is far from impartial.

Description Of Picketing

A certain amount of space is devoted to a description of "picketing" but it hardly coincides with what actually has been happening in many industrial disputes in recent years. Not a word is said about "mass picketing" and the physical violence and coercion commonly used on the labor-union front. Certainly in any impartial summary something might have been said about the abuses of picketing.

The press by inference is criticized for its reports on labor news. The document says:

"Because strikes are news and the public wants to hear about them, the extent of work stoppage in industry has been greatly exaggerated."

While the pamphlet points out that the many settlements of strikes "are not often reported to the public as news" because a strike is "spectacular" and a "peaceful settlement is not," the implication is that the news of the strikes is in itself exaggerated.

The apologists who wrote the document forgot all about the coal strike of a year ago and could not have had in mind that their pamphlet would be distributed during the present coal-supply emergency that confronts the nation, or else they wouldn't have written this for distribution among army commanders:

"Some of the strikes have seemed dangerous to the nation's welfare. But while strikes are costly to all concerned, and disliked by everyone, including workers, they have not seriously impeded our industrial progress."

Is that a factual statement? Only last year an estimate was made before a congressional committee that 18,000,000 tons of steel production had been lost since V-J Day due to strikes. Since the nation is short of steel for its own uses and for the Marshall Plan and since inflation and gray markets thrive on such shortages, can it be said that strikes have not "seriously impeded our industrial progress"?

The coal strike of a year ago was so serious that the Government had to step in and get an injunction, just as it is doing now. The petition for an injunction recited that a grave emergency existed. Yet the Army course of instruction for enlisted men and officers minimizes the gravity of the strike weapon in American industrial life.

The document was prepared by the "Troop Information Branch, Troop Information and Education Division, Special Staff, United States Army" and the U. S. Government printing office sells these "talks" to the public for a few cents apiece. No better piece of propaganda for the use of labor-union organizers was ever written, and the taxpayers of the United States are paying for it, too. All this is issued a year after exhaustive hearings by Congress revealing the flagrant abuses of trade unionism, about which this document is so strangely silent.

Is the Department of the Army trying to cuddle up to the big labor unions which have hitherto opposed the universal military training program? It could be that this is the strategy that prompted the propaganda. It could be also that this is an example of the kind of "education" contemplated for the universal military training program, the educational advantages of which are so often stressed by its advocates.

Unsettled Business

Why do not the chosen statesmen of this country recognize facts? Why do they go through the motions of meaningless protocal? A country's actions cannot rise higher than the level of the intelligence of those who determine its policies. Apparently the American level is a drought.

For instance, Leo Isacson, Henry Wallace's Congressman from the Bronx, wishes to attend an international convention in Europe, designed to oppose the American policy in Greece. The State Department declins to provide him a visa, not once but twice. However, it does provide such a visa for Eugene Connolly, leader of the American Labor Party which is the New York arm of the Communist Party.

Comparatively, Connolly is the more important and more effective person. He has manipulated the American Labor Party—a demonstrable Communist agency—into a power which has sent three members to Congress from New York City and which has politically blackmailed both Republicans and Democrats into providing indorsements for its candidates.

Why refuse Isacson a visa while granting one, for the same meeting and the same purpose, to his chief, Connolly? Either the State Department does not know who Connolly is, which is an appalling admission of ignorance, since Connolly's work in New York today is the rock upon which the Wallace campaign stands, or someone in the visa office of the State Department needs a loyalty test. It is impossible to underestimate Connolly's history or his power of political manipulation.

Apply the same rule to the shipment of war supplies to Soviet Russia which continues at this moment in spite of the picketing of ships and docks by Catholic War Veterans. The President has stimulated the nation to preparedness for war with Russia. He keeps that campaign alive by messages to Congress and by various military activities. But he permits war goods to be shipped to Russia. He possesses the power to end that trade at a moments notice by Executive order. However, when it was proposed that American funds, through ERP, should not be used to supply Soviet Russia with war materials either of our manufacture or of the manufacture of ERP countries but released because of our gifts, the President, Mr. Marshall, Mr. Harriman and Senator Vandenburg united to oppose the proposal.

The conclusion then must be reached either that the war scare is indigenously political and can be discounted, or that the Administration does not have the courage to act quickly in matters which may lea to reprisals. Certainly, the attitude is paradoxical.

Again as regards Palestine, the Administration has pursued a flow and-ebb policy, perhaps substituting polls for principle. Never has policy been so contradictory in so short a time. Judge J. C. Hutcheson, who was a member of the Anglo-American Committee to report on the problem and whose recommendations have been ignored, makes a most interesting point in a letter to the "Houston Chronicle." He says:

"In Jewish history, both Biblical and post Biblical, Palestine is called 'The Promised Land.' In modern history, Palestine, land of promise, may be truly described as 'The Oft Promised Land.' But these promises, except as they are embodied in the mandate for Palestine, are all water over the dam. The rights and obligations of Jew and Arab there, and the obligations of the nations of the world to support and defend those rights, derive entirely from the mandate and the history which has been, and is being, made under it."

We should have had less trouble and many who have been killed would be alive today if the Mandate of the League of Nations had been the basis for consideration and discussion. What was the basis? Who knows? Certainly there has been no definition of terms nor a clear statement of basic policy by the Administration, which has merely responded to American pressure groups and British, Arab and Jewish external pressures. American policy on this subject appears to be as wobbly as the conversation of a moron. What this country needs is a State Department—one that will function consistently for the United States of America. That does not exist at the present time.

That Attitude Of Yours

It is our mental attitude, as we enter a day, as we conduct what work we have to do, and as we associate with others, that determines our happiness and well being, as well as our character as a whole.

We establish either a positive or a negative attitude toward life, and it is that which influences every thought and act. In looking about us we easily pick out those who cheer and inspire us. They are the positive thinking people. They walk on the sunny side of life, though they experience many a shadow—but they walk right through it!

People who are guided by faith in God, and their fellowmen, are the influential ones in any community. They are also the ones who are selected as leaders. It is our attitude toward our friends that ties them to us—if they are worthy, and if our attitude is worthy. It is this attitude that eiher makes or breaks our friendships.

Few people realize it is their attitude toward their 2 bodies that assures health or illness. Mental attitude is everything! The don't-care spirit is always destructive. We must set before us a set of values, and stick to them, as a guide in constructing character. That attitude of yours can be the controlling factor in your life.

In Boswell's great biography he tells of the meeting of an old friend of Johnson's, a Mr. Oliver Edwards. All of a sudden Edwards broke into the conversation, saying: "You are a philosopher, Dr. Johnson. I have tried too in my time to be a philosopher; but I don't know how, cheerfulness was always breaking in." I can't see how anyone can be a failure in life with cheerfulness always breaking in!

People with a cheerful attitude, and with an undefeatable spirit abiding within them, cannot help but be a valuable asset to all life and to all time. An employee's attitude toward his associates and his employer is what establishes unity or disunity.

An attitude of courage and brave acceptance toward all the many experiences of life is what is needed if we would equip ourselves for the triumphant life.

Finland Wins From Russia A Lease-on-Life

The Finns are said to be "delighted" with the terms of their 10-year mutual-aid treaty with Russia, which was signed in the presence of Stalin. Whether their rejoicing is premature remains to be seen. The alliance contains several face-saving clauses for a little nation which has twice fought mighty Russia to defend its independence against hopeless odds. Has anything more than "face" been saved?

The treaty binds the Finns to fight within their borders against any attack upon them, or upon Russia via Finland, fron. Germany, "or any state allied with Germany. In case of such aggression Russia may send troops into Finland only by "mutual agreement," though Russia is pledged to fight any Finnish attacker immediately. Finally—and this is what delights the Finns—Russia promises not to interfere in the internal affairs of Finland.

Such a treaty cannot be described as an abject surrender to Russia. It was, of course, signed under pressure—the pressure of a powerful state on a weak neighbor. Yet it preserves, at least in form, the independence which is worth more than life to the Finns. The concessions from Moscow may be due to the stout resistance of the Helsinki parliament to anything like a diplomatic surrender. Perhaps the stiffening resistance to Russo-Communism in the West encouraged the Finns and moderated the Soviet demands. At any rate, Finland has preserved, at least on paper, its substantial independence in domestic affairs.

In that respect, however, Finland's position is today no better than that of Czechoslovakia before the Communist coup. Communism is weaker among the Finns than it was among the Czechs. But it is strong enough to control the vital post of Security Minister and to infiltrate the army and state police with Reds. And in Finland the Russians have military bases which they lacked in Czechoslovakia.

The newest treaty promises independent Finland a lease-on-life. The development of the "cold war" will decide whether and when the lease will be canceled by the lessor Moscow.

It is a bit hard to understand, declares a Kansas City politician, why we are spending millions in Italy to garner votes, when a fellow isn't allowed to distribute a few dollars in his own precinct in this country.

Kite-Flying Days Are Here Again For Youngsters

Spring has brought a return of kite-flying, such as was indulged in Sunday at Constitution Park, and youngsters in increasing numbers will shortly have their creations in the air. The sport has allured youth since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, and there is, of course, the adventure of Benjamin Franklin, which is credited with the discovery of electricity.

While the area over which kites were flown Sunday here was free of dangerous obstacles, there are, however, certain things boys should remember before putting their white-winged messengers in the air.

Kites with metal frames are dangerous if they should fall on electric wires. In an Eastern city a lad, trying to dislodge such a kite, pulled the wire down with it and narrowly escaped electrocution. Tinsel string, the short with a wire center, is also dangerous and should not be used.

Because it is better if kites are not flown in proximity to high-tension wires, the city's Constitution Park provides an ideal place for the enjoyment of this activity. But in the event the sport should be engaged in within range of high tension wires, and if a kite does become entangled in them, the safe thing is to call the electric company.

It is too bad that the kite-flying contest, the first of its kind to be held here in years, had to be marred by high winds. But to have been able to send his kite up 300 feet, to win Sunday's contest, speaks well for young Everett B. Yankie who handled his homemade cross-bow affair with its red, white and blue crepe paper with such skill under such adverse conditions.

Moscow is exhibiting the usual Russian confusion when it asserts the U. S. started the late war. This country merely ended it.

Eyes Turned On Nebraska For Presidential Primary

Since all eyes are turned on Nebraska presidential primary today, this brief, unslanted sketch of the Cornhusker State is ventured. The first report of it was given to Coronado in 1541, after his quest for the fabled Seven Cities of Cibola had ended in disillusion in New Mexico, and he turned northward in quest of Quivera, which was tentatively located near what is now Omaha. This was another golden city, in land with a river two leagues wide in which swam fish as large as horses. There were great canoes on the river driven by as many as forty men. People "ate and drank from plates and cups of precious metals."

Coronado did not find Quivera, only the summer camp of an Indian horde that followed the buffalo.

With the appearance of French fur traders and trappers on the Missouri in 1700, Nebraska emerges from fantasy. At different times, Spain, France and England have claimed the regions. It was part of the Louisiana Purchase (1803) and became a state in 1867, under the good motto, "Equality Before the Law." The great Overland Trails passed through it. With an area of 77,000 square miles, Nebraska ranks fourteenth in size; with a 1940 population of 1,315,000, it ranks thirty-second. From an altitude of 5,300 feet in the west, the state slopes gently to the Missouri. Average rainfall, 22 inches; 1,000,000 acres under irrigation; first rank in production of wild hay; plenty of cattle, swine and sheep; corn, wheat, potatoes and sugar beets good crops; a salubrious climate.

Just a word on politics: In 1934 Nebraska adopted a unicameral legislature of 43 members, elected on a nonpartisian ballot. In national elections it usually goes Republican—12 times since 1872. Bryan, Wilson and Franklin Roosevelt each carried it twice. In 1944, Dewey's majority over Roosevelt was 96,634. Governor Val Peterson and Senators Hugh Butler and Kenneth S. Wherry are all Republicans, and so are the four Representatives. It has been called the banner Republican State of the Union.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Insects Transmit Rickettsia

Five or six years ago there was no specific treatment for rickettsial infections. Now there are at least three. The first to be discovered was aminobenzoic acid and the latest, chloromycetin. Between these products was streptomycin which worked well in the laboratory stages but was somewhat disappointing when administered to patients.

The rickettsial diseases include many separate maladies. Typhus, scrub typhus, and Rocky mountain spotted fever are probably the best known. Another is Q fever, which was thought to exist originally only in Australia but actually is found in different parts of the world. During the past four years, three epidemics have been recorded in the United States: at Amarillo, Texas; Oakland, California; and Chicago, Illinois. Carrion's disease and rickettsialpox can also be added to the list.

The Rickettsia are one of the tiniest groups of microorganism that attacks man and animal. Only the virus is smaller. These invaders cannot be studied like ordinary bacteria because they die rapidly when removed from living cells. Other organisms my be investigated at will as they can be kept alive in the laboratory on special culture media.

The majority of riskettsial disorders are not contagious. New cases are traceable to ticks and fleas that have been living on diseased rodents. Epidemic typhus comes from the bite of an infected louse; the endemic variety, which appears in this country, has its origin in rat fleas. The wood tick produces Rocky mountain spotted fever seen in the west, and the dog tick is the vector in the east. Fleas from mice were implicated in the outbreak of rickettsialpox which occurred recently in New York city.

The condition, in the early stages, resembles influenza. Practically all varieties begin abruptly with a severe chill, intolerable headache, dizziness, and muscular aching. As a rule, a high temperature continues for a week or two and then disappear quickly. In many types, a rash is observed on the third or fourth day. In typhus, for example, the blemishes start on the body and spread to the extremities. With Rocky mountain spotted fever, the opposite is true; the hands and feet first and then the trunk. Bronchitis, pneumonia, delirium, or convulsions may develop.

The microorganisms usually invade the walls of the blood vessels that are scattered throughout various organs of the body. It is not known as yet whether the victims are left with permanent damage to the vascular system or if the increasing incidence of blood vessel disturbances can be blamed on the rickettsial infection.

Protective vaccines are available for some forms of the ailment. DDT is helpful in eradicating vermin and is particularly useful when epidemics abound. The newer remedies have taken the sting out of the disease, allowing for more rapid recovery and fewer fatalities.

TICK PICKING

H. S. writes: If the owner of a dog removes ticks from the animal's body, can he become infected?

Reply

Ordinarily, no. Occasionally dog ticks harbor germs but the human being must be bitten before they can be transmitted.

BACKACHE

A.A. writes: What could cause the lower spine to become painful when standing erect? All sorts of tests and X-rays show negative.

Reply

The supporting ligaments, tendons, or muscles may be at fault. These structures are not sufficiently dense to show up under the X-ray.

BOTH ARE PAINFUL

L.Z. writes: Is neuritis related to arthritis in any way?

Reply

No, altho the conditions can co-exist. Neuritis involves the nerves; arthritis, the joints.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

It looks as if Rover would have nothing to chase but his tail from now on! The Army is drafting cats to be shipped to Europe for overseas duty fighting the overgrown population of the rat family. So, if you put the cat tonight, don't be surprised if an MP grabs him for duty.

They're having a lot of trouble, though, down at the recruiting center. It seems the cats are refusing to wear dog tags. Not only that, but the cats threaten a march on Washington. They want a prepaid bonus and better housing.

The Army will will keep them in hand, though. Right now they're out drafting minks to be officers. No kidding, it's a big operation. In fact, James Mason alone will supply a full mechanized division.

Of course, we have some conscientious objectors, but they are being properly punished. Those who refuse duty are being exiled to Phil Spitalny's orchestra to be strings on Evelyn's magic violin.

All that has to be done now is to figure out a way to get them to drink powdered milk from a saucer.

The Army is very serious about this thing.

Just yesterday the General saw a girl in a fur coat and put a note on the bulletin board that read "One of our cats is missing."

Truman Confident That He Will Head Democratic Ticket; Chinese Government Requests Roosevelt Possessions; Oil Lobby In Midst Of Money Dispute

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 12—President Truman remains coolly confident that he will head the Democratic ticket this year, despite both Southern-Northern opposition.

He made this quite clear during a chat with young Representative George Smathers of Florida the other day, when Smathers, accompanied by Leonce Legendre, assistant adjutant of the American Legion, invited him to address the Legion national convention next October in Miami. Without batting an eye, Truman replied:

"I'd certainly like to be there, but I'm going to be in a reasonably hot political campaign at that time."

Because of this, he added, some people might think he was using the Legion convention as a political platform. However, when Smathers and Legendre suggested he could make a strictly nonpolitical speech, preferably on preparedness, the President promised to think it over.

In gay mood, he took a Legion service cap from his desk drawer and donned it at a jaunty angle. Pointing to the insignia, "Independence, Mo., Legion Post 21," he remarked:

"That's my real post—Number 21—though I also belong to Post 340 in Kansas City. I'd prefer to have Number 21 on my convention certificate, if that can be arranged."

Note—The President also showed his guests some of the recent gadgets he has received through the mails, including a bow tie that lights up with the slogan, "Elect Harry Truman."

Roosevelt's Grave

Franklin D. Roosevelt's grave continues to attract people from all over the world. It also continues to attract the interest of the governments of the world.

Just recently, the Chinese Government founded a National Chinese Library, and has written to the Roosevelt Memorial Foundation asking for some of FDR's personal possessions, also some radio recordings of his voice, especially his speech, "Rendezvous With Destiny," and every type of book written about Roosevelt.

Another interesting request came from Liberia recently—permission to dedicate one wing of a new Liberian hospital to FDR.

Who Got To Berlin First?

Col. Alexander Jelisarov, Russian delegate on the Allied Control Council of Berlin, forgot one important fact when he boasted that the Russians alone liberated Europe and that if the British were worried about Berlin, "Why didn't they get there first?"

He forgot that, three years ago today, American troops were in Potsdam, the suburbs of Berlin. Suddenly, the day after President Roosevelt's death, they were ordered out, back to the River Elbe.

The order came after vigorous, almost savage protests by the Russians claiming that the Red Army, not the American Army was to occupy Berlin. This commitment apparently had been made at Yalta.

If American troops had remained in Berlin, the present dynamite-laden situation in that city might have been different.

However, though we can't turn back the clock, it is important to recall that at that time the USA was leaning over backward to cooperate with the Russians—not slapping them down as claimed by the boys around Henry Wallace.

Also, it's important to note that Stalin had laid his political plans very carefully for the future. He was supposed to take Berlin by a certain date. Instead, his offensive delayed to take Vienna—which he also wanted. Then when the American Army, pushing ahead with the sole motive of winning the war in a hurry, got to the edge of Berlin, Stalin sent one of the most savage notes in history to Roosevelt.

Roosevelt received it the day before he died. It was answered for him later.

Oil Lobby Needs Dough

More than one lobbyist is eagerly watching the row between California Congressmen and California State officials over the question of how one phase of the oil lobby is going to be paid.

When California Congressmen heard that California taxpayers were to be nicked $25,000 to pay for a high-powered Washington publicity agent, plus the expenses of State Attorney General Fred Hauser, they held a protest meeting. Congressmen Dick Welch of San Francisco and John Phillips of Banning were appointed a committee to urge Governor Warren to veto the $25,000.

They phoned him immediately. Warren was ill. Three times since they have tried. Up to this writing, no luck.

Meanwhile, Everett Mattoon, Deputy Attorney General of California, called on Welch in high dither, explained that the money had already been spent for the expenses of California's legal staff to come to Washington. Also $500 a week was promised to Eugene Kelly, Washington ex-newsman, for high-powered tidelands-oil publicity.

"The money might be necessary," growled Welch, "but which is most important—the money or votes? You better forget about the money."

He argued that news of the lobbying fund had already caused a lot of damage.

Mattoon tried to belittle the statement of Senator John Evans, Los Angeles Republican, that the fund would be used to pay luncheon checks of mid-Western Congressmen in Washington.

"Any explanation you might have," snapped Welch, "couldn't be made on the floor of the House."

Senate Feud

One of the hottest Senate feuds is between two New England Republicans—Tobey of New Hampshire and Brewster of Maine. On the surface their banter may seem pleasant, but there is real bitterness beneath. They disagree on just about everything.

Tobey was presiding over the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee last week when Brewster, a member of the committee, persisted in challenging committee procedure.

"The Senator is just making a stump speech," observed the sharp-tongued Tobey. "The Senator is good at that."

"But not the equal of the Senator from New Hampshire," was Brewster's acid reply.

"I'll accept that," shot back Tobey without even batting an eye.

Republican Primaries And Their Effect On The Public

By MARK SULLIVAN

The total number of delegates in the Republican National Convention will be some 1090. The number from Wisconsin is 27; the number really significant is, say, a dozen or so—a dozen whom Dewey and MacArthur were expected to get but did not, and whom Stassen got. This is some 1 per cent of the total in the national convention. Yet the result of the primary in Wisconsin, because of sensational circumstances attending it, is interpreted as having major and conclusive effects on the convention as a whole. The interpretation which says that Governor Dewey is given a fatal or semi-fatal setback is not true at all. When a great party has the Governor of the largest state, and when he has a record that makes him a natural and strong possibility for the party's presidential nomination, the party does not throw him overboard merely because of a primary result in one medium-sized state. The Republican National Convention at Philadelphia next June will be made of stiffer stuff.

This brings up the primary in Nebraska this week. Here is a state with eight delegates to the convention, a tiny fraction of a whole, less than 1 per cent. The entire vote expected to be cast in the Republican primary is estimated at some 100,000, an infinitesimal fraction, about 1/250ths of the total Republican vote in the nation; it is less than the vote in many a single Congressional district.

Yet to campaign up and down Nebraska, Governor Dewey last week left his office in Albany and traveled more than half way across the continent. Senator Taft left his onerous post as Senate leader to do the same. Ex-Governor Stassen without a day's rest after intensive campaigning in Wisconsin hurried to begin equally intensive campaigning in Nebraska.

Seek Prestige With Public

Why? The answer throws light on the whole nature of this race for the Republican nomination. It was not the delegates they were after, it was the prestige. Prestige with whom? To some extent with the public, but mainly with the great body of delegates who are being named throughout the country, in most cases without primary races. The prestige sought is with the convention as a whole. It is the mass of individual delegates who will count in the coming Republican convention.

The coming convention will have several marked characteristics all pointing toward openmindedness. Only a small fraction of the delegates will have been chosen in hotly-contested primary races like the ones in Wisconsin and Nebraska. Nebraska is literally the only state in which all three of the active major candidates, Taft, Dewey and Stassen, contend against each other.

Not only will most of the delegates be free from binding commitments by primaries. Most of them will be free from strong emotional commitments. There will be a large number of delegates for Dewey but they will be without personal acrimony against Taft, and the same as to the large number of delegates for Taft. The considerable number of delegates for Stassen will be similarly free from acrimony toward other candidates. The delegates who come for favorite sons will be there with the intention of throwing their strength toward one or another of the major contenders as the convention develops.

Vote-Getting Ability

A convention thus free from strong group commitments and especially free of group acrimonies will determine upon whatever nomination appeals to them, taking into account all the conditions at the time. They will take account of the issues and principles involved and also the vote-getting popularity of the candidates. This accounts for the hectic campaigning of the three most active candidates in Nebraska which is essentially a popularity contest in a small microcosm representative of Republican sentiment in a mid-west and dominantly agricultural section.

Nebraska will be watched to see whether, among Taft, Dewey and Stassen, one or another does markedly well. Depending on this there will be many interpretations, some no doubt too sweeping as was the case after the Wisconsin primaries.

Reason For Army Extolling Labor Union Not Yet Clear

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 12—Official propaganda by the United States Army extolling labor unions and their methods has made its appearance in the form of "talks" printed and distributed "for the use of commanders in informing personnel."

Just why the United States Army feels called upon at this time to enter into such a highly controversial field, emphasizing the good points of labor unions while glossing over or ignoring their weaknesses, is not clear. Certainly it is not clear why taxpayers' money should be spent for any such propaganda and why the "Department Of the Army" should allow such material to be printed at government expense or distributed.

The preamble of the pamphlet states that the purpose of the "talk" is to explain "why labor unions were organized, what they try to accomplish and how they operate." It is added that the purpose is "to explain it as factually and impartially as possible."

An examination of the pamphlet reveals that, on the whole, it states the cause of trade unionism not only accurately but most sympathetically. In the introductory paragraphs it is promised to reveal what have been the "accomplishments" of the labor unions and also "their shortcomings," but one looks in vain all through the document to find anything under the heading of "shortcomings." The document has a sort of objectivity but it is far from impartial.

Description Of Picketing

A certain amount of space is devoted to a description of "picketing" but it hardly coincides with what actually has been happening in many industrial disputes in recent years. Not a word is said about "mass picketing" and the physical violence and coercion commonly used on the labor-union front. Certainly in any impartial summary something might have been said about the abuses of picketing.

The press by inference is criticized for its reports on labor news. The document says:

"Because strikes are news and the public wants to hear about them, the extent of work stoppage in industry has been greatly exaggerated."

While the pamphlet points out that the many settlements of strikes "are not often reported to the public as news" because a strike is "spectacular" and a "peaceful settlement is not," the implication is that the news of the strikes is in itself exaggerated.

The apologists who wrote the document forgot all about the coal strike of a year ago and could not have had in mind that their pamphlet would be distributed during the present coal-supply emergency that confronts the nation, or else they wouldn't have written this for distribution among army commanders:

"Some of the strikes have seemed dangerous to the nation's welfare. But while strikes are costly to all concerned, and disliked by everyone, including workers, they have not seriously impeded our industrial progress."

Is that a factual statement? Only last year an estimate was made before a congressional committee that 18,000,000 tons of steel production had been lost since V-J Day due to strikes. Since the nation is short of steel for its own uses and for the Marshall Plan and since inflation and gray markets thrive on such shortages, can it be said that strikes have not "seriously impeded our industrial progress"?

The coal strike of a year ago was so serious that the Government had to step in and get an injunction, just as it is doing now. The petition for an injunction recited that a grave emergency existed. Yet the Army course of instruction for enlisted men and officers minimizes the gravity of the strike weapon in American industrial life.

The document was prepared by the "Troop Information Branch, Troop Information and Education Division, Special Staff, United States Army" and the U. S. Government printing office sells these "talks" to the public for a few cents apiece. No better piece of propaganda for the use of labor-union organizers was ever written, and the taxpayers of the United States are paying for it, too. All this is issued a year after exhaustive hearings by Congress revealing the flagrant abuses of trade unionism, about which this document is so strangely silent.

Is the Department of the Army trying to cuddle up to the big labor unions which have hitherto opposed the universal military training program? It could be that this is the strategy that prompted the propaganda. It could be also that this is an example of the kind of "education" contemplated for the universal military training program, the educational advantages of which are so often stressed by its advocates.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Unsettled Business

Why do not the chosen statesmen of this country recognize facts? Why do they go through the motions of meaningless protocal? A country's actions cannot rise higher than the level of the intelligence of those who determine its policies. Apparently the American level is a drought.

For instance, Leo Isacson, Henry Wallace's Congressman from the Bronx, wishes to attend an international convention in Europe designed to oppose the American policy in Greece. The State Department declins to provide him a visa, not once but twice. However, it does provide such a visa for Eugene Connolly, leader of the American Labor Party which is the New York arm of the Communist Party.

Comparatively, Connolly is the more important and more effective person. He has manipulated the American Labor Party—a demonstrable Communist agency—into a power which has sent three members to Congress from New York City and which has politically blackmailed both Republicans and Democrats into providing indorsements for its candidates.

Why refuse Isacson a visa while granting one, for the same meeting and the same purpose, to his chief, Connolly? Either the State Department does not know who Connolly is, which is an appalling admission of ignorance, since Connolly's work in New York today is the rock upon which the Wallace campaign stands, or someone in the visa office of the State Department needs a loyalty test. It is impossible to underestimate Connolly's history or his power of political manipulation.

Apply the same rule to the shipment of war supplies to Soviet Russia which continues at this moment in spite of the picketing of ships and docks by Catholic War Veterans. The President has stimulated the nation to preparedness for war with Russia. He keeps that campaign alive by messages to Congress and by various military activities. But he permits war goods to be shipped to Russia. He possesses the power to end that trade at a moments notice by Executive order. However, when it was proposed that American funds, through ERP, should not be used to supply Soviet Russia with war materials either of our manufacture or of the manufacture of ERP countries but released because of our gifts, the President, Mr. Marshall, Mr. Harriman and Senator Vandenburg united to oppose the proposal.

The conclusion then must be reached either that the war scare is indigenously political and can be discounted, or that the Administration does not have the courage to act quickly in matters which may lea to reprisals. Certainly, the attitude is paradoxical.

Again as regards Palestine, the Administration has pursued a flow and-ebb policy, perhaps substituting polls for principle. Never has policy been so contradictory in so short a time. Judge J. C. Hutcheson, who was a member of the Anglo-American Committee to report on the problem and whose recommendations have been ignored, makes a most interesting point in a letter to the "Houston Chronicle." He says:

"In Jewish history, both Biblical and post Biblical, Palestine is called 'The Promised Land.' In modern history, Palestine, land of promise, may be truly described as 'The Oft Promised Land.' But these promises, except as they are embodied in the mandate for Palestine, are all water over the dam. The rights and obligations of Jew and Arab there, and the obligations of the nations of the world to support and defend those rights, derive entirely from the mandate and the history which has been, and is being, made under it."

We should have had less trouble and many who have been killed would be alive today if the Mandate of the League of Nations had been the basis for consideration and discussion. What was the basis? Who knows? Certainly there has been no definition of terms nor a clear statement of basic policy by the Administration, which has merely responded to American pressure groups and British, Arab and Jewish external pressures. American policy on this subject appears to be as wobbly as the conversation of a moron. What this country needs is a State Department—one that will function consistently for the United States of America. That does not exist at the present time.

That Attitude Of Yours

It is our mental attitude, as we enter a day, as we conduct what work we have to do, and as we associate with others, that determines our happiness and well being, as well as our character as a whole.

We establish either a positive or a negative attitude toward life, and it is that which influences every thought and act. In looking about us we easily pick out those who cheer and inspire us. They are the positive thinking people. They walk on the sunny side of life, though they experience many a shadow—but they walk right through it!

People who are guided by faith in God, and their fellowmen, are the influential ones in any community. They are also the ones who are selected as leaders. It is our attitude toward our friends that ties them to us—if they are worthy, and if our attitude is worthy. It is this attitude that either makes or breaks our friendships.

Few people realize it is their attitude toward their 2 bodies that assures health or illness. Mental attitude is everything! The don't-care spirit is always destructive. We must set before us a set of values, and stick to them, as a guide in constructing character. That attitude of yours can be the controlling factor in your life.

In Boswell's great biography he tells of the meeting of an old friend of Johnson's, a Mr. Oliver Edwards. All of a sudden Edwards broke into the conversation, saying: "You are a philosopher, Dr. Johnson. I have tried too in my time to be a philosopher; but I don't know how, cheerfulness was always breaking in." I can't see how anyone can be a failure in life with cheerfulness always breaking in!

People with a cheerful attitude, and with an undefeatable spirit abiding within them, cannot help but be a valuable asset to all life and to all time. An employee's attitude toward his associates and his employer is what establishes unity or disunity.

An attitude of courage and brave acceptance toward all the many experiences of life is what is needed if we would equip ourselves for the triumphant life.

Advice To The Lovelorn

This Girl's Boy Friend Tells Her She's "No Good"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl 22 in love with a boy of 23 whom I met about two months ago. He was in service during the war and spent most of the time in the worst prison camp in Germany. He is very bitter about everything and has no use for anybody or even the world itself. He doesn't believe anything anyone says to him.

I have never been out on a date with him but I meet him dancing once a week and he walks home with me. I also meet him up the street a couple of times a week and he always takes me home. But every time I see him he says,"Neither you nor any other girl is any good."

Shortly after I met him, he lost his brother who was an invalid. They were very close, and now he is twice as bitter and drinks twice as much as before. I am so mixed up that I don't know what to do.

"BROKEN-HEART"

Dear "Broken-heart": It seems to me rather foolish of you to spend so much time and thought on a young man who says you are no good. His bitterness after his tragic experiences is quite understandable but, at the same time, it seems to me if he were a worthwhile sort of person, he would be making an effort to adjust himself rather than wallowing in his disillusionment. What you say about his drinking doesn't sound at all good, either.

I don't think any self-respecting girl should allow herself to be sneered at, and if I were you I would refuse to go on taking it.

Parking Lot Committee Named By Mayor Post

Mayor Thomas S. Post, at the regular meeting of the City Council Monday appointed Commissioners Edgar Reynolds, William V. Keegan and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer to investigate the possibility of leasing land on George Street from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for use as a city parking lot.

The Committee was proposed by Miles G. Thompson, of the Chamber of Commerce, who appeared before the Mayor and Council and asked that the parking lot discussion be reopened.

Other business included:

A permit to hang a street sign across Baltimore Street at Center Street was granted to the local committee supporting Will Allen, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Sixth District. The application was signed by C. E. Stutzman, co-chairman of the committee.

Four deeds, Catherine A. Buskey estate, J. Wilson Humbird estate, David A. Robb estate and Elias A. Dyer estate, were ordered filed at the Court House and fees of $40 paid to Lucian C. Radcliffe, former state and county tax collector. The property was bought by the city.

A deed for the consideration of $1 transferring a 5.12 acre parcel of land on the westerly side of Wempe Drive to the city, from Frederick A. Wempe, was approved.

An application to install one 2,500 gallon fuel oil tank at 105 Washington Street by Jeanne A. Wilson, was approved. An application by Virgil M. Barnes, 504 Fourth Street, for a license to buy and sell junk was rejected. Mayor Post said the city building code prohibited another junk yard in the city.

In his monthly report for the local airport, Charles F. Heller, foreman of maintenance and construction, asked that two electric arc lights be placed and additional fire hydrant installed midway between the present wooden hanger buildings.

A check for $30,000 was ordered issued to Cumberland Airways, Inc., former operator of the airport, for partial settlement of the building account.

The anniversary meeting is to celebrate the club's fourth birthday. It will be held May 8 at the home of Mrs. Austin B. Twigg, Jr., and will be an all-day meeting, with a covered dish luncheon at noon. A style show will feature the utility dresses and aprons which were a recent project of clubs throughout the county.

Mrs. P. W. Bottenfield opened the meeting by reading "Keeping Step with God," and singing her father's favorite hymn, "Oh, For a Closer Walk with God." Mrs. Charles Barker, Music chairman, read the history of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and the group sang it. The music of the song, she said, was an old Negro spiritual which was rearranged by William Steffer, a minister, as a tune for a Civil War song, "John Brown's Body." In December 1861 a group of Bostonians went with President Lincoln to visit an Army camp outside Washington and heard the song. Julia Ward Howe was in the group and liked the melody so much that she wrote the words of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" to fit the old tune.

An especially interesting fact about the song, she pointed out, was that on their way to Belgium the first English troops in World War I marched down the street singing, "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory." It will be used as the grand finale of the Homemakers Pageant, which is to be given in Allegany High auditorium on May 10. The Twiggtown group also rehearsed "My Old Kentucky Home," which will be presented in the pageant by the Flintstone, Polish Mountain and Twiggtown clubs. Plans for rehearsal with the other clubs were discussed.

Mrs. George Bottenfield, Arts chairman, presented the picture of the month, "Age of Innocence" by Sir Joshua Reynolds, one of the great English painters of the 18th century. She explained that as a boy he painted so assiduously that his parents early gave up the idea of educating him for a doctor. A sketch of the minister which he drew on his thumb nail during church and copied on an old boat's sail, because he had no paper, drew great admiration from his friends. He later became the first president of the Royal Academy and soon afterwards was knighted by King George III. He used warm colors. Others of his most famous paintings were "Strawberry Girl," and "Angel Head."

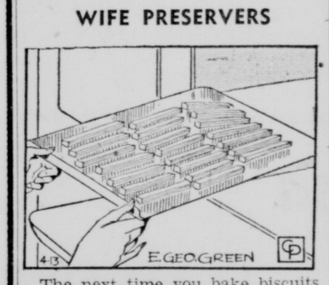

An article on "Moth Prevention" was read by Mrs. Frost. She reported that clothing, rugs and upholstered furniture can be safely sprayed with 10 per cent DDT. She explained that it is the fumes, not the odor which destroys the moth and that spraying should be done once every three months, as cedar chests and closets are not necessarily moth proof.

Five gift packages were sewed into gaily colored bath towels and marked respectively, "woman size 36," "boy age 16," "girl age 15," "girl age 10," and "girl age 5." A list of its contents was sewed to each package. They included clothing, material for a dress, with thread and buttons, wash cloth, hankerchiefs, combs, toys, pencils, needles, thread, chewing gum, tooth brush and paste, besides the towel.

The package was placed in a bag supplied by the Church World Service Center of New Windsor, and will be taken to the Church of the Brethren, to be picked up by the next truck early in May. Similar bags for overseas shipments are available to all homemaker clubs at Miss Maude A. Bean's office.

The hostess served refreshments to members and a guest, Mrs. William Davies.

Twiggtown Homemakers Plan Fourth Anniversary

Pack Overseas Gift Bundles

The Twiggtown Homemakers Club met Saturday at the home of Mrs. Charles Frost, Hinkle Road, and formulated plans for its anniversary meeting, prepared packages for overseas relief and had its cultural program.

The anniversary meeting is to celebrate the club's fourth birthday. It will be held May 8 at the home of Mrs. Austin B. Twigg, Jr., and will be an all-day meeting, with a covered dish luncheon at noon. A style show will feature the utility dresses and aprons which were a recent project of clubs throughout the county.

Mrs. P. W. Bottenfield opened the meeting by reading "Keeping Step with God," and singing her father's favorite hymn, "Oh, For a Closer Walk with God." Mrs. Charles Barker, Music chairman, read the history of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and the group sang it. "Psychologists tell us that to every one of our thoughts and acts, we bring our entire personalities—all our experiences, hopes, and dreams, everything we are and ever have been. What this means for you as a juryman is clear. If you would do your full duty in this Court, if you would give here equal justice to all men regardless of race, creed, or color, you should strive to give equal justice to all men in your entire way of life.

"This, too, becomes part of your sworn duty as jurors—to banish prejudice.

"Life is a unity. The surest formula for being a fairminded juryman is to work hard at being a fairminded human being.

All Equal Under Law

"The right to equality before the law, this principle that everyone is entitled to the same even-handed justice in the courts as everyone else, without regard to color of his skin, the place of worship he attends—this right was dearly won. Men had to fight and many men had to die so that this liberty might be ours. Too much blood has been split over it, too many tears shed, for us to be careless about it.

"It is precious not only because of the sacrifices on its behalf, but because of the security it spells for each of us. It guarantees to all of us that, if ever we have occasion to enter this Court as litigants, our claims will be decided on their merits, in law and morality, and not on altogether irrelevant considerations of the shade of our skins or the particular creed to which we happen to subscribe.

"Behind the occasional monotony, and sometimes apparent triviality of Court processes, great values stand—the striving of generations for equity, our own security, and that of our children. Yes, and finally, the very survival of the democratic system. It is here, no less than in the polling booth, that every day the American way of life is either given its rebirth or condemned to ineffectuality. In your role as jurymen, you are the custodians and guarantors of the democratic ideal.

"As I stated, this will be a year of momentous decisions, made in great measure in council chambers and in legislative halls, but reflecting in turn, smaller decisions reached in classrooms and homes, in churches and courts. To the extent that these larger decisions will be influenced by the daily working of courts, I know that you are resolved that whatever part rests in your hands, will be exerted in favor of light, decency, and justice and in the doing of God's will."

Grand Jury Members

Members of the grand jury, which went into session after being selected by the court, include Thomas E. Gilchrist, Jr., James Quinn, Nicholas Spano, Benny Gerson, Humphrey E. Johnson, Douglas Bowie, Homer J. Cordry, John H. Raupach, Vincent McNally, Elmer M. Rupp, Robert L. Laird, Donald U. Moffett, Claude Ward, Zell L. Teter, Simon Rosenbaum, II, Thomas W. Lloyd, James Rankin, Jr., Aaron Bean, Jr., Irby S. Rutherford, Charles A. Huppert, Herbert R. DeVore and Thomas F. Conlon.

Remaining veniremen who comprise the petit jury include Walter N. Edwards, Sampson Ternent, Robert H. Shearer, Thomas L. Birmingham, Henry Eisentrout, Carl Goetz, Griffin A. McGinn, Joseph H. Robertson, Lawrence E. Meister, John W. Smith, Alonzo P. Miller, Eugene P. Brown, Charles Kuhnle, J. Grant Hayden, James G. McSorley, Edward M. Cheuvront, Harry C. Clark, John Dinning, Henry M. Earl, Joseph H. Griffin, John Robert Carscaden, Frederick Y. Borden, Robert Bradfield, Albert L. Marple and Lewis E. Rice.

After the jurors were selected and the charge read by Chief Judge William A. Huster the court assigned cases for the term of court. Members of the petit jury were excused until 9:15 a. m. next Monday.

Only the KAISER and FRAZER have it!

TRUE ECONOMY- with Your Kind of Driving

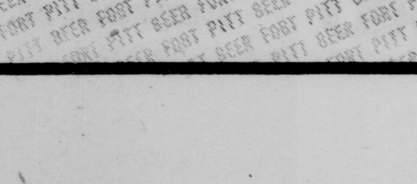

No matter what speeds they drive or roads they travel . . .

Gasoline Bills are Lower in a KAISER or a FRAZER

How many more miles per gallon will you get from your 1948 Kaiser or Frazer? There is only one honest answer. Mileage varies with the speed you drive over the roads you travel. It may be anything up to 26 or more miles per gallon. Thousands of K-F owners verify this. Yet in each case they report many more miles per gallon from their Kaiser or Frazer, than from car they drove before.

Top Economy for '48!—others claim it—Kaiser-Frazer delivers it! Among 1948 full-sized American motor cars, only the Kaiser and the Frazer have highest compression engines as standard equipment. That alone means less waste and more wallop in every drop of gasoline you buy. You get new power and a combination of top performance with top economy that is brand new to motoring.

Four 1948 models now on display—at no increase in price! See them! You'll insist we let you drive one!

Local Pair Arrested In Street Fight

Charged with disorderly conduct as the result of a street fight Saturday night, one man was committed to jail for five days yesterday while the second forfeited $20.

Police said Pete Harworth, Oldtown, was committed to jail in default of a $5 fine and Kenneth Rosbaugh, this city, forfeited the bond.

Arthur Halstead, 100 Lafayette Avenue, was sentenced to serve three days in jail in default of a $3 fine imposed for drunk and disorderly conduct.

Aged Man Treated In Suicide Try

Charles Van Pelt, 71, Bowman's Addition, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday for a powder burn on the right cheek, which attaches said was suffered in a suicide attempt by the man who declared he "was getting tired of living."

A son, Kermit Van Pelt, told attaches, they said, that his father has been despondent since his leg was amputated a year ago, and has grown worse since he returned from Baltimore last week where he was measured for an artificial limb.

Attaches quoted Van Pelt as saying he aimed the shotgun at his temple but the aim "was a little low." He was admitted to the hospital for X-rays and treatment, and was reported in "good" condition last night.

Saggy Defeats Citation In Stunning Upset

Kentucky Derby Favorite Loses At 'Graw Track

12,000 See Sagner Ace Win By Length

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 12 (AP)—Calumet Farm's Citation went down to a stunning defeat today but lost little prestige as the Kentucky Derby favorite. In the six furlongs of the Chesapeake Trial, a $10,000 added affair, Mrs. Helen L. Sagner's Saggy threw a length defeat into Citation, the only setback of his career with the exception of his second to Bewitch, a stablemate in the Washington Park Futurity last August.

A crowd of 12,000 that almost backed Citation off the board in the betting, saw Saggy, a Baltimore-owned son of Swing and Sway, hold on to an advantage gained approaching the stretch. Citation, with Eddie Arcaro aboard, closed with a bold rush to be wearing down Saggy at every stride but the distance ran out on him.

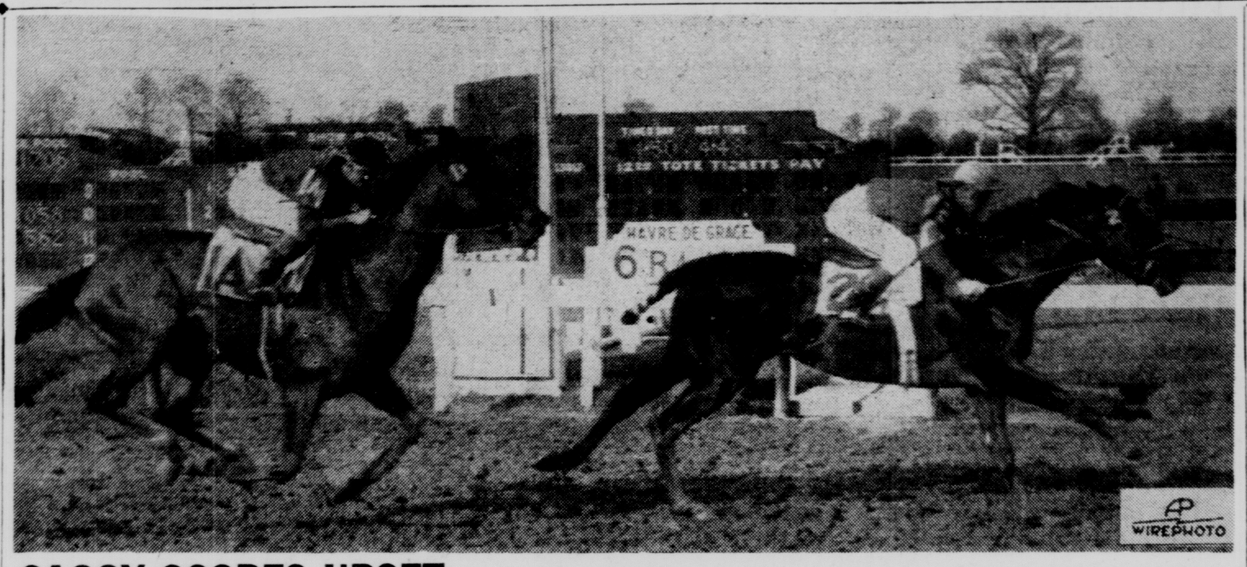

In third position came another Maryland-owned campaigner, Mrs. J. V. Stewart's Dr. Almac. He was 4½ lengths behind Citation. Bovard, Fritz Maisel and Hefty finished in the order named.

Saggy, who equalled a world record for 5½ furlongs here last year, was clocked in 1.12 2-5, creditable because the track was heavy. He paid a $10 mutuel. So heavy was the show play on Citation that a minus pool of $15,242 in the betting of that position resulted, each of the money horses paying $2.20 to show, the minimum allowed by Maryland law.

Arcaro did not ride an abusing race on Citation. The colt broke on top and was rated along as Hefty, Saggy and Dr. Almac vied for the pace. Leaving the backstretch Saggy shook off Hefty and Dr. Almac to gain a good lead while Arcaro seemed to be biding his time with Citation.

Swinging for the stretch Saggy continued to draw out.

It was the fourth running of the trial, a preview for Saturday's $25,000 added Chesapeake at a mile and a sixteenth. Citation gave four pounds to Saggy today. The race, the second victory in five starts this year for Saggy, brought earnings of $8,360.

SAGGY SCORES UPSET-- Mrs. Albert Sagner's Saggy gallops across the finish line well in front of the heavily favored Calumet Farm standout Citation — providing a stunning upset in the $10,000 added Chesapeake Trial Stakes yesterday at Havre De Grace, Md. Saggy returned $10 for $2 in defeating by a length the Kentucky Derby's winter book favorite. D. MacAndrew was the jockey aboard the winner.

Preakness Entry List To Include Calumet's Aces

Coaltown, Citation Enter $100,000 Race

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 12 (AP)—Calumet Farm came up with a one-two punch today for the May 15 Preakness at Pimlico by announcing it would make Citation and Coaltown supplementary entries.

Calumet skipped regular nominations for the second of the three classics for three-year-olds. It will cost $3,000 for each entry, plus another $1,000 apiece to start.

Trainer Jimmy Jones said owner Warren Wright had decided it was worth it to send his two fleetest colts after the $100,000-added money in the Preakness.

Jones reiterated Calumet's new policy of withholding stake starters as long as possible. He explained the stable had so many potential winners that it would cost just as much to keep them all eligible as to wait until the last minute and enter the best conditioned as the race approached.

The decision to run Coaltown along with the established Citation was Columet's confirmation of the coming of age of another son of Bull Lea. Coaltown didn't race last year.

But this season he reeled off three wins that had the clockers blinking and wondering if perhaps Citation would find his conqueror in a stablemate.

Nomination of Citation and Coaltown for the Preakness indicated the same pair might make up Calumet's entry for the May 1 Kentucky Derby. The Wright Stable also has Beau Dandy, Bewitch, Free America and Whir Blast eligible for the run for the roses.

Supplementary entries for the Preakness close Thursday. There were 78 regular nominations when the lists closed two months ago.

Allegany High School will launch its baseball campaign today when it crosses bats with the West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney on the Campobello diamond at 4 p. m.

It will be the first of 13 games for Coach Hubert Radcliffe's Blue and White tossers. The West Virginians opened their season last week, dropping a 12-5 decision to Keyser High School on the latter's field.

Jim Clingan is expected to work on the mound for the Campers in today's contest.

AHS will play the Silents in a return game at Romney on Friday.

Durocher Says Cards, Braves Teams To Beat

Opines His Pitchers Are Worst In League

BALTIMORE, April 12 (AP)—Leo Durocher amazed the folk in Baltimore today by some uncomplimentary remarks about his team's pitching, but all the same he forecast the Brooklyn Dodgers would be just as hard to catch as last year.

The Lip and his Dodgers are in town to wind up an exhibition series with the Orioles of the International League.

He told interviewers that the Bums have "the worst pitching staff of the loop"—all this in spite of the fact they have won all but one of their 29 exhibition games.

Durocher didn't go into details about the shortcomings of his mound staff, but it caused his hearers (and probably the rest of the National League teams, too) to wonder just what would satisfy him.

Although the Dodgers have not met a major league team on their spring schedule, they make up the only big league squad which has been so fortunate in games won to date.

Have Plenty Pitchers

To do it, they have had the services of Ralph Branca, Joe Hatten, Preacher Roe, Harry Taylor and Big Hugh Casey, plus such promising young men as Jack Banta, Phil Haugstad, Rex Barney, Ervin Palica and others.

Durocher figured that St. Louis and Boston will be the main stumbling blocks for the National League champions this year.

He said he never predicted where he would finish but the "Cards with all that pitching are the team to beat, and the Braves will be right up there, too."

Leo let it be known he had a fair idea of how Brooklyn will line up when it takes the field in next week's opening game, but intends to let the fans "use their imagination" for a little while longer.

Durocher said he still needs a top power hitter but otherwise:

"We've got speed, power, experience and balance. Flexibility? We have worlds of it. All I need."

Ray Sanders, acquired from Boston in the deal which sent Eddie Stanky to the Braves, is still a question because he missed a season and a half because of injuries.

Reiser May Play First

If Sanders does not round into form, it seemed likely that Durocher would go along with outfielder Pete Reiser on first and Jackie Robinson, back at his natural post of second baseman. Jackie filled in at first last year.

Willing to discuss almost anything dealing with the Bums, Durocher had a brief answer to the question whether he regretted that Stanky had gone to the Braves.

"Stanky's a nice boy," was his only comment.

Dillard Is Named Top Indoor Track Athlete

Writers Pick Hurdler, Winner Of 54 Races

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—Harrison Dillard, national hurdles champion from Baldwin-Wallace College, was named the outstanding performer of the past indoor track and field season today by the New York Track Writers Association.

Dillard, winner of 54 straight races in less than a year, will be given a trophy similar to that presented to five other athletes since the award was inaugurated in 1941.

Only track man to appear without defeat in all the major eastern meets, the Baldwin-Wallace star was the unanimous choice of the group. There were no other nominations.

Gil Dodds, the Boston Athletic Association's premier miler who has not been defeated in five years, was not considered for the award he won in both 1947 and 1944, having been sidelined by mumps after lowering his own world indoor mile record to 4:05.3 early in the season.

Dodds, Dillard and Chuck Fonville, Michigan's crack weight man, were the only track stars to complete the indoor season without defeat.

Dillard, co-holder of the world indoor 60-yard high hurdles record of 7.2 seconds, was last defeated by Northwestern's Bill Porter in the 220-yard low hurdles at Los Angeles, May 22, 1947. His string of 54 consecutive triumphs includes several flat races he won while competing in Europe last summer.

Dillard holds the National AAU 110 and 200 meter outdoor hurdles titles as well as the 60-yard indoor championship.

Previous winners of the writers' award, in addition to Dodds, were Greg Rice in 1941 and 1943, Leslie MacMitchell in 1942, Jimmy Rafferty in 1945 and Fred Sickinger in 1946.

Reduced bag limits and curtailed seasons cut the sale of the current issue of duck stamps to 1,150,594 as compared with the 1,836,390 sold during the corresponding period in 1946-47.

That Amazing "Y" Team Leagues Lack Quality Returning Fish To Water Cop Scores Another KO

By C. V. BURNS

The Central YMCA Junior "A" team beat its four opponents so decisively in the Hagerstown Junior Invitational Basketball Tournament that the Hub City folk thought Clifton Van Roby brought a high school team to town. They just couldn't believe a "Y" class league team could be that good.

In beating two Hagerstown teams and quints from Waynesboro and Chambersburg the champs amassed 263 points, an average of 65.7 per game. It rained goals the night they swamped the Hagerstown Alsatians 92-23.

The "Y" boys won enough trophies to start a combination hardware-sporting goods store.

Roby, incidentally, reported the Chambersburg game with the aid of a cigarette lighter. As he was giving an account of the game over the telephone to the News the lights in the Hagerstown Elks' Home went out.

"I would have used my cigar but the torch threw more light on the scorebook," Robey remarked.

The action taken by the Naval Reserve in withdrawing from the Interstate Baseball League before the season got under way was a wise move.

It was proven last season that there were not enough good ballplayers to go around among 18 to 20 teams in the district and we believe there are a lot of other teams that should give up the ghost now before they collapse later in the season and foul up the works.

One good eight-club league would just about solve the problem but a lot of persons who are enthused now will not admit that until about July or August when they can't field a team or else send nine men out on the field to go through the motions for nine innings just to avoid paying a fine.

What is needed more than anything else in sandlot baseball in the tri-state district is quality and not quantity.

Throwing undersized fish back into the water is "useless and ineffective."

This is the somewhat revolutionary conclusion reached by many fisheries biologists carrying on independent studies in the southeastern United States.

"Laws which require the return of injured fish to the water are not conservation laws —nor are they sensible," says fish culturist H. S. Swingle of the Auburn, Ala., Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Long observation at Auburn has shown that 75 to 95 per cent of the bass or bluegills sufficiently injured by hooks to draw blood died when returned to the water—even when handled with the greatest of care.

"Naturally careless or rough handling increased this mortality rate. The return of these fish to the water served no useful purpose except to feed turtles."

Marion Klingensmith, the pleasing middleweight boxer, who beat Willie Moore of Pittsburgh so thoroughly in "Vic" Ricker's recent pro show that the latter was unable to answer the bell for the fourth round, is a policeman at Brownsville, Pa.

The big cop who is not allowed to use his nightstick in the ring but hits as hard as if wielding one flattened Norman "Red" Bineyard in four heats at Wheeling the other night, Bineyard had won 10 straight bouts until he was slugged by Officer Klingensmith.

Pittsburgh sports writers are getting quite a kick out of the story appearing in a weekly magazine which states that Ralph Kiner, Pirates' home run slugger, is changing his batting stance. Ralph apparently is dissatisfied with his showing last year when he hit 51 home runs.

One writer says maybe Kiner is learning how to hit behind the runner instead of over the fielder.

That was real nice of "Legs" Hawley, director of athletics at West Virginia University, to give this paper permission to shorten the name of Mountaineers to Mounties whenever the former is too long to squeeze into the headlines.

Hawley says he doesn't care if we also shorten Pitt's Panthers to Panties or Pansies.

TRA Investigates Registration Of El Mono, Winner Of Handicaps

Colt Out Of Training Is At Red Bank, N. J.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 12 (AP)—El Mono, a surprise handicap star during the Florida racing season, is out of training and his immediate future racing plans are somewhat of a mystery, it was learned here today.

Daniel Lamont, owner of the 4-year-old which copped both the McLennan and Widener Handicaps the past winter, reported from his Altoona, Pa., home that El Mono was down on his farm at Red Bank, N. J.

Racing officials here said they understood the Thoroughbred Racing Association was investigating registration of the colt. Lamont said he knew nothing of the report and that he hoped to have the conqueror of Armed and Assault back on the track at Pimlico which opens May 1.

Lamont admitted El Mono originally was registered under the owner's name of Donata Lamorte. The owner said that was the name on his birth certificate. El Mono raced in Florida under the registration of Daniel Lamont.

Havre De Grace officials who contacted the Thoroughbred Racing Association in New York got a "no comment" reply. The local track was interested in El Mono because of his nomination to two stakes during the current meeting.

NEW YORK GIANTS SIGN BOBO NEWSOM

TULSA, Okla., April 12 (INS)—Bobo Newsom, widely travelled right-handed pitcher who hardly can remember how many major league uniforms he has worn, found another baseball home today when he signed with the New York Giants.

Newsom was dropped by the New York Yankees during the winter and has been working out with the Washington Senators. He had been holding out for a fat bonus from the Giants, who are desperately in need of pitchers. But the garrulous veteran failed to collect anything extra in exchange for his signature today. He came to terms on a strict salary basis.

Report Is Confirmed

NEW YORK, April 12 (INS) — Spencer Drayton, head of the Thoroughbred Racing Association, confirmed today that his office is investigating the racehorse El Mono.

Drayton said the disposition of the case "is up to the tracks."

El Mono was a long-shot winner twice in the winter meet in Florida, upsetting such standouts as Armed and Assault.

TROUTING EQUIPMENT

(Editor's Note: Maryland's trout season opens Thursday and ends on July 15, hence this timely article regarding the proper equipment to purchase for the sport.)

IF YOU'VE never fished for trout, have no expert to guide you at first hand, and are at a loss as to just what equipment you should purchase, here's a tentative list that will serve you very well. First, the rod. An 8½-footer, split bamboo, weighing about 5.6 ounces, is a bit on the stout side and perhaps a little short for a dyed-in-the-wool expert, but if well made it will withstand considerable punishment, is whippy enough for smaller fish and can be used in fly-fishing for croppies and other panfish, as well as for bass, if you wish to try a fling for those species.

It should have at least eight guides besides the tiptop and butt guide, large corp grip, be well finished and wound with silk reinforcements at vital points. Twirl the rod, after it's assembled, in your flattened hands. If the tip describes a perfect circle the rod is "true."

I believe the hand operated reel is preferable for the beginner, if not for the expect. The automatic is likely to be heavy, and in the hands of one unskilled in its use may be a peril to the rod tip, besides snapping in the line so swiftly that sometimes the fisherman devotes more attention to the reel than to his fishing.

Anyway, the reel is one of the least important items of your equipment. For a rod such as I have described, the line should be of silk, HCH tapered or D level. After you've done a little fly casting you'll find that choice of the line is about as important as that of your rod.

Then you'll need a set of assorted lures, perhaps a few dry flies, ome nymphs, streamers, wet flies, a few small spinners and several floating cork lures and bass bugs, some of them small replicas of larger casting baits. A supply of eaders, an aluminum case for your rod, a small landing net, creel and rubber boots will round out your equipment.

Though rather cumbersome and heavy, waders that come up to the shoulder are more practical than hip boots if you fish rather deep, swift waters. Make certain your rod's dry before replacing it in its case after a day's fishing or a warped, maybe split, bit of equipment will result. Get off the beaten paths and fish the tough spots thoroughly.

Cleveland Beats Giants, Phillies Edge Washington

Vic Lombardi Fails, Pirates Beaten, 6-5

By International News Service

Gil Hodges, only recently third-string catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, gave further evidence Monday why Manager Leo Durocher plans to use him in the season's opener next week.

Hodges, a wicked hitter all spring, smacked a grand slam homer in the ninth inning of Brooklyn's game with Baltimore. This wallop was the highlight of a five-run rally which gave the Dodgers an 11 to 8 win.

Russ Christopher, relief pitcher obtained from the Athletics, was the winning hurler as Cleveland nosed out the New York Giants in the ninth, 6 to 5.

Bryan Stephens, another off-season transfer, from Cleveland pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 7 to 1 romp over Tyler of the East Texas League.

The Phillies nosed out Washington, 4 to 3.

Vic Lombardi, formerly of the Dodgers, failed Pittsburgh as the Pirates lost to Fort Worth, 6 to 5.

Cincinnati outslugged the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 7, and Detroit downed Little Rock, 7 to 2. The St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 5, and the New York Yankees smothered Birmingham, 12 to 1.

"Jock" Sutherland Rites Set Today

Pittsburgh Steelers Will Be Pallbearers

PITTSBURGH, April 12 (INS) — Those who knew him best—players, coaches and officials—will gather in Pittsburgh tomorrow to pay their last respects to Dr. John B. Sutherland, one of football's greatest mentors.

Hundreds of friends are expected to attend the rites for "Jock" Sutherland who died early Sunday following two operations for a brain tumor.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. at the First Calvary-Episcopal Church in Pittsburgh, with Dr. Lauriston L. Scaife officiating. Pallbearers selected from Dr. Sutherland's 1947 professional Pittsburgh Steelers will carry his body to its last resting place in Homewood Cemetery.

A guard of honor comprised of football greats from the lettermen's club of the University of Pittsburgh, where the 59-year-old Scottish immigrant gained his greatest fame, will take part in the ceremonies.

Jimmy Bivins Stops Thompson In Seventh

PHILADELPHIA, April 12 (AP) — Jimmy Bivins, 186, of Cleveland, scored a technical knockout over Bill (Chicken) Thompson, 176, of Philadelphia in 2:34 of the seventh round of their scheduled 10-rounder at the Arena tonight.

Thompson, who had won 18 of his 20 previous starts, was floored six times, three times for eight-counts in the opening round.

Echaves Halts Washington In 3rd At Armory

Collins Beats Smith, Jim Catanese Loses

Rallying from a nine-count knockdown in the third round, Randall "Skeets" Starkey, local middleweight star, came back in the fourth stanza to register a technical knockout over Herbie Stowe, negro 150-pounder of the Twelfth Street YMCA, Washington, D. C., in the feature match of the Police Boys' Club amateur fistic show last night at the State Armory.

A terrific right smash on the jaw which knocked the rubber mouthpiece out of Stowe's mouth in the fourth round turned the tide of battle and the visitor never seemed to recover from that punch. Another looping right put Stowe down for a nine count just before the round ended.

Just before the gong sounded for the fifth and final stanza Stowe's seconds called it "quits" and refused to let Herbie finish the fight. Harry Groves, one of Stowe's seconds, announced the negro lad was unable to raise his arms and deemed it unwise to fight the fifth round when he was unable to defend himself.

The first two rounds were fought on even terms but in the third something rare happened when Starkey was knocked flat on his back by a crushing right-handed smash to the jaw. "Skeets" took a nine count. In the fourth round, however, Starkey "shot the works" and gave his opponent such a thorough lacing that Stowe was unable to get out of his corner for the last round.

The TKO was Starkey's 20th victory against seven losses.

Washington Is Stopped

The other five - rounder fizzled out in the third round when Matteas Echaves, classy welterweight from Washington, hit Melvin Washington, Royal A. C. battler, with everything but tht water bucket, that's when he could catch him, to win via a TKO.

Washington's efforts were pitiful against the D. C. scrapper, who floored the local boy eight times before Referee Jim Kelley stepped in to halt the slaughter. On two other occasions Washington went down without being hit to avoid punishment.

Melvin started running away early in the fight and Echaves had to do quite a bit of foot racing to catch up with the defeated warrior.

In a hammer-and-tongs battle, Jim Folk, the fast improving featherweight from Grantsville, Md., scored a TKO in two rounds when Billy Wilson of Washington was trounced so badly he was unable to answer the bell for the third heat. Folk went down twice in the first round an dhe appeared to be in a bad way when his head struck hard after the second knockdown but he shook the cobwebs from his brain and belttd Wilson plenty in the second. Wilson was knocked down and was saved by the bell as the second round ended.

The fourth bout that failed to go the limit was the curtain-raiser in which Russell Bean TKO'd Jo-Jo Raeth in the second round. Raeth was no match for Bean and Referee Kelley halted the one-sided affair after a right to the jaw put Jo-Jo on the canvas.

The Washington team made it three wins in five bouts when Joe Collins, flyweight, walloped Earl Smith, Amvets' 112-pounder, and took an unanimous decision, and Joe Jennings, a better conditioned fighter, won the "duke" over Jimmie Catanese, Royale A.C. featherweight, by a 3-0 count.

In other matches Jim Teter outclassed Jimmy Rummer to cop an unanimous decision and Jimmie Deetz, the Diamond A.C. flyweight, decisioned Ted Banks, colored lad from Grantsville.

546 Persons See Show

A total of 546 persons paid to see the show for which John Henry Stitcher was matchmaker.

Jim Kelley refereed all matches while the judges were Howard "Red" Bush and Gilbert Becker, the timer, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, and the announcer Col. Nelson W. Russler.

Announcement was made that the Royale A.C. will present next Monday's amateur show with Billy Dirks and Ed Knepp, of Lewistown, Pa., heavyweights, providing the fireworks in the main 10-rounder.

SPORTS GRILL

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 12 (INS) — Hot off the grill today we have . . . Joe Louis . . . back from London . . . minus spats and monocle . . . he will be guest of honor at a tea & crumpet fight tomorrow . . .

Among the other noted guests of the lifted pinkey set will be those noted crumpet crushers . . . Jersey Joe Walcott and Rocky Graziano . . . social note . . . Rocky will pour . . . he also has promised to wear a tie for the momentous occasion. . . .

New York Giants being swamped by new songs written in their honor . . . mostly by amateur composers . . . sample from lyrics of one song submitted today . . . "and we hope you'll touch home base, sweet and tender" . . .

Fight mob figures the eight angels who are promoting the Graziano-Zale fight in Newark can't miss dropping at least a hundred grand . . . the angels can write it off to personal and business advertising . . .

Reminds us that Madison Square Garden already has received orders . . . at $50 a copy . . . from 28 states for the Louis-Walcott encore . . .

Were you aware that Jockey Warren Mehrtens . . . a Brooklyn boy . . . is a cousin of Mark Roth . . . who was the Yankees' road secretary for 40 years? . . .

And speaking of jockeys . . . turf fans who used to razz Eddie Arcaro . . . even when he won . . . are now cheering him . . . since he volunteered to give his Kentucky Derby fee to the widow of Jockey Al Snider . . . who was lost off the Florida coast . . .

That fee could be $10,000 for Eddie as he will have the leg up on the Derby favorite Citation.

And golf fans are glad the USGA turned thumbs down on Babe Didrikson for the National Open . . . although Babe is undoubtedly the greatest all-around athlete of her sex the world has seen . . . she can't play any game well enough to compete on even terms with the leading male players. . . .

Glad to note the pros are going to obey the USGA rules about carrying only 14 clubs . . . if a pro can't shoot enough with that much artillery he ought to quit . . . and take up croquet. . . .

And we don't see what is to be gained by the 8-oz. glove rule in boxing . . . because that extra two ounces can easily be put in the wrist padding . . . leaving the punching surface as is . . . and unless the boys are checked that's just what will happen. . . .

We now have at least three "sure" Olympic bets . . . our basketball team . . . hurdler Harrison Dillard . . . and perhaps "surest" of all . . . Joe Verduer . . . La Salle College's swimming star . . . whom Bob Kiphuth . . . Yale and Olympic swimming coach . . . calls the finest merman yet seen. . . .

Add optimistic notes . . . Connie Mack . . . 85 years old . . . signs an eight-year contract for his Athletics to train in Florida . . . He'll be 93 when that contract runs out . . .

Saggy Defeats Citation In Stunning Upset

Kentucky Derby Favorite Loses At 'Graw Track

12,000 See Sagner Ace Win By Length

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 12 (AP)—Calumet Farm's Citation went down to a stunning defeat today but lost little prestige as the Kentucky Derby favorite. In the six furlongs of the Chesapeake Trial, a $10,000 added affair, Mrs. Helen L. Sagner's Saggy threw a length defeat into Citation, the only setback of his career with the exception of his second to Bewitch, a stablemate in the Washington Park Futurity last August.

A crowd of 12,000 that almost backed Citation off the board in the betting, saw Saggy, a Baltimore-owned son of Swing and Sway, hold on to an advantage gained approaching the stretch. Citation, with Eddie Arcaro aboard, closed with a bold rush to be wearing down Saggy at every stride but the distance ran out on him.

In third position came another Maryland-owned campaigner, Mrs. J. V. Stewart's Dr. Almac. He was 4½ lengths behind Citation. Bovard, Fritz Maisel and Hefty finished in the order named.

Saggy, who equalled a world record for 5½ furlongs here last year, was clocked in 1.12 2-5, creditable because the track was heavy. He paid a $10 mutuel. So heavy was the show play on Citation that a minus pool of $15,242 in the betting of that position resulted, each of the money horses paying $2.20 to show, the minimum allowed by Maryland law.

Arcaro did not ride an abusing race on Citation. The colt broke on top and was rated along as Hefty, Saggy and Dr. Almac vied for the pace. Leaving the backstretch Saggy shook off Hefty and Dr. Almac to gain a good lead while Arcaro seemed to be biding his time with Citation.

Swinging for the stretch Saggy continued to draw out.

It was the fourth running of the trial, a preview for Saturday's $25,000 added Chesapeake at a mile and a sixteenth. Citation gave four pounds to Saggy today. The race, the second victory in five starts this year for Saggy, brought earnings of $8,360.

Durocher Says Cards, Braves Teams To Beat

Opines His Pitchers Are Worst In League

BALTIMORE, April 12 (AP)—Leo Durocher amazed the folk in Baltimore today by some uncomplimentary remarks about his team's pitching, but all the same he forecast the Brooklyn Dodgers would be just as hard to catch as last year.

The Lip and his Dodgers are in town to wind up an exhibition series with the Orioles of the International League.

He told interviewers that the Bums have "the worst pitching staff of the loop"—all this in spite of the fact they have won all but one of their 29 exhibition games.

Durocher didn't go into details about the shortcomings of his mound staff, but it caused his hearers (and probably the rest of the National League teams, too) to wonder just what would satisfy him.

Although the Dodgers have not met a major league team on their spring schedule, they make up the only big league squad which has been so fortunate in games won to date.

Have Plenty Pitchers

To do it, they have had the services of Ralph Branca, Joe Hatten, Preacher Roe, Harry Taylor and Big Hugh Casey, plus such promising young men as Jack Banta, Phil Haugstad, Rex Barney, Ervin Palica and others.

Durocher figured that St. Louis and Boston will be the main stumbling blocks for the National League champions this year.

He said he never predicted where he would finish but the "Cards with all that pitching are the team to beat, and the Braves will be right up there, too."

Leo let it be known he had a fair idea of how Brooklyn will line up when it takes the field in next week's opening game, but intends to let the fans "use their imagination" for a little while longer.

Durocher said he still needs a top power hitter but otherwise:

"We've got speed, power, experience and balance. Flexibility? We have worlds of it. All I need."

Ray Sanders, acquired from Boston in the deal which sent Eddie Stanky to the Braves, is still a question because he missed a season and a half because of injuries.

Reiser May Play First

If Sanders does not round into form, it seemed likely that Durocher would go along with outfielder Pete Reiser on first and Jackie Robinson, back at his natural post of second baseman. Jackie filled in at first last year.

Willing to discuss almost anything dealing with the Bums, Durocher had a brief answer to the question whether he regretted that Stanky had gone to the Braves.

"Stanky's a nice boy," was his only comment.

Dillard Is Named Top Indoor Track Athlete

Writers Pick Hurdler, Winner Of 54 Races

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—Harrison Dillard, national hurdles champion from Baldwin-Wallace College, was named the outstanding performer of the past indoor track and field season today by the New York Track Writers Association.

Dillard, winner of 54 straight races in less than a year, will be given a trophy similar to that presented to five other athletes since the award was inaugurated in 1941.

Only track man to appear without defeat in all the major eastern meets, the Baldwin-Wallace star was the unanimous choice of the group. There were no other nominations.

Gil Dodds, the Boston Athletic Association's premier miler who has not been defeated in five years, was not considered for the award he won in both 1947 and 1944, having been sidelined by mumps after lowering his own world indoor mile record to 4:05.3 early in the season.

Dodds, Dillard and Chuck Fonville, Michigan's crack weight man, were the only track stars to complete the indoor season without defeat.

Dillard, co-holder of the world indoor 60-yard high hurdles record of 7.2 seconds, was last defeated by Northwestern's Bill Porter in the 220-yard low hurdles at Los Angeles, May 22, 1947. His string of 54 consecutive triumphs includes several flat races he won while competing in Europe last summer.

Dillard holds the National AAU 110 and 200 meter outdoor hurdles titles as well as the 60-yard indoor championship.

Previous winners of the writers' award, in addition to Dodds, were Greg Rice in 1941 and 1943, Leslie MacMitchell in 1942, Jimmy Rafferty in 1945 and Fred Sickinger in 1946.

Reduced bag limits and curtailed seasons cut the sale of the current issue of duck stamps to 1,150,594 as compared with the 1,836,390 sold during the corresponding period in 1946-47.

Cop Scores Another KO

By C. V. BURNS

The Central YMCA Junior "A" team beat its four opponents so decisively in the Hagerstown Junior Invitational Basketball Tournament that the Hub City folk thought Clifton Van Roby brought a high school team to town. They just couldn't believe a "Y" class league team could be that good.

In beating two Hagerstown teams and quints from Waynesboro and Chambersburg the champs amassed 263 points, an average of 65.7 per game. It rained goals the night they swamped the Hagerstown Alsatians 92-23.

The "Y" boys won enough trophies to start a combination hardware-sporting goods store.

• — • — •

Roby, incidentally, reported the Chambersburg game with the aid of a cigarette lighter. As he was giving an account of the game over the telephone to the News the lights in the Hagerstown Elks' Home went out.

"I would have used my cigar but the torch threw more light on the scorebook," Robey remarked.

The action taken by the Naval Reserve in withdrawing from the Interstate Baseball League before the season got under way was a wise move.

It was proven last season that there were not enough good ballplayers to go around among 18 to 20 teams in the district and we believe there are a lot of other teams that should give up the ghost now before they collapse later in the season and foul up the works.

One good eight-club league would just about solve the problem but a lot of persons who are enthused now will not admit that until about July or August when they can't field a team or else send nine men out on the field to go through the motions for nine innings just to avoid paying a fine.

What is needed more than anything else in sandlot baseball in the tri-state district is quality and not quantity.

Throwing undersized fish back into the water is "useless and ineffective."

This is the somewhat revolutionary conclusion reached by many fisheries biologists carrying on independent studies in the southeastern United States.

"Laws which require the return of injured fish to the water are not conservation laws—nor are they sensible," says fish culturist H. S. Swingle of the Auburn, Ala., Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Long observation at Auburn has shown that 75 to 95 per cent of the bass or bluegills sufficiently injured by hooks to draw blood died when returned to the water—even when handled with the greatest of care.

"Naturally careless or rough handling increased this mortality rate. The return of these fish to the water served no useful purpose except to feed turtles."

Marion Klingensmith, the pleasing middleweight boxer, who beat Willie Moore of Pittsburgh so thoroughly in "Vic" Ricker's recent pro show that the latter was unable to answer the bell for the fourth round, is a policeman at Brownsville, Pa.

The big cop who is not allowed to use his nightstick in the ring but hits as hard as if wielding one flattened Norman "Red" Bineyard in four heats at Wheeling the other night, Bineyard had won 10 straight bouts until he was slugged by Officer Klingensmith.

Pittsburgh sports writers are getting quite a kick out of the story appearing in a weekly magazine which states that Ralph Kiner, Pirates' home run slugger, is changing his batting stance. Ralph apparently is dissatisfied with his showing last year when he hit 51 home runs.

One writer says maybe Kiner is learning how to hit behind the runner instead of over the fielder.

That was real nice of "Legs" Hawley, director of athletics at West Virginia University, to give this paper permission to shorten the name of Mountaineers to Mounties whenever the former is too long to squeeze into the headlines.

Hawley says he doesn't care if we also shorten Pitt's Panthers to Panties or Pansies.

TROUTING EQUIPMENT

(Editor's Note: Maryland's trout season opens Thursday and ends on July 15, hence this timely article regarding the proper equipment to purchase for the sport.)

IF YOU'VE never fished for trout, have no expert to guide you at first hand, and are at a loss as to just what equipment you should purchase, here's a tentative list that will serve you very well. First, the rod. An 8½-footer, split bamboo, weighing about 5.6 ounces, is a bit on the stout side and perhaps a little short for a dyed-in-the-wool expert, but if well made it will withstand considerable punishment, is whippy enough for smaller fish and can be used in fly-fishing for croppies and other panfish, as well as for bass, if you wish to try a fling for those species.

It should have at least eight guides besides the tiptop and butt guide, large corp grip, be well finished and wound with silk reinforcements at vital points. Twirl the rod, after it's assembled, in your flattened hands. If the tip describes a perfect circle the rod is "true."

I believe the hand operated reel is preferable for the beginner, if not for the expect. The automatic is likely to be heavy, and in the hands of one unskilled in its use may be a peril to the rod tip, besides snapping in the line so swiftly that sometimes the fisherman devotes more attention to the reel than to his fishing.

Anyway, the reel is one of the least important items of your equipment. For a rod such as I have described, the line should be of silk, HCH tapered or D level. After you've done a little fly casting you'll find that choice of the line is about as important as that of your rod.

Then you'll need a set of assorted lures, perhaps a few dry flies, some nymphs, streamers, wet flies, a few small spinners and several floating cork lures and bass bugs, some of them small replicas of larger casting baits. A supply of leaders, an aluminum case for your rod, a small landing net, creel and rubber boots will round out your equipment.

Though rather cumbersome and heavy, waders that come up to the shoulder are more practical than hip boots if you fish rather deep, swift waters. Make certain your rod's dry before replacing it in its case after a day's fishing or a warped, maybe split, bit of equipment will result. Get off the beaten paths and fish the tough spots thoroughly.

Cleveland Beats Giants, Phillies Edge Washington

Vic Lombardi Fails, Pirates Beaten, 6-5

By International News Service

Gil Hodges, only recently third-string catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, gave further evidence Monday why Manager Leo Durocher plans to use him in the season's opener next week.

Hodges, a wicked hitter all spring, smacked a grand slam homer in the ninth inning of Brooklyn's game with Baltimore. This wallop was the highlight of a five-run rally which gave the Dodgers an 11 to 8 win.

Russ Christopher, relief pitcher obtained from the Athletics, was the winning hurler as Cleveland nosed out the New York Giants in the ninth, 6 to 5.

Bryan Stephens, another off-season transfer, from Cleveland pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 7 to 1 romp over Tyler of the East Texas League.

The Phillies nosed out Washington, 4 to 3.

Vic Lombardi, formerly of the Dodgers, failed Pittsburgh as the Pirates lost to Fort Worth, 6 to 5.

Cincinnati outslugged the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 7, and Detroit downed Little Rock, 7 to 2. The St. Louis Cardinals shaded the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 5, and the New York Yankees smothered Birmingham, 12 to 1.

FIGHT RESULTS

Russell Bean, 130, Diamond A. C., scored TKO over Jo-Jo Raeth, 126, Tiger A. C., in 28 seconds of the second round. Referee Kelley stopped one-sided match after right to jaw put Raeth on canvas.

Joe Collins, 110, Merrick Boys' Club, Washington, D. C., won 3-0 decision over Earl Smith, 112, Amvets A. C.

Jim Teter, 126, Royale A. C., won 3-0 decision over Jimmie Rummer, 130, Diamond A. C.

Jim Folk, 126, of Grantsville, Md., representing the Royale A. C., scored TKO over Billy Wilson, 126, Georgetown A. C., Washington, D. C., in second round when latter failed to answer bell for start of third round.

Mattease Echaves, 138, Merrick Boys' Club, Washington, D. C., scored TKO over Melvin Washington, 142, Royale A. C., in 1:48 of third round. Referee Kelley stopped match after Washington had made his eighth trip to the canvas in three rounds.

Joe Jennings, 131, Merrick Boys' Club, Washington, D. C., won 3-0 decision over Jimmie Catanese, 124, Royale A. C.

Randall "Skeets" Starkey, 150, Amvets A. C. scored TKO over Herbie Stowe, 150, Twelfth Street YMCA, Washington, D. C., in fourth round when latter failed to answer the bell for the fifth and final round.

Jimmie Deetz, 110, Diamond A. C. won 3-0 decision over Ted Banks, 114, Grantsville, Md., representing the Royal A. C.

Collins Beats Smith, Jim Catanese Loses

Rallying from a nine-count knockdown in the third round, Randall "Skeets" Starkey, local middleweight star, came back in the fourth stanza to register a technical knockout over Herbie Stowe, negro 150-pounder of the Twelfth Street YMCA, Washington, D. C., in the feature match of the Police Boys' Club amateur fistic show last night at the State Armory.

A terrific right smash on the jaw which knocked the rubber mouthpiece out of Stowe's mouth in the fourth round turned the tide of battle and the visitor never seemed to recover from that punch. Another looping right put Stowe down for a nine count just before the round ended.

Just before the gong sounded for the fifth and final stanza Stowe's seconds called it "quits" and refused to let Herbie finish the fight. Harry Groves, one of Stowe's seconds, announced the negro lad was unable to raise his arms and deemed it unwise to fight the fifth round when he was unable to defend himself.

The first two rounds were fought on even terms but in the third something rare happened when Starkey was knocked flat on his back by a crushing right-handed smash to the jaw. "Skeets" took a nine count. In the fourth round, however, Starkey "shot the works" and gave his opponent such a thorough lacing that Stowe was unable to get out of his corner for the last round.

The TKO was Starkey's 20th victory against seven losses.

Washington Is Stopped

The other five - rounder fizzled out in the third round when Matteas Echaves, classy welterweight from Washington, hit Melvin Washington, Royal A. C. battler, with everything but tht water bucket, that's when he could catch him, to win via a TK...

Washington's efforts were pitiful against the D. C. scrapper, who floored the local boy eight times before Referee Jim Kelley stepped in to halt the slaughter. On two other occasions Washington went down without being hit to avoid punishment.

Melvin started running away early in the fight and Echaves had to do quite a bit of foot racing to catch up with the defeated warrior.

In a hammer-and-tongs battle, Jim Folk, the fast improving featherweight from Grantsville, Md., scored a TKO in two rounds when Billy Wilson of Washington was trounced so badly he was unable to answer the bell for the third heat. Folk went down twice in the first round an dhe appeared to be in a bad way when his head struck hard after the second knockdown but he shook the cobwebs from his brain and beltid Wilson plenty in the second. Wilson was knocked down and was saved by the bell as the second round ended.

The fourth bout that failed to go the limit was the curtain-raiser in which Russell Bean TKO'd Jo-Jo Raeth in the second round. Raeth was no match for Bean and Referee Kelley halted the one-sided affair after a right to the jaw put Jo-Jo on the canvas.

The Washington team made it three wins in five bouts when Joe Collins, flyweight, walloped Earl Smith, Amvets' 112-pounder, and took an unanimous decision, and Joe Jennings, a better conditioned fighter, won the "duke" over Jimmie Catanese, Royale A.C. featherweight, by a 3-0 count.

In other matches Jim Teter outclassed Jimmy Rummer to cop an unanimous decision and Jimmie Deetz, the Diamond A.C. flyweight, decisioned Ted Banks, colored lad from Grantsville.

546 Persons See Show

A total of 546 persons paid to see the show for which John Henry Stitcher was matchmaker.

Jim Kelley refereed all matches while the judges were Howard "Red" Bush and Gilbert Becker, the timer, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, and the announcer Col. Nelson W. Russler.

Announcement was made that the Royale A.C. will present next Monday's amateur show with Billy Dirks and Ed Knepp, of Lewistown, Pa., heavyweights, providing the fireworks in the main 10-rounder.

Hundreds of friends are expected to attend the rites for "Jock" Sutherland who died early Sunday following two operations for a brain tumor.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. at the First Calvary-Episcopal Church in Pittsburgh, with Dr. Lauriston L. Scaife officiating. Pallbearers selected from Dr. Sutherland's 1947 professional Pittsburgh Steelers will carry his body to its last resting place in Homewood Cemetery.

A guard of honor comprised of football greats from the lettermen's club of the University of Pittsburgh, where the 59-year-old Scottish immigrant gained his greatest fame, will take part in the ceremonies.

Jimmy Bivins Stops Thompson In Seventh

PHILADELPHIA, April 12 (AP) — Jimmy Bivins, 186, of Cleveland, scored a technical knockout over Bill (Chicken) Thompson, 176, of Philadelphia in 2:34 of the seventh round of their scheduled 10-rounder at the Arena tonight.

Thompson, who had won 18 of his 20 previous starts, was floored six times, three times for eight-counts in the opening round.

Preakness Entry List To Include Calumet's Aces

Coaltown, Citation Enter $100,000 Race

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 12 (AP)—Calumet Farm came up with a one-two punch today for the May 15 Preakness at Pimlico by announcing it would make Citation and Coaltown supplementary entries.

Calumet skipped regular nominations for the second of the three classics for three-year-olds. It will cost $3,000 for each entry, plus another $1,000 apiece to start.

Trainer Jimmy Jones said owner Warren Wright had decided it was worth it to send his two fleetest colts after the $100,000-added money in the Preakness.

Jones reiterated Calumet's new policy of withholding stake starters as long as possible. He explained the stable had so many potential winners that it would cost just as much to keep them all eligible as to wait until the last minute and enter the best conditioned as the race approached.

The decision to run Coaltown along with the established Citation was Columet's confirmation of the coming of age of another son of Bull Lea. Coaltown didn't race last year.

But this season he reeled off three wins that had the clockers blinking and wondering if perhaps Citation would find his conqueror in a stablemate.

Nomination of Citation and Coaltown for the Preakness indicated the same pair might make up Calumet's entry for the May 1 Kentucky Derby. The Wright Stable also has Beau Dandy, Bewitch, Free America and Whir Blast eligible for the run for the roses.

Supplementary entries for the Preakness close Thursday. There were 78 regular nominations when the lists closed two months ago.

AHS will play the Silents in a return game at Romney on Friday.

TRA Investigates Registration Of El Mono, Winner Of Handicaps

Colt Out Of Training Is At Red Bank, N. J.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 12 (AP)—El Mono, a surprise handicap star during the Florida racing season, is out of training and his immediate future racing plans are somewhat of a mystery, it was learned here today.

Daniel Lamont, owner of the 4-year-old which copped both the McLennan and Widener Handicaps the past winter, reported from his Altoona, Pa., home that El Mono was down on his farm at Red Bank, N. J.

Racing officials here said they understood the Thoroughbred Racing Association was investigating registration of the colt. Lamont said he knew nothing of the report and that he hoped to have the conqueror of Armed and Assault back on the track at Pimlico which opens May 1.

Lamont admitted El Mono originally was registered under the owner's name of Donata Lamorte. The owner said that was the name on his birth certificate. El Mono raced in Florida under the registration of Daniel Lamont.

Havre De Grace officials who contacted the Thoroughbred Racing Association in New York got a "no comment" reply. The local track was interested in El Mono because of his nomination to two stakes during the current meeting.

NEW YORK GIANTS SIGN BOBO NEWSOM

TULSA, Okla., April 12 (INS) —Bobo Newsom, widely travelled right-handed pitcher who hardly can remember how many major league uniforms he has worn, found another baseball home today when he signed with the New York Giants.

Newsom was dropped by the New York Yankees during the winter and has been working out with the Washington Senators. He had been holding out for a fat bonus from the Giants, who are desperately in need of pitchers. But the garrulous veteran failed to collect anything extra in exchange for his signature today. He came to terms on a strict salary basis.

Report Is Confirmed

NEW YORK, April 12 (INS) — Spencer Drayton, head of the Thoroughbred Racing Association, confirmed today that his office is investigating the racehorse El Mono.

Drayton said the disposition of the case "is up to the tracks."

El Mono was a long-shot winner twice in the winter meet in Florida, upsetting such standouts as Armed and Assault.

RICHARD S. REED HAS SWITCHED TO CALVERT

Says it Really Tastes Better

Richard S. Reed

Richard S. Reed, theater manager, 115 W. 9th St., Spokane, Wash., wondered why so many have switched to Calvert. "Then I tried Calvert Reserve," he says, "and I found that it really does taste better."

Thousands have switched to Calvert because of its finer flavor.

Calvert Reserve, choice blended whiskey, 86.8 proof. The straight whiskies in this product are five years or more old, 35% straight whiskey, 65% grain neutral spirits. Calvert Distillers Corp., N. Y. C.

It's back!! The tire that sets the pace in the low price field!!!

"IT RUNS AND RUNS AND RUNS"

The MARATHON by GOODYEAR

ONLY $12.40 plus tax 6.00x16

Marathon — the famous money saving tire is back in the Goodyear line — and a better "buy" than ever! Back with the economy, long mileage and safety — the extra value for your dollars that made Marathon the favorite of millions of motorists before the war . . . back with more and stronger cords in the rugged tire body for even greater protection against tire failure. Look at these features . . .

LONG WEAR — New specially treated cords and newly compounded rubber make Marathon the tire that "runs and runs and runs".

NON-SKID SAFETY — Those famous Goodyear diamond blocks really grip the road. You get safer, quicker stops — especially on wet, skiddy roads.

"COMPACTING TREAD" — Inflation forces the sidewalls out, compacts the tread. This reduces tread wear, punctures, bruises and breaks.

RICHARD S. REED HAS SWITCHED TO CALVERT

Says it Really Tastes Better

Richard S. Reed

Richard S. Reed, theater manager, 115 W. 9th St., Spokane, Wash., wondered why so many have switched to Calvert. "Then I tried Calvert Reserve," he says, "and I found that it really does taste better."

Thousands have switched to Calvert because of its finer flavor.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 12 (INS)—Margaret O'Brien, who is in London having herself a time, returns to Hollywood April 24. Margaret is growing up, and it's been increasingly difficult to get the right vehicles for her since she is all of a hot 11. Now, Louis B. Mayer feels he has found a story so perfect for Maggie that MGM will start it as soon after her return to Hollywood as humanely possible.

Lorella Parsons

"Child Pioneer," a story by Honore Willsie Morrow, published as a serial in Cosmopolitan magazine, and later printed in Reader's Digest, has been bought. It is set in 1884 and about a boy who is left with four little children after the death of their parents. That boy will be played by Claude Jarman, who is co-starring with Margaret.

Hollywood, usually so quick to help, seems to me not to be giving Craig Reynolds the helping hand he so well deserves.

Craig, who is a veteran, still has a very bad leg. He is married to Barbara Pepper and has two little children. The reason I say this is that Craig, who was an actor before the war, is driving a cab at night. Surely there must be a place in this great industry of ours that will give him work that can keep him at home with his wife and two babies.

Not that Craig is complaining. He's very brave, but he's still crippled, and he was one of the real heroes.

After two years of dropping by the studio to pick up his salary check without ever making a movie, radio comedian, Jack Paar, at last has an assignment at RKO.

Jack, who made a name for himself substituting for Jack Benny last summer, goes into "Weep No More" with Valli and Joe Cotten. His role of Joe's buddy is both comic and serious which should make him happy. I never knew a comedian who didn't want to turn on the dramatics.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Don't be surprised if Janet Thomas and Johnny Meyer marry any day.

Leland Hayward has turned down all offers from Hollywood for "Mister Roberts" because he's going to make it himself. You can bet that Henry Fonda will play in the movie when it is made.

Keenan Wynn and his honey, Betty Butler, dining at a table for two at the Somerset House. This looks like the most serious romance Keenan has had since he has been a free man.

Rudy Vallee, the first of the crooners who started them swooning, celebrates his 20th anniversary as an air entertainer next week.

Al Jolson is trying to buy back the house he shared with Ruby Keeler in the valley. That's the home featured in "The Jolson Story" and the one on which Al spent a fortune.

The William Ludwigs are adopting their second child any day. He is an MGM writer.

Alan Jones telephoned a pal that he has signed a contract to remain in England for 20 weeks at $6500 per. His original engagement was for four weeks.

Nancy Oakes, now in Palm Beach, hasn't forgotten her Mexican flyer boy friend, David Silva, by any means—but nevertheless, I hear tell the wealthy son of a juke box king is trying to woo her.

Joan Crawford says she bets me a hat she won't be back until she finishes her vacation in New York. She didn't say what kind of a hat.

Donald Richards, singing star of "Finian's Rainbow," will be tested in a few weeks for a Hollywood musical.

Skippy Homeier, who has grown considerably since he played the Nazi brat in "Tomorrow The World," is squiring around Lois Butler, a young English star.

Joe Penner's estate has authorized Century Artists, Ltd, a Hollywood agency, to sell the old Penner scripts which will put a new comedian on the air.

Curly Harris and Pat Donnelly, former Miss America, have agreed to disagree.

From New York, I hear that Peter Lawford and Lois Allbright, an MGM starlet, are doing the town together. Peter met her when she was in "Good News" with him. That's all today.

Afraid To Eat Due To Gassy Upset Stomach

"I was so full of gas I was afraid I'd burst. Sour, bitter substance rose up from my upset stomach after meals. I got INNER-AID, and it worked inches of gas and bloat from me. Waistline is way down now. Meals are a pleasure. I praise INNER-AID to the sky."—This is an actual testimonial and we can verfiy it.

INNER-AID is the new mixture of 12 Juices from Nature's Herbs. It has relieved many people who had never been really helped before by any medicine. Taken shortly before meals it mixes with your food, thus eliminating the poisons that foster stomach trouble. It will cleanse the bowels, clear gas from stomach, enliven liver and remove old bile from the system. So don't go on suffering! Get INNER-AID. Sold by all drug stores.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 12 (INS)—Margaret O'Brien, who is in London having herself a time, returns to Hollywood April 24. Margaret is growing up, and it's been increasingly difficult to get the right vehicles for her since she is all of a hot 11. Now, Louis B. Mayer feels he has found a story so perfect for Maggie that MGM will start it as soon after her return to Hollywood as humanely possible.

Loretta Parsons

"Child Pioneer," a story by Honore Willsie Morrow, published as a serial in Cosmopolitan magazine, and later printed in Reader's Digest, has been bought. It is set in 1884 and about a boy who is left with four little children after the death of their parents. That boy will be played by Claude Jarman, who is co-starring with Margaret.

Hollywood, usually so quick to help, seems to me not to be giving Craig Reynolds the helping hand he so well deserves.

Craig, who is a veteran, still has a very bad leg. He is married to Barbara Pepper and has two little children. The reason I say this is that Craig, who was an actor before the war, is driving a cab at night. Surely there must be a place in this great industry of ours that will give him work that can keep him at home with his wife and two babies.

Not that Craig is complaining. He's very brave, but he's still crippled, and he was one of the real heroes.

After two years of dropping by the studio to pick up his salary check without ever making a movie, radio comedian, Jack Paar, at last has an assignment at RKO.

Jack, who made a name for himself substituting for Jack Benny last summer, goes into "Weep No More" with Valli and Joe Cotten. His role of Joe's buddy is both comic and serious which should make him happy. I never knew a comedian who didn't want to turn on the dramatics.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Don't be surprised if Janet Thomas and Johnny Meyer marry any day.

Leland Hayward has turned down all offers from Hollywood for "Mister Roberts" because he's going to make it himself. You can bet that Henry Fonda will play in the movie when it is made.

Keenan Wynn and his honey, Betty Butler, dining at a table for two at the Somerset House. This looks like the most serious romance Keenan has had since he has been a free man.

Rudy Vallee, the first of the crooners who started them swooning, celebrates his 20th anniversary as an air entertainer next week.

Al Jolson is trying to buy back the house he shared with Ruby Keeler in the valley. That's the home featured in "The Jolson Story" and the one on which Al spent a fortune.

The William Ludwigs are adopting their second child any day. He is an MGM writer.

Alan Jones telephoned a pal that he has signed a contract to remain in England for 20 weeks at $6500 per. His original engagement was for four weeks.

Nancy Oakes, now in Palm Beach, hasn't forgotten her Mexican flyer boy friend, David Silva, by any means—but nevertheless, I hear tell the wealthy son of a juke box king is trying to woo her.

Joan Crawford says she bets me a hat she won't be back until she finishes her vacation in New York. She didn't say what kind of a hat.

Donald Richards, singing star of "Finian's Rainbow," will be tested in a few weeks for a Hollywood musical.

Skippy Homeier, who has grown considerably since he played the Nazi brat in "Tomorrow The World," is squiring around Lois Butler, a young English star.

Joe Penner's estate has authorized Century Artists, Ltd, a Hollywood agency, to sell the old Penner scripts which will put a new comedian on the air.

Curly Harris and Pat Donnelly, former Miss America, have agreed to disagree.

From New York, I hear that Peter Lawford and Lois Allbright, an MGM starlet, are doing the town together. Peter met her when she was in "Good News" with him. That's all today.

No Charges Planned Against Weaver

Stating that there is "no evidence of criminal negligence" in the case, State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris said yesterday no charges will be preferred against Claude G. Weaver, 536 Eastern Avenue, in the death of 5-year-old Paul Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Nelson, 475 Baltimore Avenue.

The child was fatally injured last Friday afternoon when his scooter carried him into the path of Weaver's machine on Marion Street from a steeply graded alley connecting Marion and Weber Streets.

Weaver, a 58-year-old pipefitter at the Celanese plant, told authorities he did not see the boy in time to avoid hitting him. He took the lad to Allegany Hospital, where the boy was pronounced dead upon admittance.

Lt. R. R. Johnston, of the Cumberland Police Department, said the brakes, lights, horn and steering mechanism of Weaver's 1941 sedanette were tested after the accident and found to be in perfect condition.

Remodeling Permit Granted For Terminal

A permit was granted to Frank B. Vandergrift, owner of the Southern Hotel, 131 North Mechanic Street, in the city engineer's office yesterday to remodel a section of the interior of the hotel to provide space for a restaurant in conjunction with the new bus terminal to be located there.

The Blue Ridge Transportation Company last week signed a 10-year lease agreement to operate the terminal, with a $500 minimum rental to be paid by the eight bus companies.

However, because remodeling work was delayed by the contract negotiations, the various bus companies are continuing to use the Frederick and George Street terminals for loading and unloading of passengers.

An edict of the Mayor and Council, now being enforced by the Police Department, prohibits the buses from parking on the streets at the two terminals.

Poultry Laboratory Being Considered

By MRS. KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Poultry raisers and businessmen from Hardy County met with J. B. McLaughlin, West Virginia commissioner of Agriculture, to discuss plans for the proposed new poultry laboratory which will be established in Moorefield as soon as a competent poultry pathologist can be located. The meeting was held in County Agent S. L. Dodd's office.

McLaughlin stated that the department had been searching for a qualified man for the past six months to locate in Moorefield to take charge of the laboratory. He explained that poultry pathologists just weren't available as the colleges with veterinary schools have only recently included poultry courses in their curriculum.

When the laboratory is established blood tests for poultry and animals could be run here. The diagnosis of diseases in poultry and animals would be made here in the center of the poultry industry of West Virginia.

Different Type Of Crime Mystery Drama On MBS

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, April 12—A different type of crime mystery drama, this one slanted from the standpoint of the defendant, is to start up on MBS at 10 Tuesday night. This is the period that has been devoted to discussion of one form or another for some years.

Title of the script is "Roger Kilgore, Public Defender," and the stories are to be adapted from actual cases brought to the program's attention by the Volunteer Defenders association.

Announced as an MBS special at 4:45 is to be a description of the lowering, with the aid of a helicopter, of sections for a new church for 300 Christianized Havasupai Indians who live at the base of the Grand Canyon in northern Arizona.

When studio One opens its doors again on CBS at 10 for a display of "The Glass Key" there will be available the talent of Alan Baxter and Elissa Landi.

America's Town meeting, stopping at New Orleans for ABC at 8:30, will debate this question: "How can we preserve peace and freedom today?"

Lana Turner is to do the necessary (if any) guesting in the Bob Hope show on NBC at 10. Program to come from a Hollywood high school.

The Boston Symphony of ABC for its 9:30 hour is coming from Hartford, Conn., where it has listed a "world radio" premiere of Walter Piston's "Symphony No. 3"

Confusion Reigns

The only sponsored one-hour television network show in this country or any other country is the Kraft Television Theatre, which is on N. B. C.'s five-city East Coast network every Wednesday at 9 p. m. E. S. T. It has been on the air a year. Once a week, after a spasm of blind, creative, highly experimental effort, a team of two directors and one writer produces a full hour drama which ranges from terrible to good. Considering the difficulties involved, the fact that anything at all is put on the air is a remarkable triumph.

John Crosby

If you wandered into the NBC television studios last Wednesday afternoon, you would have encountered the final rehearsal of Kraft's latest production, "June Moon." The place is a hotbox. One hundred thirty-six bulbs, each three times the size of a 100-watt bulb, beam down on the sets. The room is much too small for all the people and equipment. Cameras, cameramen, crewmen, actors, script girls, directors stumble over each other's feet. The floor is a sand trap of cables and equipment. The RCA Building was getting pretty cramped for its radio facilities and it has precious little space for television.

There are three settings, all of them tiny by any other theatrical standards, placed against three walls. One is an interior train scene with a single coach seat and window. Another is the corner of a living room with a piano, and the third is an office with one of those little swinging gates, a window through which can be seen painted skyscrapers and another piano.

Confusion reigns. This state of affairs is common to all television. If you ask one vice-president of N.B.C. if they plan to televise their radio shows, he will answer definitely in the affirmative. If you ask another, he will be equally definite in the negative. One expert will tell you televised drama will ultimately all be filmed; another will tell you televised drama will all be live. It's a sort of truculent confusion in which every one is quite positive they're going somewhere though they don't know just where.

This particular scene might be described as creative confusion. There is a babble of talk and the heat is stifling. The director asks an actor to lift his head a little more, which means his eyes must face into that pitiless glare. He lifts red-rimmed, exhausted eyes as he is told. The actress next to him looks as if she's suffering from heat exhaustion.

They have rehearsed for seven days. For the first few days they rehearsed in a bare room with collapsible chairs lined up to indicate sets. For three or four days after that they were on the set without cameras. Today—show day—they will rehearse five hours under cameras, take a break, then have a dress rehearsal for two more hours. After that they go on the air—a full hour.

Unlike radio, they have no scripts. Unlike the movies, they can't do retakes. Unlike the theater, the curtain never comes down. Once on the air there is no respite. They can't even be cued. They're on their own.

For all these reasons the film advocates argue that televised drama cannot be live when television reaches full growth. Actors, they claim, simply couldn't stand the tension of playing to 20,000,000 people as do radio actors who have a script in their hands and nothing to worry about but their voices.

At the moment the point is academic. The director is not worrying about his live—or half-live—actors but about the mobile camera, which can't swing from one set to another rapidly enough. The actors take it easy a moment. In one corner sits a young actress, temporarily transfixed by "Variety" and completely at ease. Like most television actresses, she comes from the theater, picks up radio or television jobs when she can. She will get $75 for this week's work and is happy to get it.

Stage actors have worked out better than either movie or radio actors because they can sustain a mood and memorize lines. Right now, though, every one is trying to get into the act. Radio actors, clinging firmly to their well-heeled jobs, are dipping a toe into television just in case. In Hollywood, name actors who normally charge a $5,000 guest star fee in radio can be procured for nothing in television. (You never know where this thing will lead). Fred Allen, a mighty high-priced guest star in radio, appeared for free recently on a New York television show just to see what it was all about.

The regulars are mostly unknowns who do a little bit of everything. There is only one known actor who acts in television only. His name is Vaughn Taylor. He came from the theater originally but is concentrating solely on television, an eccentricity which has gained him a sort of dubious immortality.

"Dolly in," says the director in mild tones, and the camera moves closer.

John Crosby

If you wandered into the NBC television studios last Wednesday afternoon, you would have encountered the final rehearsal of Kraft's latest production, "June Moon." The place is a hotbox. One hundred thirty-six bulbs, each three times the size of a 100-watt bulb, beam down on the sets. The room is much too small for all the people and equipment. Cameras, cameramen, crewmen, actors, script girls, directors stumble over each other's feet. The floor is a sand trap of cables and equipment. The RCA Building was getting pretty cramped for its radio facilities and it has precious little space for television.

There are three settings, all of them tiny by any other theatrical standards, placed against three walls. One is an interior train scene with a single coach seat and window. Another is the corner of a living room with a piano, and the third is an office with one of those little swinging gates, a window through which can be seen painted skyscrapers and another piano.

Confusion reigns. This state of affairs is common to all television. If you ask one vice-president of N.B.C. if they plan to televise their radio shows, he will answer definitely in the affirmative. If you ask another, he will be equally definite in the negative. One expert will tell you televised drama will ultimately all be filmed; another will tell you televised drama will all be live. It's a sort of truculent confusion in which every one is quite positive they're going somewhere though they don't know just where.

This particular scene might be described as creative confusion. There is a babble of talk and the heat is stifling. The director asks an actor to lift his head a little more, which means his eyes must face into that pitiless glare. He lifts red-rimmed, exhausted eyes as he is told. The actress next to him looks as if she's suffering from heat exhaustion.

They have rehearsed for seven days. For the first few days they rehearsed in a bare room with collapsible chairs lined up to indicate sets. For three or four days after that they were on the set without cameras. Today—show day—they will rehearse five hours under cameras, take a break, then have a dress rehearsal for two more hours. After that they go on the air—a full hour.

Unlike radio, they have no scripts. Unlike the movies, they can't do retakes. Unlike the theater, the curtain never comes down. Once on the air there is no respite. They can't even be cued. They're on their own.

For all these reasons the film advocates argue that televised drama cannot be live when television reaches full growth. Actors, they claim, simply couldn't stand the tension of playing to 20,000,000 people as do radio actors who have a script in their hands and nothing to worry about but their voices.

At the moment the point is academic. The director is not worrying about his live—or half-live—actors but about the mobile camera, which can't swing from one set to another rapidly enough. The actors take it easy a moment. In one corner sits a young actress, temporarily transfixed by "Variety" and completely at ease. Like most television actresses, she comes from the theater, picks up radio or television jobs when she can. She will get $75 for this week's work and is happy to get it.

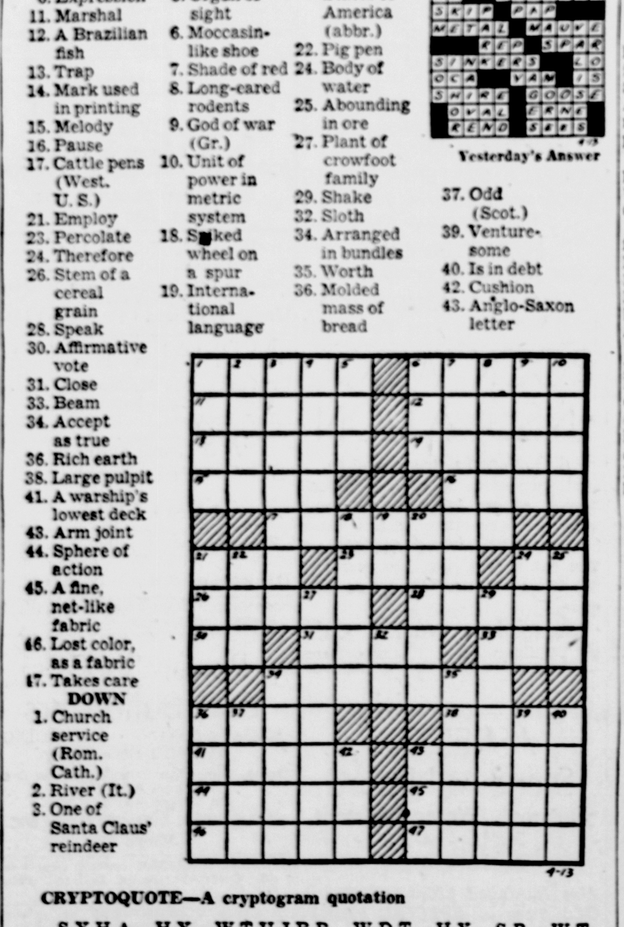

Stage actors have worked out better than either movie or radio actors because they can sustain a mood and memorize lines. Right now, though, every one is trying to get into the act. Radio actors, clinging firmly to their well-heeled jobs, are dipping a toe into television just in case. In Hollywood, name actors who normally charge a $5,000 guest star fee in radio can be procured for nothing in television. (You never know where this thing will lead). Fred Allen, a mighty high-priced guest star in radio, appeared for free recently on a New York television show just to see what it was all about.

The regulars are mostly unknowns who do a little bit of everything. There is only one known actor who acts in television only. His name is Vaughn Taylor. He came from the theater originally but is concentrating solely on television, an eccentricity which has gained him a sort of dubious immortality.

"Dolly in," says the director in mild tones, and the camera moves closer.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our dear son, George Korns Garvin, who passed away one year ago, April 13, 1947.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you;
Life has never been the same.
Before our eyes we saw you fade,
Growing weaker day by day,
As helpless we stood by
And drained the cup of bitter grief,
The day we saw you die.
Memories are treasures none can steal,
Death leaves a heartache none can heal.
Sadly missed by the Family,
HIS MOTHER, MRS. R. D. SPEARS.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our dear son, George Korns Garvin, who passed away one year ago, April 13, 1947.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you;
Life has never been the same.
Before our eyes we saw you fade,
Growing weaker day by day,
As helpless we stood by
And drained the cup of bitter grief,
The day we saw you die.
Memories are treasures none can steal,
Death leaves a heartache none can heal.
Sadly missed by the Family,
HIS MOTHER, MRS. R. D. SPEARS.

Stock Average Stumbles After 11 Market Sessions Without Skid

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—Stocks skidded on average today after 11 market sessions without a stumble.

Dealings slowed at intervals but volume crossed the million-mark for the sixteenth day since March 18 notwithstanding continuance of the financial workers' strike. Total for the full proceedings was 1,020,000 shares compared with 1,380,000 Friday. It was the smallest five-hour figure since March 29.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .1 of a point at 66, first dip since March 29. The market was relatively broad, 1,024 issues registering. Of these, 456 fell and 325 rose.

Touching tops for 1948 were Standard Oil (N.J.), which finished up five-eighths at 78⅝, well under the best, following declaration of a cash and stock dividend; American Woolen one at 45 and Union Carbide five-eighths at 109⅞.

Pullman added 1¼ at 49½ on record peace-time business. Grumman Aircraft was up 1¼ at 40⅞. Improvement was retained by Santa Fe, United States Rubber, Lockheed, Glenn Martin, Kennecott, Pepsi-Cola, Paramount Pictures and Sears Roebuck.

Superior Oil of California dropped four points at 198 on a single transaction. Off one to two were Owens-Illinois at 58, United States Gypsum 93½, du Pont 174, Allied Chemical 188½ and Cerro De Pasco 26.

In arrears were United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Schenley, Western Union, International Telephone, Anaconda, American Smelting, General Electric, Zenith Radio (in the face of a dividend boost), New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Illinois Central, Mission Corporation and Eastern Air Lines.

Stock Average Stumbles After 11 Market Sessions Without Skid

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—Stocks skidded on average today after 11 market sessions without a stumble.

Apparent settlement of the coal mine controversy brought scant response from the list as a whole.

Dealings slowed at intervals but volume crossed the million-mark for the sixteenth day since March 18 notwithstanding continuance of the financial workers' strike. Total for the full proceedings was 1,020,000 shares compared with 1,380,000 Friday. It was the smallest five-hour figure since March 29.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .1 of a point at 66, first dip since March 29. The market was relatively broad, 1,024 issues registering. Of these, 456 fell and 325 rose.

Touching tops for 1948 were Standard Oil (N.J.), which finished up five-eighths at 78⅝, well under the best, following declaration of a cash and stock dividend; American Woolen one at 45 and Union Carbide five-eighths at 109⅞.

Pullman added 1¼ at 49½ on record peace-time business. Grumman Aircraft was up 1¼ at 40⅞. Improvement was retained by Santa Fe, United States Rubber, Lockheed, Glenn Martin, Kennecott, Pepsi-Cola, Paramount Pictures and Sears Roebuck.

Superior Oil of California dropped four points at 198 on a single transaction. Off one to two were Owens-Illinois at 58, United States Gypsum 93½, du Pont 174, Allied Chemical 188½ and Cerro De Pasco 26.

In arrears were United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Schenley, Western Union, International Telephone, Anaconda, American Smelting, General Electric, Zenith Radio (in the face of a dividend boost), New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Illinois Central, Mission Corporation and Eastern Air Lines.

Selected rails advanced but the bond market otherwise was irregular.

LaVale Soldier Is Arrested In Drug Store Assault Case

Edgar W. Bryner Confesses Attack

A discarded blackjack yesterday led to the return here of a 20-year-old LaVale soldier from his Army post to face charges of assaulting a local drug store proprietress with a deadly weapon, according to Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn.

Identified as Edgar W. Bryner, stationed at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, police said the youth confessed to assaulting Mrs. Helen Stark at her drug store, corner of North Centre and Knox Streets, last Thursday "to get some money."

The LaVale soldier, who admitted he was AWOL at the time he assaulted Mrs. Stark, was returned here by Lt. Detective Edwin R. Lilya and Detective Thomas J. See after being identified through a blackjack that he discarded while fleeing from the store.

Bryner in his statement made to the two detectives said he struck Mrs. Stark over the head with a blackjack purchased in Cumberland about four weeks ago when she refused to go to a back room as he commanded her.

Walked To Home

After striking the victim, Bryner told police he fled down Centre Street to Bow Street where he cut over to Mechanic Street and then continued up Market Street to Washington Street and on to Braddock Road from where he walked to LaVale.

The youth, who had been AWOL from his post for several days, according to police, returned to camp the following day. Chief Flynn said the blackjack found on Bow Street led to the identity of Bryner and the two detectives were sent to Aberdeen Sunday.

"I never intended to strike her," police quoted the youth as saying, "but only intenden to get money from the cash register after I forced her into the back room."

Bryner told police he waited in the store for about 15 minutes after purchasing some worming pills for a dog, and then when the proprietress returned from answering a telephone in the back room he struck her.

Police said they were not sure when the soldier came here from camp but Chief Flynn explained they learned he was at Aberdeen after a detective was sent to the LaVale home last Saturday.

To Be Questioned Further

Bryner was returned to the City Jail yesterday at 2:40 p. m. and booked as "held for investigation." He will be taken to the office of the State's Attorney today for further questioning.

Authorities said the youth's statement and other evidence will probably be presented to the present term of grand jury which convened yesterday morning.

Following the assault Mrs. Stark was treated by a local physician for a deep laceration on the top of her head which the physician said required two clamps to close. She returned to work at the store about an hour later.

Ten Indictments Found By Grand Jury First Day

The April term of Circuit Court grand jury, with Dr. John L. Dunkle, former president of Frostburg State Teachers College, as foreman, began deliberations yesterday morning, returned 10 indictments and sent a committee to visit the Allegany County Home and Infirmary.

The charge to the grand jury was delivered by Chief Judge William A. Huster, in which he made an eloquent appeal for equality, justice and the banishment of prejudice in all forms.

After outlining the inspections and other duties of the grand jurors as described by law, Judge Huster said in part:

"It is further customary for a judge to instruct the incoming jurors as to their duties and responsibilities. Fateful events brood over this year, which might appear to dwarf the routine, often humdrum, processes of justice. And yet, vast as will be the enterprises in which our country will engage, their success, their lines of communication, so to speak, will depend for maintenance upon the discharge of our work-a-day chores.

Must Decide On Evidence

"For example, a conscientious juror should recognize that abhorrent as a specific principle of law may seem by his concepts of justice, he must take the law from the court and not substitute his personal notions of what the law should be, or, a juror accepting the full responsibility and dignity of his role as judge of the facts, would appreciate without instructions that he must not prejudge the case until the trial has been concluded. As I recite these directions to attentive jurors, their purpose must become self-evident, so I shall limit myself to a final equally manifest, but most important injunction, against deciding any question upon extraneous

Charter Committee Suggests Naming Legal Advisers

Full Commission To Consider Proposals

Appointment of legal consultants to aid the Cumberland Charter Commission was recommended last night at the first meeting of the committee on procedure, which was appointed recently by Isaac Hirsch, commission chairman.

W. Earle Cobey, vice chairman and a member of the sub-committee, suggested that Charles Z. Heskett, former city attorney; David Kauffman, local attorney and past president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, and the county attorney be asked to serve in a consultant capacity.

Mr. Hirsch pointed out that City Attorney Thomas B. Finan is considered an ex-officio member of the commission, which was appointed by Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The recommendation will be presented at the next meeting of the full commission, scheduled for next Monday night, April 19, at 7:30 o'clock in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Last night's session was held at the home of Mr. Hirsch, 646 Washington Street.

Other Proposals Made

Other recommendations which will be presented to the commission next Monday follow:

1. Preparation of an information kit for each of the 14 commission members, containing copies of the present city charter; the two charters drawn up by Mr. Hirsch and Heskett in 1929 and 1939, respectively; and such data from the National Municipal League as may be considered necessary.

(The Hirsch charter was approved by the General Assembly but vetoed by Governor Ritchie, while the Heskett charter failed to pass the Assembly.)

2. That the commission as a whole decide the essential parts of which the charter is to be made, such as the type of organization of the city government, with the chairman to appoint sub-committees to study each section.

3. That public hearings be held to receive suggestions regarding the proposed new charter from Cumberland citizens, and that the commission invite the public to submit written suggestions by mail.

Hearings Suggested

Hitchins suggested that from one to three public hearings be held at the outset to determine public sentiment regarding various types of city government.

Frank A. Wolfhope, a member of the committee on procedure, suggested that a committee be named to visit the various city departments to obtain suggestions regarding the formulation of a charter.

However, Cobey and Owen E. Hitchins pointed out that the various sub-committees could conduct that phase of the study.

Appointment of the sub-committees to study the problems and needs of the various city departments was suggested by Cobey. Hitchins said a similar procedure was used by the Sherbow Commission during its study of the allocation of state funds to incorporated municipalities, counties and towns.

Others attending last night's meeting were George Buchanan and John M. Robb, commission secretary. The fifth member of the committee, Thomas Lohr Richards, was unable to attend.

Negotiations To Reopen Today At Moorefield

With over 60 of the 70 employes of the J. Natwick and Company, Moorefield, W. Va., plant on strike, negotiations will get underway today at 10 o'clock, Price Riggleman, president of the striking Furniture Workers Union, said last night.

The management, represented by J. M. Martin, plant superintendent, and John C. Cook, of the Baltimore office, will meet with the negotiating committee.

Both Martin and Riggleman were hopeful that a decision would be reached at the session.

Decree Signed

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed a decree in Circuit Court yesterday granting a divorce to Jaqueline Mae Hillebrecht, Ellerslie, from Fred J. Hillebrecht. She was granted custody of a child.

Rubber Workers Will Open Wage Talks Thursday

Health And Welfare Plans To Be Asked

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, will open negotiations with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Thursday for a 30-cents an hour wage increase, A. E. Johnson, president, reported yesterday.

He said the union, at the meeting planned Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Kelly plant, will formally present the wage boost plans set down by the URCLPWA which include a health and welfare program.

When the URCLPWA began laying plans for the wage increase in February, L. S. Buckmaster, president, said the request for the increase is "simply an effort to restore the living standards of Rubber Workers, which have been steadily decreasing under the impact of rising living costs."

The local will elect two members of its contract negotiating committee at a meeting planned Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Johnson said.

Other special business scheduled for that meeting are the election of two delegates to the Western Maryland labor Unity Conference and discussion and action on the local's participation in the co-operative movement here.

The Local 26 executive board will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

The Lay Section of the Health Department is working with other agencies in the campaign. These groups provide volunteer services in rural areas and towns and plan programs in conjunction with the County Health Department.

Woman With Wounds Like Crucified Christ Described By Frostburger

The sufferings of a Konnersreuth, Bavaria, woman who on Good Friday bleeds at the hands, feet and shoulders similar to the markings of the crucified Christ, were described in a letter by a former Frostburg woman who witnessed the scene last Good Friday.

According to Mrs. Sally Lanasa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Price, Frostburg, she and her husband, Capt. Philip Lanasa, who is serving in Germany with the United States Army, visited the home of Teresa Neumann, who has aroused world-wide interest by the strange affliction.

Mrs. Lanasa describes her visit as follows:

"Teresa Neumann, who refuses any publicity, lives in a tiny little house. Her suffering is something none of us could believe until we saw it. One of the doctors who had been there last year said he thought it was a miracle. Along with the cripples, the blind and the maimed we were permitted to walk into her room on the second floor.

"She was sitting up in bed and I never experienced such a feeling as when I saw square holes in her hands like nail holes from which blood flowed. Blood also flowed from her shoulder where Christ carried the cross and her eyes and the mark of the thorns was on her forehead. A doctor in our party watched her for a long time and said that she lost enough blood to kill an ordinary person. A camera fan in the party tried to take a picture of her, but was ordered to leave by a priest when Teresa started weird moans of pain. The priest explained when someone in the room is very evil and does something displeasing to God, she (Teresa Neumann) suffers more pain.

"This visit is something I'll never forget. I came away — in fact all of us did — with a feeling of being unable to explain or understand what we saw, something not of this world. She claims no healing power or miracles, but the blind and cripples come away feeling their affliction less for having seen the agonies of the cross. It's a strange world."

According to Mrs. Lanasa, a majority of the pilgrims, American and German, said they were convinced they had seen a supernatural phenomenon. Some called it a miracle. Only a few believed that medicine or science would find an answer.

Mrs. Lanasa, a graduate and later a teacher at Beall High School, is also a graduate of Western Maryland College. Her husband is also a graduate of Western Maryland.

Only Few Area Mines To Resume Work Today

Operators Ready But Miners Still Waiting

Mine operators in the Georges Creek and Upper Potomac River soft coal regions said last night, as did local railroad officials, that mines are ready for operation today, if the miners return to work. Railroad cars have been placed on sidings, mine pits have been inspected and fans and power plants started.

However, union officials were non-commital and some were pessimistic over the situation.

With John L. Lewis facing contempt of court charges and his arraignment set for Wednesday morning, it seemed apparent here last night that some miners would remain away from the pits until this action is settled.

Some union miners ventured the opinion that "even those who might return to work Tuesday don't have to continue to work if Lewis is fined again."

When the agreement was reached on pensions, Lewis sent telegrams to the various United Mine Workers districts telling the miners the contract had been honored. This was regarded as a signal to return to work, but district officials in various sections said, "We are not too optimistic and do not look for full production until the hearing on the contempt charge is over."

Mines Open At Thomas

While there was little assurance last night that miners would return to work today in the local coal fields, some mines announced resumption of production in neighboring areas. The single exception on the Upper Potomac Region was at Davis Coal and Coke Company mines in the vicinity of Thomas, W. Va. It was announced there the mines would operate today.

On the Elk River District, the Pardee and Curtin mines and the Golden Ridge Mines of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, were expected to work today, Western Maryland Railway officials said. In the Somerset, Pa., area and in the Fairmont, W. Va. district, a number of mines also planned to work today, it was reported.

The walkout started March 15, when Lewis told miners their contract had been "dishonored" because coal operators had failed to agree on a pension plan for miners. As the work stoppage entered its fifth week, an agreement was reached to pay miners 62 years of age a pension of $100 per month from a royalty fund set up by payment of 10 cents a ton royalty by producers.

The dispute over the contract did not involve wages, hours or the other clauses which usually bring about strikes and work stoppages.

Coal operators queried last night said they do not anticipate any increase in the price of coal, except among a few small operators who had been working on a very close margin. The four weeks of idleness may have hurt them financially to such an extent that their prices might go up a fraction of a dollar per ton, to off-set this loss of revenue. However, no general price increase appeared to be anticipated.

Cost Maryland Miners $250 Each

Miners in this area earn an average of $63.50 per week, coal operators claim, and with four full weeks of idleness, the loss per miner has already been over $250. With about 2,000 miners in this area, this is a direct payroll loss to Cumberland and neighboring communities of about half a million dollars, in addition to losses brought on by railroad and industrial furloughs, made necessary by the coal work stoppage.

David Watkins, international representative of United Mine Workers of America District No. 16, said last night he has no information on any return to work. He said Lewis has notified the men that an agreement had been reached on the question of pensions, but declared, "In view of the circumstances, I am not especially optimistic about any rush to return to work Tuesday. It takes a little time to get the men back after a stoppage, and it may be several days before production is back to normal."

Va., businessman, has been appointed deputy grand north moose for the Legion of the Moose for the jurisdiction embracing Cumberland, Frostburg, Oakland; Keyser, Moorefield, Romney, Charles Town, Franklin, W. Nowatski is a past governor of Keyser Lodge No. 662, LOOM. The next meeting of the Legion of the Moose will be held April 25 at 2:30 p. m. at Keyser.

City Plumbing Inspector Post May Be Filled

Buchholtz Suggests Combining Positions

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz suggested to the Mayor and Council yesterday that if the city employs a plumbing inspector, the position be combined with that of building engineer.

His proposal followed a comment by Monroe J. Sharer, local master plumber, that the city should fill the position of plumbing inspector.

The post, provided for in the city charter, has been vacant since the resignation of Paul Stein about six years ago. However, Walter "Pat" Kline, city sanitary inspector, served as acting plumber inspector until December, 1946.

The position of building engineer, provided by ordinance in the city code which was adopted in 1926, has been filled since that time by the city engineer in an acting capacity, with no increase in salary.

The charter fixes the salary of the plumbing inspector at $1,500 yearly and that of the building engineer at not more than $2,400. The latter must furnish a surety bond of $5,000, which City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer has done in his acting capacity.

Under the city charter, the plumbing inspector must be appointed by the Board of Health, subject to approval of the mayor.

Another master plumber, Frank J. Davis, said at yesterday's council meeting that the city code states the inspector must be a licensed master plumber, and that a state law would not allow the inspector to continue his own plumbing business if he is employed by the city.

(The city charter, however, specifies only that the inspector "shall be a practical plumber and skilled in matters pertaining to the sanitary regulations concerning plumbing work.")

Sharer was asked to submit data he has obtained from 10 different cities the size of Cumberland, most of which employ plumbing inspectors, regarding salaries paid the inspectors.

Council members indicated the matter would be considered when the budget for the 1948-49 fiscal year is prepared.

2-Inch Rainfall Causes Flood Scare In Area

Potomac River Hits Crest Of 8.4 Feet

A two-inch rainfall during the 24-hour period ending last night at 8 o'clock was welcomed by foresters and farmers, but caused a momentary scare in this valley area as the Potomac River and Wills Creek began a slow, steady rise.

The only overflow of the river, however, was reported at Oldtown, where the toll bridge across the Potomac on the road from Oldtown to Green Spring was under a foot of water at 7 p. m. and a street near the Oldtown school was also inundated by the river's back wash.

In Cumberland the river rose approximately four feet between 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. yesterday, and firemen said the Potomac River flood gates near Riverside Park where opened shortly after 5 p. m.

The river's crest, reached shortly after 7 p. m. was recorded at 8.4 feet approximately nine feet below flood stage. The local weather bureau reported that the most noticeable rise followed a hard downpour shortly after 6 o'clock last night.

The rain began shortly after midnight Sunday and continued into the early hours of yesterday, before the first of several periodic stops occurred.

Small streams feeding Wills Creek and the Potomac River from the mountains west of Cumberland were reported bank-full, but river authorities said the heavy precipitation would be carried off unless a continuous downpour would occur in the next 24-hour period.

To forestry officials and farmers the continued rains meant relief from an extended dry spell that was threatening to dry out the forests and pave the way for spring woodland fires.

The city weather observer, however, declared that while the flood danger was remote, he began his periodic check of the river, yesterday afternoon and would continue checking it every six hours until the water had receded below the eight-foot mark.

Lost Child Leaves Police Reluctantly

Although they were hours of anguish for his parents, Donald Easton was having the time of his 2½-year-old life yesterday afternoon as he rode along side police who were seeking to return him home.

The child wasn't very helpful when police tried to learn where he lived or who his parents were, after finding him playing between freight cars on the Western Maryland Railway tracks at the head of North Mechanic Street, shortly after 2 p. m.

Nor was he ready to return home when his mother, Mrs. Charles Easton, came to police station at 5 p. m. and explained he must have walked down the railroad tracks from Narrows Park.

Donald wanted to continue riding around in the "big car" with police looking at the North Cumberland homes. The fact that the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company had organized a searching party and was ready to begin hunting for him in the hillside, didn't phase the child a bit.

"I'll be home later," he told his mother when she arrived at headquarters. But Donald went home with his mother and police went back to patrol work.

Gephart is a nominee for election to the office of state councilor at the annual convention to be held in Baltimore April 20 and 21.

Potomac State Students Call Strike For Today

Protest Dismissal Of Two Classmates

Over 250 students met in the Rec Hall at Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., last night and voted to strike at 7:30 a. m. today unless two students, who have been asked to withdraw, are reinstated.

Last night students had prepared about 30 signs to be used for picketing the school's administration building today, and state the "strike means we will not attend classes."

The dispute between the Student Council and school officials began last week after the pair, a boy and a girl, had been asked to withdraw by the school executive committee. Dr. E. E. Church, president, said they had stayed out all night. Members of the student body say the boy and girl admit the infraction but state they are guilty of no other misconduct, and had they been given an opportunity, could have proved their innocence.

A student meeting was held last Thursday protesting the action of school officials, and at that time a statement on the situation was drawn by the students and a committee named to appeal to the executive board of the school.

Students claim the couple was ex-Church, Dean K. S. McKee and Dr. Nancy Miller, comprising the executive board.

The committee met with the executive board for nearly two hours Saturday, but was unsuccessful in getting the board to agree to reinstate the boy and girl, students said.

School officials said the boy involved is a veteran-student, in his sophomore year. He is enrolled, they explained, under the GI Bill of Rights, and lives on the campus in Arcadia Heights, a section of converted barracks which the students call "Splinter City."

The young man, school officials said, has been on probation because his grades have been below par, and he had been permitted to remain in an effort to bring his work up to normal.

The young woman, a freshman student, enrolled at the beginning of the current semester, officials said, and resided in the women's dormitory. Neither is a resident of Keyser, but lives in West Virginia towns in other counties.

Spokesmen for the students last night said the girl involved in the dispute submitted to medical examinations to show she has not been harmed in any way and is not guilty of any morals offense. Two medical reports were presented at the meeting last night. The young woman left school Friday, students said, but the young man was on the campus yesterday.

Following last night's meeting, a telegram was sent to Dr. Church who was reported attending the Rotary Club convention in Bedford, Pa., and students declared that unless the executive board agrees to reinstate the two, the strike will become effective at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

The school has an enrollment of about 650 students, about one-third of whom live on the campus.

Total Of $36,365.32 Received In Campaign

Naughton, former drive chairman and member of the steering committee for 1948.

Mrs. Beneman thanked the workers for their support in the drive, followed by a short talk by Naughton, who said the Allegany County people should be complimented on the success of their drive, since so many drives this year failed to reach their quota.

Chamber Of Commerce Aid Asked In 1947 Census Of Manufacturers

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce has been asked to assist in the 1947 national Census of Manufacturers which is being conducted by the Bureau of the Census, Harold W. Smith, secretary, announced yesterday.

The Bureau of the Census, he said, is engaged in the work of taking the first Census of Manufacturers in eight years since the last such survey was conducted in 1940.

The Census, according to J. C. Capt, director of the Bureau, is being conducted by mail in an effort to reduce the cost of the project to taxpayers.

The chief problem, Capt pointed out, is that of making sure that all manufacturing establishments are included in the project, adding it is quite possible some firms have been omitted from the mailing lists.

The Census bureau, Capt explained, is requesting the Chamber of Commerce to assist in giving wide notice to manufacturers that Census of Manufacturers reports covering 1947 operations should be submitted to the Bureau.

Manufacturers who have not received questionnaires, Capt said, should write to the Bureau of the Census, Washington, 25, D. C., giving their names and addresses and describing their principal products so the Bureau may send the correct form.

The Chamber of Commerce is also asked to encourage all manufacturers who have received questionnaires to complete and return the forms promptly.

The statistics derived from this census, the Bureau said, will be vital to the Chamber of Commerce of each community since the knowledge gained will be vital to them in planning for the future.

The 1940 Manufactures Census covered operations of some 184,230 establishments in 1939. The current survey is expected to enumerate a total of about 250,000 firms operating in 1947.

In urging the fullest co-operation of industry in the census, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States termed the project of "exceptional importance," adding the records of 1939 are "hopelessly inadequate and obsolete as a basis for today's business planning."

The rise in prices, costs and wages since 1939, the geographical shifts of industry, the thousands of new industries appearing and old ones growing or declining, the great increase in manufacturing output,

Banker Conclave Is Scheduled For Thursday

The annual spring meeting of Group 1, Maryland Bankers Association, will be held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club on Thursday night, April 15.

Highlighting the program which has been arranged will be a talk by Raymond F. Mikesell, financial consultant to the United States Department of State, who will talk on the "European Recovery Program."

Mikesell is a Ph.D. graduate of Ohio State. He is a former instructor at the University of Washington and joined the Treasury Department in 1942 and during 1943-44 served that department in Cairo, Egypt.

He was the financial consultant for Bretton Wood and was an economic advisor to the Cabinet committee on Palestine which met in London in July 1946.

Another speaker on the program will be William A. Allnut, a partner in the Baker Watson Company of the New York Stock Exchange, who has been working with banks for the past 20 years. He will talk on "United States Government Bonds."

The dinner meeting will get underway at 6 o'clock with over 100 directors and officers of the member banks of Garrett and Allegany counties expected to be present.

Howard Riggs, chairman of Group 1, will preside over the session. Riggs is cashier of the Garrett National Bank, Oakland.

The cashier of the First National Bank, Cumberland, H. C. Landis, is in charge of arrangements.

Ridgeley Pre-School Clinic To Be Held Thursday

A diphtheria and smallpox immunization clinic for pre-school age children will be held in Ridgeley High School Thursday morning at 10 o'clock by Mrs. Henrietta Allen, Mineral County health nurse.

This clinic will be the only one of the year and anyone not taking advantage of it will have to go to a physician, according to M. M. Heiskell, principal.

The Weather

The weatherman is in a rut, and a bad one at that. He's predicting the same kind of weather today that prevailed Monday, and that's no good, except for sellers of rain equipment and the May flowers. So today you may expect cloudiness and a wee bit cooler weather, with ocasional showers. The mercury had a hard time climbing Monday but it finally hit a high of 61 degrees, but fell to 47 last night at 10 o'clock. The low for the 24-hour period was 41 degrees. Rainfall totaled 1.95 inches.

LaVale Soldier Is Arrested In Drug Store Assault Case

Edgar W. Bryner Confesses Attack

A discarded blackjack yesterday led to the return here of a 20-year-old LaVale soldier from his Army post to face charges of assaulting a local drug store proprietress with a deadly weapon, according to Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn.

Identified as Edgar W. Bryner, stationed at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, police said the youth confessed to assaulting Mrs. Helen Stark at her drug store, corner of North Centre and Knox Streets, last Thursday "to get some money."

The LaVale soldier, who admitted he was AWOL at the time he assaulted Mrs. Stark, was returned here by Lt. Detective Edwin R. Lilya and Detective Thomas J. See after being identified through a blackjack that he discarded while fleeing from the store.

Bryner in his statement made to the two detectives said he struck Mrs. Stark over the head with a blackjack purchased in Cumberland about four weeks ago when she refused to go to a back room as he commanded her.

Walked To Home

After striking the victim, Bryner told police he fled down Centre Street to Bow Street where he cut over to Mechanic Street and then continued up Market Street to Washington Street and on to Braddock Road from where he walked to LaVale.

The youth, who had been AWOL from his post for several days, according to police, returned to camp the following day. Chief Flynn said the blackjack found on Bow Street led to the identity of Bryner and the two detectives were sent to Aberdeen Sunday.

"I never intended to strike her," police quoted the youth as saying, "but only intenden to get money from the cash register after I forced her into the back room."

Bryner told police he waited in the store for about 15 minutes after purchasing some worming pills for a dog, and then when the proprietress returned from answering a telephone in the back room he struck her.

Police said they were not sure when the soldier came here from camp but Chief Flynn explained they learned he was at Aberdeen after a detective was sent to the LaVale home last Saturday.

To Be Questioned Further

Bryner was returned to the City Jail yesterday at 2:40 p. m. and booked as "held for investigation." He will be taken to the office of the State's Attorney today for further questioning.

Authorities said the youth's statement and other evidence will probably be presented to the present term of grand jury which convened yesterday morning.

Following the assault Mrs. Stark was treated by a local physician for a deep laceration on the top of her head which the physician said required two clamps to close. She returned to work at the store about an hour later.

Ten Indictments Found By Grand Jury First Day

The April term of Circuit Court grand jury, with Dr. John L. Dunkle, former president of Frostburg State Teachers College, as foreman, began deliberations yesterday morning, returned 10 indictments and sent a committee to visit the Allegany County Home and Infirmary.

The charge to the grand jury was delivered by Chief Judge William A. Huster, in which he made an eloquent appeal for equality, justice and the banishment of prejudice in all forms.

After outlining the inspections and other duties of the grand jurors as described by law, Judge Huster said in part:

"It is further customary for a judge to instruct the incoming jurors as to their duties and responsibilities. Fateful events brood over this year, which might appear to dwarf the routine, often humdrum, processes of justice. And yet, vast as will be the enterprises in which our country will engage, their success, their lines of communication, so to speak, will depend for maintenance upon the discharge of our work-a-day chores.

Must Decide On Evidence

"For example, a conscientious juror should recognize that abhorrent as a specific principle of law may seem by his concepts of justice, he must take the law from the court and not substitute his personal notions of what the law should be, or, a juror accepting the full responsibility and dignity of his role as judge of the facts, would appreciate without instructions that he must not prejudge the case until the trial has been concluded. As I recite these directions to attentive jurors, their purpose must become self-evident, so I shall limit myself to a final equally manifest, but most important injunction, against deciding any question upon extraneous

Charter Committee Suggests Naming Legal Advisers

Full Commission To Consider Proposals

Appointment of legal consultants to aid the Cumberland Charter Commission was recommended last night at the first meeting of the committee on procedure, which was appointed recently by Isaac Hirsch, commission chairman.

W. Earle Cobey, vice chairman and a member of the sub-committee, suggested that Charles Z. Heskett, former city attorney; David Kauffman, local attorney and past president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, and the county attorney be asked to serve in a consultant capacity.

Mr. Hirsch pointed out that City Attorney Thomas B. Finan is considered an ex-officio member of the commission, which was appointed by Mayor Thomas S. Post.

The recommendation will be presented at the next meeting of the full commission, scheduled for next Monday night, April 19, at 7:30 o'clock in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Last night's session was held at the home of Mr. Hirsch, 646 Washington Street.

Other Proposals Made

Other recommendations which will be presented to the commission next Monday follow:

1. Preparation of an information kit for each of the 14 commission members, containing copies of the present city charter; the two charters drawn up by Mr. Hirsch and Heskett in 1929 and 1939, respectively; and such data from the National Municipal League as may be considered necessary.

(The Hirsch charter was approved by the General Assembly but vetoed by Governor Ritchie, while the Heskett charter failed to pass the Assembly.)

2. That the commission as a whole decide the essential parts of which the charter is to be made, such as the type of organization of the city government, with the chairman to appoint sub-committees to study each section.

3. That public hearings be held to receive suggestions regarding the proposed new charter from Cumberland citizens, and that the commission invite the public to submit written suggestions by mail.

Hearings Suggested

Hitchins suggested that from one to three public hearings be held at the outset to determine public sentiment regarding various types of city government.

Frank A. Wolfhope, a member of the committee on procedure, suggested that a committee be named to visit the various city departments to obtain suggestions regarding the formulation of a charter.

However, Cobey and Owen E. Hitchins pointed out that the various sub-committees could conduct that phase of the study.

Appointment of the sub-committees to study the problems and needs of the various city departments was suggested by Cobey. Hitchins said a similar procedure was used by the Sherbow Commission during its study of the allocation of state funds to incorporated municipalities, counties and towns.

Others attending last night's meeting were George Buchanan and John M. Robb, commission secretary. The fifth member of the committee, Thomas Lohr Richards, was unable to attend.

Negotiations To Reopen Today At Moorefield

With over 60 of the 70 employes of the J. Natwick and Company, Moorefield, W. Va., plant on strike, negotiations will get underway today at 10 o'clock, Price Riggleman, president of the striking Furniture Workers Union, said last night.

The management, represented by J. M. Martin, plant superintendent, and John C. Cook, of the Baltimore office, will meet with the negotiating committee.

Both Martin and Riggleman were hopeful that a decision would be reached at the session.

Decree Signed

Chief Judge William A. Huster signed a decree in Circuit Court yesterday granting a divorce to Jaqueline Mae Hillebrecht, Ellerslie, from Fred J. Hillebrecht. She was granted custody of a child.

Rubber Workers Will Open Wage Talks Thursday

Health And Welfare Plans To Be Asked

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, will open negotiations with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Thursday for a 30-cents an hour wage increase, A. E. Johnson, president, reported yesterday.

He said the union, at the meeting planned Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Kelly plant, will formally present the wage boost plans set down by the URCLPWA which include a health and welfare program.

When the URCLPWA began laying plans for the wage increase in February, L. S. Buckmaster, president, said the request for the increase is "simply an effort to restore the living standards of Rubber Workers, which have been steadily decreasing under the impact of rising living costs."

The local will elect two members of its contract negotiating committee at a meeting planned Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Johnson said.

Other special business scheduled for that meeting are the election of two delegates to the Western Maryland labor Unity Conference and discussion and action on the local's participation in the co-operative movement here.

The Local 26 executive board will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

The Lay Section of the Health Department is working with other agencies in the campaign. These groups provide volunteer services in rural areas and towns and plan programs in conjunction with the County Health Department.

Only Few Area Mines To Resume Work Today

Operators Ready But Miners Still Waiting

Mine operators in the Georges Creek and Upper Potomac River soft coal regions said last night, as did local railroad officials, that mines are ready for operation today, if the miners return to work. Railroad cars have been placed on sidings, mine pits have been inspected and fans and power plants started.

However, union officials were non-commital and some were pessimistic over the situation.

With John L. Lewis facing contempt of court charges and his arraignment set for Wednesday morning, it seemed apparent here last night that some miners would remain away from the pits until this action is settled.

Some union miners ventured the opinion that "even those who might return to work Tuesday don't have to continue to work if Lewis is fined again."

When the agreement was reached on pensions, Lewis sent telegrams to the various United Mine Workers districts telling the miners the contract had been honored. This was regarded as a signal to return to work, but district officials in various sections said, "We are not too optimistic and do not look for full production until the hearing on the contempt charge is over."

Mines Open At Thomas

While there was little assurance last night that miners would return to work today in the local coal fields, some mines announced resumption of production in neighboring areas. The single exception on the Upper Potomac Region was at Davis Coal and Coke Company mines in the vicinity of Thomas, W. Va. It was announced there the mines would operate today.

On the Elk River District, the Pardee and Curtin mines and the Golden Ridge Mines of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, were expected to work today. Western Maryland Railway officials said. In the Somerset, Pa., area and in the Fairmont, W. Va. district, a number of mines also planned to work today, it was reported.

The walkout started March 15, when Lewis told miners their contract had been "dishonored" because coal operators had failed to agree on a pension plan for miners. As the work stoppage entered its fifth week, an agreement was reached to pay miners 62 years of age a pension of $100 per month from a royalty fund set up by payment of 10 cents a ton royalty by producers.

The dispute over the contract did not involve wages, hours or the other clauses which usually bring about strikes and work stoppages.

Coal operators queried last night said they do not anticipate any increase in the price of coal, except among a few small operators who had been working on a very close margin. The four weeks of idleness may have hurt them financially to such an extent that their prices might go up a fraction of a dollar per ton, to off-set this loss of revenue. However, no general price increase appeared to be anticipated.

Cost Maryland Miners $250 Each

Miners in this area earn an average of $63.50 per week, coal operators claim, and with four full weeks of idleness, the loss per miner has already been over $250. With about 2,000 miners in this area, this is a direct payroll loss to Cumberland and neighboring communities of about half a million dollars, in addition to losses brought on by railroad and industrial furloughs, made necessary by the coal work stoppage.

David Watkins, international representative of United Mine Workers of America District No. 16, said last night he has no information on any return to work. He said Lewis has notified the men that an agreement had been reached on the question of pensions, but declared, "In view of the circumstances, I am not especially optimistic about any rush to return to work Tuesday. It takes a little time to get the men back after a stoppage, and it may be several days before production is back to normal."

City Plumbing Inspector Post May Be Filled

Buchholtz Suggests Combining Positions

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz suggested to the Mayor and Council yesterday that if the city employs a plumbing inspector, the position be combined with that of building engineer.

His proposal followed a comment by Monroe J. Sharer, local master plumber, that the city should fill the position of plumbing inspector.

The post, provided for in the city charter, has been vacant since the resignation of Paul Stein about six years ago. However, Walter "Pat" Kline, city sanitary inspector, served as acting plumber inspector until December, 1946.

The position of building engineer, provided by ordinance in the city code which was adopted in 1926, has been filled since that time by the city engineer in an acting capacity, with no increase in salary.

The charter fixes the salary of the plumbing inspector at $1,500 yearly and that of the building engineer at not more than $2,400. The latter must furnish a surety bond of $5,000, which City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer has done in his acting capacity.

Under the city charter, the plumbing inspector must be appointed by the Board of Health, subject to approval of the mayor.

Another master plumber, Frank J. Davis, said at yesterday's council meeting that the city code states the inspector must be a licensed master plumber, and that a state law would not allow the inspector to continue his own plumbing business if he is employed by the city.

(The city charter, however, specifies only that the inspector "shall be a practical plumber and skilled in matters pertaining to the sanitary regulations concerning plumbing work.")

Sharer was asked to submit data he has obtained from 10 different cities the size of Cumberland, most of which employ plumbing inspectors, regarding salaries paid the inspectors.

Council members indicated the matter would be considered when the budget for the 1948-49 fiscal year is prepared.

2-Inch Rainfall Causes Flood Scare In Area

Potomac River Hits Crest Of 8.4 Feet

A two-inch rainfall during the 24-hour period ending last night at 8 o'clock was welcomed by foresters and farmers, but caused a momentary scare in this valley area as the Potomac River and Wills Creek began a slow, steady rise.

The only overflow of the river, however, was reported at Oldtown, where the toll bridge across the Potomac on the road from Oldtown to Green Spring was under a foot of water at 7 p. m. and a street near the Oldtown school was also inundated by the river's back wash.

In Cumberland the river rose approximately four feet between 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. yesterday, and firemen said the Potomac River flood gates near Riverside Park where opened shortly after 5 p. m.

The river's crest, reached shortly after 7 p. m. was recorded at 8.4 feet approximately nine feet below flood stage. The local weather bureau reported that the most noticeable rise followed a hard downpour shortly after 6 o'clock last night.

The rain began shortly after midnight Sunday and continued into the early hours of yesterday, before the first of several periodic stops occurred.

Small streams feeding Wills Creek and the Potomac River from the mountains west of Cumberland were reported bank-full, but river authorities said the heavy precipitation would be carried off unless a continuous downpour would occur in the next 24-hour period.

To forestry officials and farmers the continued rains meant relief from an extended dry spell that was threatening to dry out the forests and pave the way for spring woodland fires.

The city weather observer, however, declared that while the flood danger was remote, he began his periodic check of the river, yesterday afternoon and would continue checking it every six hours until the water had receded below the eight-foot mark.

Lost Child Leaves Police Reluctantly

Although they were hours of anguish for his parents, Donald Easton was having the time of his 2½-year-old life yesterday afternoon as he rode along side police who were seeking to return him home.

The child wasn't very helpful when police tried to learn where he lived or who his parents were, after finding him playing between freight cars on the Western Maryland Railway tracks at the head of North Mechanic Street, shortly after 2 p. m.

Nor was he ready to return home when his mother, Mrs. Charles Easton, came to police station at 5 p. m. and explained he must have walked down the railroad tracks from Narrows Park.

Donald wanted to continue riding around in the "big car" with police looking at the North Cumberland homes. The fact that the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company had organized a searching party and was ready to begin hunting for him in the hillside, didn't phase the child a bit.

"I'll be home later," he told his mother when she arrived at headquarters. But Donald went home with his mother and police went back to patrol work.

Chamber Of Commerce Aid Asked In 1947 Census Of Manufacturers

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce has been asked to assist in the 1947 national Census of Manufacturers which is being conducted by the Bureau of the Census, Harold W. Smith, secretary, announced yesterday.

The Bureau of the Census, he said, is engaged in the work of taking the first Census of Manufacturers in eight years since the last such survey was conducted in 1940.

The Census, according to J. C. Capt, director of the Bureau, is being conducted by mail in an effort to reduce the cost of the project to taxpayers.

The chief problem, Capt pointed out, is that of making sure that all manufacturing establishments are included in the project, adding it is quite possible some firms have been omitted from the mailing lists.

The Census bureau, Capt explained, is requesting the Chamber of Commerce to assist in giving wide notice to manufacturers that Census of Manufacturers reports covering 1947 operations should be submitted to the Bureau.

Manufacturers who have not received questionnaires, Capt said, should write to the Bureau of the Census, Washington, 25, D. C., giving their names and addresses and describing their principal products so the Bureau may send the correct form.

The Chamber of Commerce is also asked to encourage all manufacturers who have received questionnaires to complete and return the forms promptly.

The statistics derived from this census, the Bureau said, will be vital to the Chamber of Commerce of each community since the knowledge gained will be vital to them in planning for the future.

The 1940 Manufactures Census covered operations of some 184,230 establishments in 1939. The current survey is expected to enumerate a total of about 250,000 firms operating in 1947.

In urging the fullest co-operation of industry in the census, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States termed the project of "exceptional importance," adding the records of 1939 are "hopelessly inadequate and obsolete as a basis for today's business planning."

The rise in prices, costs and wages since 1939, the geographical shifts of industry, the thousands of new industries appearing and old ones growing or declining, the great increase in manufacturing output,

Twenty county 4-H Club boys enrolled in a tractor maintenance course last night, being sponsored for 4-H Club leaders as an extension project.

The first session, according to Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, was held at Wilbur Collins Garage, Baltimore Pike. Collins gave a demonstration on lubrication of the tractor, engine, transmission and universal. V. J. Lydinger, of United Distributors, gave a lecture on oil.

Those enrolled include Carl Twigg, Earl Twigg, Wade Darr, Robert Griese, Harold Heavner, Robert Heavner, Franklin Heavner, Donald Buser, Thomas Miltenberger, Joseph Miltenberger, Roger Heavner, Thomas Buser, Charles Stafford, Clyde Warnick, Gene Teter, Floyd Mullan, Michael Raines, Renice Pollock, Frank House and Roy Shyrock.

The next class will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at Light and Decker Garage, South Centre Street, at which time another phase of maintenence of tractors will be outlined.

Steger said last night that any county farm boys interested in the course may attend Thursday.

Gephart Group To Meet

The Gephart Playground Association will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the school, to discuss plans for playground improvements and other developments in the section.

Protest Dismissal Of Two Classmates

Over 250 students met in the Rec Hall at Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., last night and voted to strike at 7:30 a. m. today unless two students, who have been asked to withdraw, are reinstated.

Last night students had prepared about 30 signs to be used for picketing the school's administration building today, and state the "strike means we will not attend classes."

The dispute between the Student Council and school officials began last week after the pair, a boy and a girl, had been asked to withdraw by the school executive committee. Dr. E. E. Church, president, said they had stayed out all night. Members of the student body say the boy and girl admit the infraction but state they are guilty of no other misconduct, and had they been given an opportunity, could have proved their innocence.

A student meeting was held last Thursday protesting the action of school officials, and at that time a statement on the situation was drawn by the students and a committee named to appeal to the executive board of the school.

Students claim the couple was ex-Church, Dean K. S. McKee and Dr. Nancy Miller, comprising the executive board.

The committee met with the executive board for nearly two hours Saturday, but was unsuccessful in getting the board to agree to reinstate the boy and girl, students said.

School officials said the boy involved is a veteran-student, in his sophomore year. He is enrolled, they explained, under the GI Bill of Rights, and lives on the campus in Arcadia Heights, a section of converted barracks which the students call "Splinter City."

The young man, school officials said, has been on probation because his grades have been below par, and he had been permitted to remain in an effort to bring his work up to normal.

The young woman, a freshman student, enrolled at the beginning of the current semester, officials said, and resided in the women's dormitory. Neither is a resident of Keyser, but lives in West Virginia towns in other counties.

Spokesmen for the students last night said the girl involved in the dispute submitted to medical examinations to show she has not been harmed in any way and is not guilty of any morals offense. Two medical reports were presented at the meeting last night. The young woman left school Friday, students said, but the young man was on the campus yesterday.

Following last night's meeting, a telegram was sent to Dr. Church who was reported attending the Rotary Club convention in Bedford, Pa., and students declared that unless the executive board agrees to reinstate the two, the strike will become effective at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

The school has an enrollment of about 650 students, about one-third of whom live on the campus.

Banker Conclave Is Scheduled For Thursday

The annual spring meeting of Group 1, Maryland Bankers Association, will be held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club on Thursday night, April 15.

Highlighting the program which has been arranged will be a talk by Raymond F. Mikesell, financial consultant to the United States Department of State, who will talk on the "European Recovery Program."

Mikesell is a Ph.D. graduate of Ohio State. He is a former instructor at the University of Washington and joined the Treasury Department in 1942 and during 1943-44 served that department in Cairo, Egypt.

He was the financial consultant for Bretton Wood and was an economic advisor to the Cabinet committee on Palestine which met in London in July 1946.

Another speaker on the program will be William A. Alinut, a partner in the Baker Watson Company of the New York Stock Exchange, who has been working with banks for the past 20 years. He will talk on "United States Government Bonds."

The dinner meeting will get underway at 6 o'clock with over 100 directors and officers of the member banks of Garrett and Allegany counties expected to be present.

Howard Riggs, chairman of Group 1, will preside over the session. Riggs is cashier of the Garrett National Bank, Oakland.

Ridgeley Pre-School Clinic To Be Held Thursday

A diphtheria and smallpox immunization clinic for pre-school age children will be held in Ridgeley High School Thursday morning at 10 o'clock by Mrs. Henrietta Allen, Mineral County health nurse.

This clinic will be the only one of the year and anyone not taking advantage of it will have to go to a physician, according to M. M. Heiskell, principal.

The Weather

The weatherman is in a rut, and a bad one at that. He's predicting the same kind of weather today that prevailed Monday, and that's no good, except for sellers of rain equipment and the May flowers. So today you may expect cloudiness and a wee bit cooler weather, with ocasional showers. The mercury had a hard time climbing Monday but it finally hit a high of 61 degrees, but fell to 47 last night at 10 o'clock. The low for the 24-hour period was 41 degrees. Rainfall totaled 1.95 inches.

Woman With Wounds Like Crucified Christ Described By Frostburger

The sufferings of a Konnersreuth, Bavaria, woman who on Good Friday bleeds at the hands, feet and shoulders similar to the markings of the crucified Christ, were described in a letter by a former Frostburg woman who witnessed the scene last Good Friday.

According to Mrs. Sally Lanasa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Price, Frostburg, she and her husband, Capt. Philip Lanasa, who is serving in Germany with the United States Army, visited the home of Teresa Neumann, who has aroused world-wide interest by the strange affliction.

Mrs. Lanasa describes her visit as follows:

"Teresa Neumann, who refuses any publicity, lives in a tiny little house. Her suffering is something none of us could believe until we saw it. One of the doctors who had been there last year said he thought it was a miracle. Along with the cripples, the blind and the maimed we were permitted to walk into her room on the second floor.

"She was sitting up in bed and I never experienced such a feeling as when I saw square holes in her hands like nail holes from which blood flowed. Blood also flowed from her shoulder where Christ carried the cross and her eyes and the mark of the thorns was on her forehead. A doctor in our party watched her for a long time and said that she lost enough blood to kill an ordinary person. A camera fan in the party tried to take a picture of her, but was ordered to leave by a priest when Teresa started weird moans of pain. The priest explained when someone in the room is very evil and does something displeasing to God, she (Teresa Neumann) suffers more pain.

"This visit is something I'll never forget. I came away — in fact all of us did — with a feeling of being unable to explain or understand what we saw, something not of this world. She claims no healing power or miracles, but the blind and cripples come away feeling their affliction less for having seen the agonies of the cross. It's a strange world."

According to Mrs. Lanasa, a majority of the pilgrims, American and German, said they were convinced they had seen a supernatural phenomenon. Some called it a miracle. Only a few believed that medicine or science would find an answer.

Mrs. Lanasa, a graduate and later a teacher at Beall High School, is also a graduate of Western Maryland College. Her husband is also a graduate of Western Maryland.
